Support of 3,000 Troops Claimed

Fear of Violence Grows Despite Quiet Entry of New Cabinet.

Havana's Hotel National last night remained the focal point of interest in the turbulent situation, with 500 army officers, loyal to the deposed De Cespedes regime, barricaded inside, heavily armed, insisting in the face of a presidential ultimatum that De Cespedes be returned.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Havana, Sept. 12.—A Cuban government made up exclusively of men who fought to oust Gerardo Machado tonight took this island's destinies into its hands as several hundred army officers, outspoken in their opposition, remained barricaded in their hotel.

One month to the day after Machado was ousted, the new president, Dr. Ramon Grau San Martin, swore in his cabinet of eight men who battled with him against Machado.

Cheered By Crowds.

"I feel happy to say that Cuba at last is free among the civilized nations of the world," the president told a loudly-cheering crowd in the palace to witness the swearing in of the cabinet."

Fears were expressed violence might result from the attitude of the Army officers, who lost their posts in the coup of noncommissioned officers and enlisted men which drove Carlos Manuel de Cespedes from office.

Now barricaded several days in the National Hotel the officers remained adamant that Grau San Martin retire to make way for De Cespedes.

Demand Rejected.

Similar demands were made on the radical junta which preceded the present administration. They were rejected.

Openly the officers scoffed at an ultimatum issued by Grau San Martin that they swing into line within 24 or 36 hours. They counted on

Gang Gets $20,000; Flees With Clerk

Kidnaped Bank Employe Freed Quickly.

Farrell, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP).—Ten gunmen robbed the S. J. Gully Bank of $20,000 in cash and bonds today, kidnaped an employe and roared across the State line into Ohio.

Carl Wild, 21, was taken to Youngstown and released, unharmed.

About $10,000 of the loot is in currency and $10,000 in securities.

Armed with sawed-off shotguns and pistols, eight raiders entered the bank. Two companions waited outside in two automobiles.

The hold-up was executed so swiftly and skilfully that two customers who left through a side door as the bandits came in the front entrance did not know that a robbery was in progress.

Gully said the robbers overlooked "a large amount" of cash and checks stored in boxes.

Borah Sees Silver As U. S. Panacea

Permanent Remonetization Plan Held Necessary.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 12 (AP).—The hope that any action Congress might take to remonetize silver would be a permanent program was expressed here today by Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho.

The senator's comment was made when asked to express an opinion on a prediction of Senator Key Pittman, of Neveda, that Congress will take steps to remonetize silver shortly.

Some day the conclusion will be reached, Borah continued, that what is needed "is more money and less bonds and interest."

"Sixty billion dollars of our deposits—credit and currency—have shrunk in the past four years to about forty billions and we must consider putting more money in circulation."

Firemen Routed In Poison Battle On Cricket Horde

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 12 (AP).—Three companies of firemen battled an army of crickets with poison powder today but gave up with 11 firemen overcome, the others in retreat—and the crickets chirping merrily on.

The pests have taken possession of a large dumping ground. For more than a week they have withstood attacks from fire, water and oil.

Today's powder barrage only added to the city officials' difficulties. It seems the poison brought out roaches and rats which hitherto had not figured in the combat.

Court Upholds Post Claim to Federal Diary

Motion Is Granted for Injunction Against Times Company.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins in District Supreme Court yesterday handed down an opinion holding The Washington Post Publishing Co. has established a trade-mark in the title, "The Federal Diary."

Justice Adkins also granted The Post's motion for a preliminary injunction restraining the Washington Times Co. from using "The Federal Diary" as the title of a column or department in any newspaper published by it.

The decision of Justice Adkins followed the filing of a complaint and a motion for a preliminary injunction by The Post when the Washington Herald, published by the Washington Times Co., advertised that it would carry a column called "The Federal Diary" although that feature had appeared continuously in The Post since November, 1932, and is still being published by The Post.

Claimed Ownership.

In its complaint The Post alleged that it was entitled to the ownership and exclusive use of the title, "The Federal Diary," as a trademark. There was attached to the complaint a letter to that effect addressed by The Post to the Washington Times Co. on August 15.

The letter stated that any use of the title, "The Federal Diary," by the Washington Times Co. would constitute an infringement of The Post's trade-mark.

The Washington Times Co. refused to recognize The Post's right to the title and suit was then filed by The Post.

Rules on Three Points.

Justice Adkins ruled on three points in the suit. He denied the defendant's motion to dismiss the case; granted the preliminary injunction and expressed the opinion that The Post had established a trade-mark to "The Federal Diary." The Post was represented by the firm of Covington, Burling & Rublee.

Scribblings on Crutch Betray Policy Writer

A policeman saw Paulus, a cripple, standing on a street corner. Men would approach him, hold a brief conversation and then Paulus would write something on his crutch.

The policeman examined the crutch. Several numbers had been scribbled on it. The policeman arrested Paulus for possessing policy numbers, a gambling game.

2 Senate Probes Scheduled Soon

Bank Inquiry Resumption and Mail Quiz Slated.

(Associated Press.)

Two senatorial investigations—one new—will get under way shortly.

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Senate Banking Committee, which has been investigating the banking and stock market situations for months, will come here this week to confer with Chairman Fletcher regarding resumption of the inquiry October 3.

The new inquiry, concerning air and ocean mail subsidies, starts September 26. This was to have begun today, but previous engagements of Senators White, Maine, and Austin, Vermont, Republicans, caused the postponement.

Traffic Crash Fatal To Philadelphia Man

Emil Tamminen, 25, of Philadelphia, died in Casualty Hospital early today from injuries received when his motorcycle crashed with an automobile near Twenty-sixth street and Benning road northeast.

Eugene Lloyd, of Birmington, N. C., who police said was driving the car, is held at the Ninth Precinct Station pending a coroner's inquest.

Few Firms of Midwest Have Signed NRA Code

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP).—F. L. Roberts, district manager of the United States Department of Commerce, revealed today that only 218,912 of upproximately 500,000 eligible business firms in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa have signed the blanket code of the NRA.

Those under the code employ 1,659,130 persons.

General Mine Strike Feared In Code Row

Separate Pacts Urged; Richberg Threatens Recalcitrants.

"Compliance Boards" in Other Industries to Assure Harmony.

Work on the bituminous coal code dragged yesterday, while reports of increasing unrest throughout mine fields poured into NRA headquarters, and many observers expressed fear further delay would precipitate a strike involving thousands and tying up most of the mines.

Labor leaders have charged operators with deliberately prolonging negotiations to give time for piling up reserve coal stocks before higher wages and shorter hours became effective.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, and other union officers have fought to keep down the revolt spirit among miners, but in the last few days they have become silent and were said to feel it was unfair to ask them to sit on the lid while negotiations dragged along with no material progress by operators.

Separate Codes Suggested.

A major difficulty has been unwillingness of operators to agree on a basis for a code among themselves, aside from labor contracts negotiation with organized labor. This was emphasized by Donald R. Richberg, NRA general counsel, as Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, renewed efforts for an agreement.

Drafting of separate codes for industry divisions was suggested by Richberg, addressing operators and labor leaders at the public hearing in the Commerce Department auditorium.

Richberg assured operators there had been a "very grave misunderstanding" about Johnson's aim in submitting a mining code. The whole NRA purpose was to develop self-government, not impose a code on any industry, he said.

May Want Federal Help.

"If it is found this can not be done nationally, then it may be done by districts and if that can not be agreed on, it may be operators will want to consider aid of the Government," Richberg added.

"If small groups are as irreconcilable as they seem to be we will proceed without them.

Two committees representing organized operators and minorities were appointed at the administration suggestion and these met with Kenneth M. Simpson, deputy administrator. Their report will be submitted to another committee with power to act.

While coal negotiations continued the NRA announced Nation-wide

Sleep Plague Kills Six More

Toll in St. Louis Area Is Now 126; Prison Is Quarantined.

St. Louis, Sept. 12 (AP).—The epidemic of encephalitis in the St. Louis area today had added six to the death list.

Since July 30, when the malady was first discovered, 126 have died and 741 have been afflicted.

Many of the first cases have recovered, with few bad effects. Hundreds remain in hospitals.

Dr. Paul Zentay, assistant city health commissioner, said letters are being received, asking whether it is safe to visit St. Louis.

"The number of patients in proportion to the population of St. Louis and St. Louis County is so small," he said, "that visiting St. Louis entails no more hazard than taking a train ride."

Officials at the State Penitentiary at Jefferson City announced a quarantine today. No prisoners will be received and visitors will be barred.

Total deaths in the State in the last six weeks from the disease number 140.

D. C. Kidnaper Sentenced Eight Hours After Capture

Justice was swift in Alexandria (Va.) Corporation Court yesterday. Within eight hours after capture, one of two men, who earlier in the day kidnaped a Washington taxi driver, sped to Richmond and held up a gasoline station, was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Littleton May, 19, who said he lived in Washington, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery and was on his way to jail last night. May's alleged companion, Dallas C. Williford, 25, also of Washington, pleaded not guilty. His hearing was set for September 26. Both men were arrested by Alexandria police on a lookout broadcast from Washington.

They engaged the taxi of Edward E. Bowen, of 46 Randolph street northwest, and told him to drive to Alexandria. Bowen said he was forced at gunpoint to surrender the driver's seat, and one of the men drove to Richmond.

With the taxi driver a prisoner on the rear seat, they drove into a gas station and robbed the proprietor, R. F. Cocoli, of $21. Williford denied participation in the robbery, but declared he did aid in kidnaping Bowen.

The taxi driver was forced from the car near Fredericksburg. He hailed a passing machine and reported to Alexandria police. Bowen said he was robbed of $6.

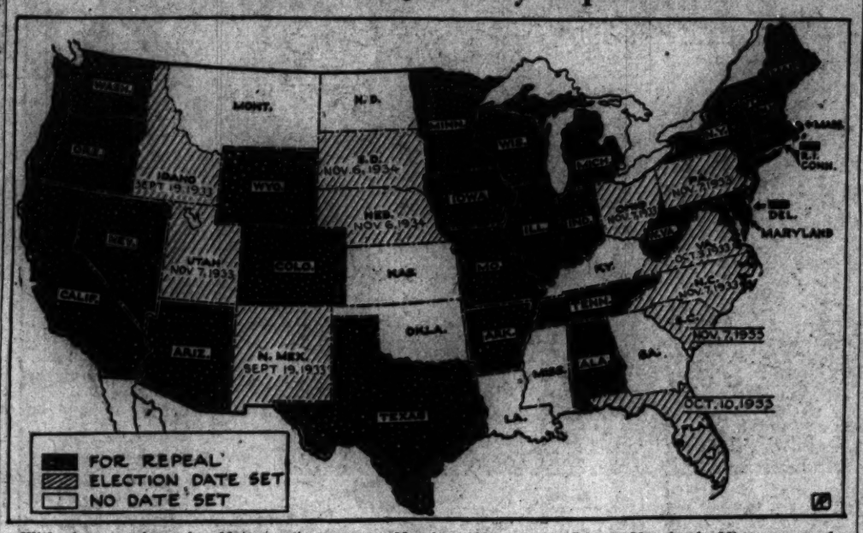
Two revolvers and a supply of ammunition were found in the taxi.

Monkeys, Not Kittens, Bite Girl Petting Them

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 12 (AP).—Dianne Deigna, 2½ years old, was guilty of an error in judgment when she mistook two monkeys for kittens and tried to pet them.

The animals bit and scratched Dianne, her nurse and another woman. Police were called in an attempt to track them down.

Three More States Join Dry Repeal Parade



With the once bone-dry Maine voting wet on Monday, three more States—Maryland, Minnesota and Colorado—yesterday expressed their demand for repeal of the national prohibition amendment.

Strike Is Likely To Halt Public Building Work

Walkout of Carpenters May Cause Cessation of Construction.

The jurisdictional dispute between carpenters and iron workers on the Labor-Interstate Commerce Commission Building project was climaxed last night with announcement that operations will cease Friday morning, throwing 1,000 men out of work if the dispute is not settled by that time.

Edward A. Burnap, construction superintendent, decided to suspend all work after efforts to have the American Federation of Labor, Department of Labor and Treasury Department settle the controversy had failed.

"The company (James Stewart & Co., Inc.) is neutral," Mr. Burnap said. "Our only concern is to maintain efficient operation and the carpenters' walkout made this impossible. If the carpenters have not returned Friday morning, we will pay the men and stop work until there is an understanding."

Every carpenter on the Constitution avenue Federal job, about 75, struck September 1 in protest against installation of radiator inclosures by iron workers.

Installation of the equipment was stopped when the carpenters walked out in hope it would hasten settlement. As a result, progress in all departments has been impeded and plans to add 150 skilled workmen in other trades have been dropped.

Construction already is far behind schedule, which called for completion of the interconnected buildings in February.

Shoe Workers Quit.

Carthage, Mo., Sept. 12 (AP).—Two factories of the Carmo Shoe Co. here closed today as a result of a second walkout of workers within a month. Between 500 and 600 workers are idle.

Garment Workers Strike.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—A strike call was issued today in the New York underwear industry, and union leaders estimated 25,000 workers answered the call.

14-Story Fall Kills Kin of Governor

San Francisco, Sept. 12 (U.P.).—Robert C. Reid, vice president of the Balfour-Gurhite Co., international sales organization, jumped 14 stories to his death from the top of the Balfour Building here today. Authorities said Reid left a note that proved the leap was suicide.

His body struck the top of a 2-story adjoining building in the heart of San Francisco's financial district.

Reid also was president of the Howard Terminal, Oakland, and a member of the Shipowners and Merchants' Tugboat Co. He was a brother-in-law of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., of California.

Free Plane to College Reward of Quadruplets

Hollis, Okla., Sept. 12 (AP).—Getting to college is no problem for these quadruplets. The 18-year-old Keys girls—Mona, Roberta, Leota and Mary—will fly to Baylor University, at Waco, Tex., this week as guests of an airline, with a special dinner in their honor at Fort Worth Thursday night. They're freshmen.

De Valera Joins Force With Labor

Alliance Interpreted as Blow at O'Duffy.

Dublin, Sept. 12 (U.P.).—President Eamon De Valera's determination to tighten the ranks of his political organization against the fusion opposition led by Gen. Owen O'Duffy was indicated tonight by an announcement that his Fianna Fail party had formed an alliance with the Labor party to combat the new movement.

De Valera and members of his cabinet met with labor leaders today. They formulated new and more vigorous methods to carry on the economic war between England and the Irish Free State.

De Valera promised to introduce further unemployment measures and a program for pensions for widows and orphans.

The United Ireland party of Gen. O'Duffy broadcast an appeal for funds, contending that general elections were imminent. O'Duffy declared the De Valera government would be defeated as soon as the Dail reconvenes shortly.

Kidnapers' Threat Revealed by Ottley

Banker Testifies Captor Spoke of Killing.

Atlanta, Sept. 12 (AP).—John K. Ottley, sr., testified on the witness stand here today that W. R. Delinski had threatened to kill him if necessary or if ransom money was not forthcoming at the time he was kidnaped last July.

Questions propounded by counsel for Delinski and ruled out by the court brought from Attorney Arthur Powell the statement he was endeavoring to show the kidnaping of the president of the First National Bank of Atlanta was not for ransom, as charged by the State, but was a plot to remove Mr. Ottley from his office while banking business he opposed was consummated.

Another development was testimony indicating Mrs. Ottley was to have been the kidnap victim.

Wife Says Prince Expected Support

So declared Mary McCormic, opera singer, by way of explaining marital difficulties with her husband, Prince Serge M'Divani, whom she is suing for separate maintenance.

Stopping here on her way to Chicago, Miss McCormic said her husband was a "sweet boy," but had "the idea that his wife owed him a living."

Express Robbers' Car And Loot Chest Found

St. Paul, Sept. 12 (AP).—The car used by robbers who seized two railway express chests yesterday was found today in a sand pit in St. Louis Park, a Minneapolis suburb.

One of the boxes, open and empty, was in the vehicle, as were four sets of stolen auto license plates and a rifle. The car was stolen in Minneapolis. A woman living near the pit said three automobiles drove in early today.

A Cuban mining company at Cristo, in Oriente Province, as well as American properties were being guarded by soldiers.

U. S. Workers Get Roosevelt's Aid on Pay Cut

President Offers New Hope Part of 15 Per Cent May Be Restored.

Hope that mounting prices will permit a scaling down of the 15 per cent Government pay cut under machinery provided in the National credit act yesterday was held out to Federal employes by President Roosevelt.

The President made known his views to President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and members of the executive council, who called at the White House.

The President told Mr. Green he hoped the salary adjustment could be made "soon," expressing dissatisfaction with the cost of living index on which the last pay-cut extension was based, the labor executive said.

New Index Ordered.

Preparation of a new index figure bringing living cost relationship down to date already has been ordered, the President indicated.

"I will go into it thoroughly," Mr. Green quoted the President as saying.

The executive council's White House visit followed repeated demands by organized Federal employes and local labor and civic groups that the cut be lifted in line with the National Recovery drive.

The labor chieftain, who only the day previous had advised the American Federation of Government Employes to "fight back" at national economy efforts, said he told the President Government employes have suffered long enough and that restored Federal pay rolls would furnish great impetus to buying power.

Data Attacked.

Under the salary reduction provision of the national credit act, the amount of the pay cut must be based on the percentage difference between 1928 and current cost of living indices.

Data on which the Labor Department based its July 1 living cost index has been attacked by employe organizations as not representative of the true advance in prices and local living conditions since the cut was originally imposed.

Fire Rages in Canada; 10 Buildings Destroyed

Marleville, Quebec, Sept. 12 (AP).—Completely out of control, a fire was sweeping through this town today. Ten buildings had been destroyed and wind was sweeping the flames toward the business section. Germany Charges Polish Espionage

Police Claim Network of Spies Is Discovered.

Berlin, Sept. 12 (AP).—The GPA (secret police) claimed tonight to have discovered a huge Polish espionage system through the arrest last week of a Polish agent, Walter Kedziersky, who allegedly confessed he was sent to Germany to gather information.

The investigations revealed, the police said, that the agent had received payments through Kasimir Zelinski, employed in the Polish Legation in Berlin.

The GPA also arrested a Pole, Leopold Langer, while he was depositing money in the place of Zelinski, who was in a hospital. Later Langer was released upon representations by the legation. Zelinski died suddenly last Friday.

Warsaw-Siberia Fliers Fall in Russia; 1 Dies

Moscow, Sept. 12 (U.P.).—The distance-flight attempt of two Polish fliers came to a tragic end last night 400 miles east of here. One was killed and the other injured in a crash.

The dead flier was Levonevsky. His companion, Filipovich, leaped with a parachute and suffered slight injuries. The crash was attributed to engine trouble.

Maryland Wet With Colorado And Minnesota

2 More States Smother Drys Under Ballots

Minnesota and Colorado Give West 2 to 1 Majorities.

St. Paul, Sept. 12 (AP).—Piling up a heavy wet vote in the urban centers, repealists tonight maintained a 2-to-1 margin over prohibitionists in today's referendum on repeal.

With returns from 1,797 of the State's 3,693 precincts in, the vote showed:

Against repeal, 178,821.

The drys displayed surprising strength on the basis of returns from scattered areas. They drew their chief support in the strictly rural sections and carried some small cities and villages.

Hennepin County, which includes the State's largest city, Minneapolis, recorded 13,106 votes for repeal to 3,246 against on the basis of returns from 50 out of 405 precincts.

Minneapolis, where drys had hoped to make a strong showing, went almost 3 to 1 for repeal; St. Paul's wet sentiment was shown by a 4½-to-1 ratio for repeal, and out-State was voting the same way, better than 1½ to 1. The complete vote in Minneapolis' 354 precincts was:

Against repeal 29,340

Two precincts in Granite Falls, home town of Volstead, author of the eighteenth amendment, voted down repeal, 349 to 240. In other rural counties dry sentiment also was strong.

Ramsey County, with returns from 3 of 249 precincts, including some from St. Paul, gave 566 for repeal and 114 for retention of the dry law.

First returns from 3 Northeastern counties, including St. Louis County, in which is located Duluth, recorded a predominantly wet vote. Sixteen precincts, in Duluth reported 2,700 votes for repeal against 1,010 for the prohibitionists.

Colorado Nearly 3 to 1.

Denver, Sept. 12 (AP).—Repeal of Federal prohibition was leading by nearly 3 to 1 tonight with more than one-fourth of the returns from today's State-wide election tabulated.

Returns from 1,061 out of 1,547 precincts in the State showed:

Against repeal, 44,595.

In Denver, 157 precincts out of 314 gave 34,559 for repeal and 6,237 against.

Boulder, Larimer, Morgan and Weld Counties returned bare margins against repeal with only a few precincts reported from each.

Twelve other counties reported majorities for ratification of the repeal amendment. There are 63 counties in the State.

Mineral County, high in the mountains and having only one precinct, was the first to report its vote complete. It went for repeal, 143 to 17.

Franklin Bank Acts to Reopen

Suit Will Insist Treasury Department Issue License.

Attorneys for the Franklin National Bank expect to file a suit, possibly today, to compel the Treasury Department to issue a license to the bank to reopen, it became known yesterday.

John W. Staggers, who was associated with Col. Wade H. Cooper in his fight to prevent the United States Savings Bank being absorbed by the new Hamilton National Bank, is acting for the Franklin. Attorneys will contend the Franklin has complied with every Treasury requirement.

The entrance of the United States Savings Bank into the Hamilton merger was prevented yesterday when Justice Bailey, in District Supreme Court, signed an order permitting Treasury officials to withdraw a petition asking for approval of a contract.

Justice Bailey issued another decree indefinitely postponing consideration of a suit filed by Cooper, president of the United, which sought an injuction against Hamilton and Treasury officers to prevent them from interference in reorganizing the bank's depositors to preserve the institution's identity.

Mrs. John A. Tillema Sued for Divorce Fee

Reno, Nev., Sept. 12 (AP).—Mrs. Catherine J. Packer Hill Tillema, daughter of the late David Jayne Hill, noted student of jurisprudence, was sued for $2,150 legal fees today by Attorney E. E. Roberts, who is also Reno's Mayor.

Roberts charged the amount is due on a $3,000 fee Mrs. Tillema was to pay him for representing her in recent divorce proceedings against Dr. John A. Tillema, of Washington, D. C.

Late Election Returns Show 29 States Favor Repeal.

Only 7 More Necessary to Take Prohibition From Statutes.

Maryland yesterday became the twenty-seventh State to vote in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. At midnight indications were that Minnesota and Colorado would register the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth votes for repeal when all ballots are counted.

Maryland's vote was an overwhelming, though not unexpected victory for repeal forces, with a margin of approximately 10½ to 1 against prohibition.

Returns from Colorado were 2 to 1 in favor of repeal, and from Minnesota approximately 2 to 1.

With Minnesota and Colorado joining Maryland in support of repeal, which will make 29 ratifications, only seven more States need approve the repeal amendment to remove prohibition from the Constitution.

Not a single dry was elected as delegates to the State's repeal convention—to be made up of six delegates-at-large and three delegates from each of the six congressional districts.

Drys Win One County.

In Baltimore city the wets polled a 10½-to-1 victory. Early this morning it appeared the drys had taken only one county, Dorchester, on the Eastern Shore, though two others were close.

With 1,256 of the State's 1,379 voting precincts having reported, the vote stood:

For repeal 191,991
Against repeal 37,051
Unpledged 3,452

The Baltimore city vote was 119,091 for repeal, 11,295 against and 2,085 unpledged. That in itself was sufficient to assure the election of a wet-convention majority, the city comprising all or part of four different districts.

Complete returns from Montgomery gave a total vote of 5,199 for repeal, 2,891 against repeal, and 116 for unpledged delegates. Only three districts were carried by the dry forces.

Out of a total of 7,228 votes cast in Prince Georges County's 38 precincts, 5,803 were in favor of repeal and 1,282 against the movement. The voting, as compared with a possible 35,000 ballots in the county, was extremely light.

Annapolis 6 to 1 Wet.

Returns from Anne Arundel County were expected to show a 4-to-1 repeal victory. This was borne out by Annapolis, where the margin was 6 to 1.

Early returns from Anne Arundel County piled up a lead of 1,487 to 284 for repeal and the town of Towson, Baltimore County, reported 789 for repeal, 163 against.

The vote in Anne Arundel was surprisingly small. The total was less than 50 per cent of the 20,000 registration. Annapolis results furnished an index of the wet wave. The drys mustered less than 300 in the four wards.

Returns from the Eastern Shore area making up the first district, heretofore the dryest in the State, included:

Kent County, for repeal, 322; against, 220.

Three of nine counties making up the first congressional district, considered the dryest in the State, voted more than 2-to-1 wet. They were Talbot, wet 1,761, dry 919; Queen Annes, wet 1,216, dry 467; Kent, wet 1,495, dry 791. Total wet 4,472, dry 2,177.

Maryland voted for three sets of delegates to sit in a convention on October 18 to determine the State's stand on repeal.

One set of 24 delegates is pledged

True Neutrality In Cuba Voiced By Washington

(Associated Press.)

Disturbed by increasing threats of an armed clash between the new Cuban government and Havana's besieged army officers, the Roosevelt administration gave notice yesterday it would follow a line of strict neutrality between opposing factions.

Although reiterating desire to avoid intervention, some officials felt it might be necessary to land American forces should shots be fired in Havana.

The conflict of interests centering around the National Hotel, where 500 officers of the old Cuban army are barricaded, was described by several observers here as presenting perils.

Might Endanger Nationals.

Ambassador Welles and other Americans reside at the hotel. Should either the heavily armed officers inside or members of the army they once commanded decide to open fire, this country's nationals might be endangered.

Secretary Hull indicated the United States would pursue a strictly hands-off policy until Cuba solved "her own political problems."

Monday night he awakened aids to dictate a statement to this effect. Administration advisers yesterday said privately Hull had been motivated, at least in part, by dangers surrounding the National Hotel.

Point to His Statement.

They cited his statement:

"The Government of the United States has no interest in behalf of or prejudice against any political group or independent organization which is today active in the political life of Cuba."

The Secretary in a press conference yesterday said reports indicated the Cuban situation was generally quiet, adding that no consideration had been given to withdrawing any warships.

Cuba Army Group Defies New Regime

the support of the two powerful secret societies—the ABC and OCRR.

Soldiers remained on guard on the hotel grounds, moved in arms and ammunition and named Col. Horacio Ferrer, secretary of war in the De Cespedes cabinet, as their representatives in negotiations with government heads.

It was Ferrer who delivered the demands to the junta and who brought back last night the ultimatum from the president.

Names of Cabinet.

State, Manuel Marques Sterling; treasury, Manuel Despaigne; justice, Joaquin del rio Balmaseda; education, Manuel Costales Latatu; communications, Manuel Moreno; health, Dr. Carlos Juan Finlay; interior, Antonio Guiteras, and presidential secretary, Ramiro Capablanca.

The portfolio of public works was offered to Eduardo Chibas, who held the same post under De Cespedes. Chibas did not accept immediately.

Grau San Martin promised "women their place in the sun," but made plain that he considered direction of technical departments more in their line.

In announcing his appointments the chief executive declared "mediation is not represented here." He was referring to the mediation efforts of Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, which preceded the deposing of Machado.

Fear Trouble.

"We can have nothing to do," said the president, "with men who mediate or make bargains."

Lending credence to fears that trouble might eventuate was a statement of Capt. Mario Torres Menier, former head of the Aviation Corps and one of the besieged officers.

"This can't go on. We've got to do something, even if it means fight," he said.

Officers in the hotel also claimed to have the support of at least 3,000 of the approximately 10,000 soldiers who aided in ousting them last week.

An official of the OCRR held that his organization and the ABC controlled the approximately 2,000 members of the capital police force.

Planes Disabled.

Propellers and magnetos have been removed from the army planes stationed at airports, said Torres Menier, while navy officers declared difficulty would be experienced in operating the fleet, since virtually all machinist mates had joined the movement at the hotel.

The strikes which have tied up sugar mills at Santiago increased in intensity as that city awaited the arrival of American naval vessels.

Ambassador Welles moved yesterday from the besieged hotel to another.

He explained that he moved "because the strike there (the Hotel National) had resulted in suspension of all service."

"There was no food," Welles said, "and there was the threat that water and lights might be cut off. As soon as conditions return to normal my family and I will move back to the National."

Japan Will Ask Navy Treaties Be Changed

Tokio Official Declares Present Ratio Too Low for Safety.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Tokyo, Wednesday, Sept. 13. (U.P.). Japan will demand revision of naval ratios at the next Internation Conference, Naval Minister Mineo Osumi said today.

Japanese dissatisfaction with existing naval treaties was manifest by the minister.

"Those London and Washington treaties are inadequate to guarantee security of the Japanese Empire," he said. "The international situation has altered since they were drafted."

Present ratios were set at the London Naval Conference. That expires in 1935. In that year, unless a new treaty is drafted, observers see possibility of unlimited naval competition.

Unofficial reports here were that Japan would not demand absolute parity with Great Britain and the United States, but would insist upon an upward revision.

machinery for enforcement of code provisions.

"Compliance boards" of seven members will be named to get 100 per cent accord. They would be without authority to impose punishment or take away the Blue Eagle. Punitive action would be referred to NRA headquarters.

Groups Represented.

Boards would comprise two employe representatives, two employers, one consumer and a lawyer, with a seventh member chosen by the six.

"It should be impressed on the community," Gen. Johnson said, "that anyone now displaying the Eagle is presumed to be complying with the President's agreement until the eagle is taken away from him by competent Federal authority."

Employes may choose anyone desired to represent them in collective bargaining, the National Labor Board ruled on the strike at the Berkeley Woolen Mills, Martinsburg, W. Va. Company officers had refused to deal except with a mill worker.

"Refusal to deal with representatives of the employes, unless representatives are mill workers, is a violation of their code, as well as of the industrial recovery act," the board ruled.

Shoe and Film Codes Up.

Protests by labor were lodged against the code proposed for the boot and shoe industry at a public hearing. The code contained the so-called merit clause in collective bargaining.

Motion-picture code hearings were not theatrical. Will H. Hays, film "czar," spoke before Deputy Administrator Sol Rosenblatt. Hays admitted the industry was not agreed on fair trade-practice provisions, but hoped accord would come.

The agreement probably will receive approval of Secretary Wallace without delay, since the Northwest wheat situation has been causing worry for months.

U. S. Families Seek Refuge On Cuba Coast

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Havana, Sept. 12.—American refugees hastily concentrated tonight at Renta, across the harbor from Santiago, east of here, while the United States Embassy anxiously awaited further word of their plight.

A correspondent at Santiago reported several American families from American-owned mines in that vicinity had gathered at Renta, on property belonging to an American. Among the families seeking safety there, he reported, was that of a man named Wetmore, manager of the Standard Fruit Co.

Others were Toman, of the General Electric Co., and Bucher, of Cendoya, Auza & Co.

Other refugees came from the Bethlehem iron mine at Daiquire, and the manganese mines at Cristo, owned by the Freeport Texas Co., dispatches reaching Havana said.

The brief dispatches indicated they were without shelter and needed tents. The Santiago military command was in hands of enlisted men and noncommissioned officers.

The correspondent at Santiago reported by long distance telephone the atmosphere was tense.

Capt. Dessez is survived by his mother, Mrs. Bessie S. Dessez, 3815 Jenifer street northwest, and a brother, Commander J. H. S. Dessez, U. S. N.

Born in Chevy Chase, Md., September 14, 1895, Dessez entered the Army from the District and was appointed second lieutenant of Field Artillery, October 26, 1917. He served in France with the Third Field Artillery, participating in battles of the Toul sector and at St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne. He later was attached to headquarters, Fifty-eighth Field Artillery Brigade, and was cited for gallantry in action near Romagne, France, October 30, 1918, "for assisting under heavy shell fire and without regard to his own personal safety a wounded officer, and conducting him to a first aid station."

From April to July, 1919, Dessez served as aid to the commanding general of the service of supply in France. In 1918 he received a B. S. degree in architecture from the University of Pennsylvania. He was promoted to captain December 23, 1927. At the time of his death, he was aide de camp to Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, U. S. Military Academy superintendent.

Trustee Requested For C. & E. I. Line

R. F. C. Seeks to Supplant Van Sweringen Aid.

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP).—An attempt to supplant the Van Swerigen management of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway with an impartial trustee for reorganization purposes was begun by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today.

Counsel for the R. F. C. began arguments before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on a petition for appointment of a trustee to supervise rebuilding of the $100,000,000 railroad's financial structure in place of Charles O'Neal, president since the Van Sweringens gained control of the C. & E. I. stock in 1931.

The railway was first to act on reorganization privileges under the new Federal bankruptcy act, going into Federal receivership last April 18. O'Neal, by order of Judge Barnes, remained head of the line pending reorganization.

Ritchie Replies To Littlepage In Ferry Row

Denies Attempt to Block Plan; Stock Holding Is Explained.

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland had "nothing whatever to do" with the action of Maryland officials who have blocked the proposed new Chesapeake Bay ferry.

In a letter to Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, the governor indignantly denies any connection with the group of Maryland authorities whom the chamber of commerce accuses of opposing the new ferry because of their financial interest in the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co.

The Post, in its issue of Sunday, September 10, printed the text of Mr. Littlepage's letter to the governor, reiterating the charges of political interference.

Governor's Reply.

Gov. Ritchie's reply follows:

"Dear Mr. Littlepage:

"I received your letter of September 1. I did not object in my letter of August 25 to the reference in the Washington Chamber of Commerce brief to the fact that I had held stock in the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co.

"I did hold $200 of this stock, given me, as you now know from my letter to Gov. Harrington of which I sent you a copy, in return for what I considered to be simply a voluntary contribution to an important Maryland enterprise, as was evident from my immediate return of the stock some years afterward, as soon as I was informed that a dividend of 25 cents a share was to be paid upon it.

"What I object to was the unwarranted and untrue inferences in regard to me which you drew from this circumstance, as shown by the underlined portions of the following extract from pages 15 and 16 of your brief:

"'And who are the beneficiaries of this monopolistic control of transportation in so large a part of Chesapeake Bay? Who are the individuals behind the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co.? They are in part at least a group of Maryland politicians. Former Gov. Emerson C. Harrington is president of the company. John M. Dennis, who has been, for many years and is now, the State treasurer of Maryland, is vice president, and is understood to be the principal stockholder. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, up to 1930 was a stockholder in the company. Its report to the Public Service Commission for that year contains the following statement:'

Gravely Concerned.

"'The Washington Chamber of Commerce is not interested in any way in politics in Maryland or elsewhere. It is none of its business whether such a group is allowed to profit in public service enterprises at the expense of the people of Maryland, or whether they are allowed to retard the development of an important section of their own State in order to serve their own ends. But the Chamber is concerned with the opposition of this group to the extension across the Bay of the service of the Chesapeake Beach Railway Co., a common carrier engaged in interstate commerce. It is gravely concerned with the situation whereby this group is able to keep isolated from Washington a large, populous and productive community very close to the city and forming a part of its natural trade area.'"

"I have never been a beneficiary of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co.; I have never been behind that company; I have never been a member of any group which profited from it at the expense of the people of Maryland, or which retarded Maryland development to serve their own ends, or which opposed the ferry in which you are interested.

"That you should not, in common fairness, after reading my letter to Gov. Harrington, recognize that these statements are untrue, so far as I am concerned, but that on the contrary you should actually attempt to reaffirm them in a long letter given to The Washington Post for your own purposes, which letter completely ignores the facts I told you, is to me quite incomprehensible.

Denies Opposition.

"There is no occasion for me to reply to the arguments you advance in support of the proposed Chesapeake Beach Ferry. These can be appraised by the proper public authorities. I have never opposed your ferry, or taken or been called upon to take any position whatever in regard to it. Whatever actions public officials of Maryland may have taken have been in the line of what they conceived their public duties to be, and I had nothing whatever to do with them.

"My sole reason for writing you was to correct the obviously false inferences on your part from the fact that I had $200 of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. stock—inferences which it never occurred to me you would not be only too glad to correct, or at least admit, when you knew the truth.

"Instead of doing that, you seem entirely willing to reiterate these false inferences, although you now know them to be false.

"I was obviously mistaken in believing that you would show a spirit of ordinary fairness in the matter."

Inquest Witnesses Assert Man Staggered Into Miss Hume's Car.

Miss Elise Hume, 2150 Florida avenue northwest, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Alan Philips Hume, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Edward Sullivan, 33, killed Sunday night by an automobile driven by the attractive debutante on Riverside drive.

Hearing testimony by Miss Hume and her companions that the man staggered from the road into the car's path, the jury after 10 minutes deliberation returned a verdict of accidental death.

Morgue officials testified an autopsy revealed a large quantity of alcohol in Sullivan's system.

Miss Hume was accompanied the night of the accident by her fiance, John Redman Walsh, jr., 1813 Nineteenth street northwest. They are to be married Saturday.

Her sister, Miss Marion Hume, also was in the car.

Prince Georges County Votes Wet by 5 to 1

In one of the lightest ballotings of its history, Prince Georges County last night, with a vote of 5 to 1, sounded its clarion call for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

A total of 5,803 votes in favor of repeal overwhelmed a dry vote of 1,282. Only 91 ballots were cast for the unpledged candidates.

Riverdale, Md., believed to be one of the dry strongholds, proved the center of a wet landslide. The vote was 453 to 94 in favor of abolishing the liquor law. Edward B. Dunford, secretary of the Antisaloon League, is a resident of Riverdale.

Hyattsville, headquarters for many dry movements, cast 525 votes for repeal and only 189 against the proposed action.

Vote in Berwyn Large.

The highest percentage of ballots cast for dry candidates was recorded in Berwyn. Here the count was 354 for repeal and 123 in favor of retaining the amendment.

This, however, resulted from the fact that William A. DuVall, one of the candidates pledged to the dry cause, is a resident of Berwyn.

The vote by districts follows:

NRA to Bring School Gain

Child Labor Restrictions Present New Problem, Says Miss Perkins.

Secretary of Labor Perkins said yesterday the problems of providing education for children who have returned to school because of child labor restrictions and malnutrition arising from the depression are to come under Government scrutiny.

The Children's Bureau is studying educational facilities. Since the depression started, school attendance has showed a steady growth of children unable to find jobs. The child labor provision of the NRA expected to increase school attendance materially.

Miss Perkins said a program to combat malnutrition will be discussed at a conference on child health recovery here October 6. National and State welfare organizations have been invited to attend.

"It is probably safe to estimate that somewhere in the neighborhood of one-fifth of all preschool and school children are showing signs of poor nutrition, of inadequate housing, of lack of medical care, and many, too, are feeling the effect of the anxiety and sense of insecurity prevailing wherever there is unemployment," the Secretary said.

Two Held for Trial On Fraud Charges

Topeka, Kans., Sept. 12 (AP).—Two principals in Kansas' $1,000,000 bogus municipal securities investigation, Ronald Finney, youthful bond broker and speculator, and his employe, Leland Caldwell, were held for trial after their preliminary hearing today on charges of forging and selling spurious bonds.

They were returned to jail in default of bail, fixed at $50,000 each by Judge Allen Meyers.

Defense counsel were unsuccessful in an attempt to have two separate cases in which Finney and Caldwell are charged jointly with the forgery and sale of a $30,000 issue of City of Hutchinson bonds and a $20,000 issue of Salina Board of Education bonds, consolidated for trial.

Expert Grilled For Testimony Aiding Lamson

Defense Ends Evidence as Criminologist Claims Fall Killed Wife.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 12 (AP). Evidence intended to support a theory of accidental death ended the defense testimony today in the trial of David A. Lamson, accused of crushing his wife's skull with an iron pipe because of marital difficulties.

Before resting their case, defense attorneys sought to establish through expert testimony that Alene Thorpe Lamson died as a result of an accidental fall in the bathroom of the Stanford University campus cottage where she was found last Memorial Day.

Dr. E. O. Heinrich, noted criminologist, gave highly technical evidence, while his cross-examination by Herbert Bridges, deputy district attorney, was marked by wordy exchanges.

Grilled on Iron Pipe.

In an effort to impair testimony of Heinrich that he found no traces of blood on the iron pipe taken from a bonfire which Lamson had been tending in the back yard of his home the day of his wife's death, the State put long, complicated questions to the criminologist.

The prosecution also sought to entangle Heinrich on his testimony that blood spots on the prosecution's bathroom exhibits were mostly those made by spurts from an artery.

This testimony was given by the criminologist to bear out the hypothesis that such stains could have come from an artery cleanly cut by a fall against the washbasin and not from an artery that would be macerated by blows from a weapon of assault repeatedly wielded.

Undershirt Submitted.

One of the last moves of the State was to bring forward the undershirt which Lamson had been wearing prior to the finding of his wife's body.

Defense Attorney E. M. Rea informed the court the State had stipulated that it had been found to bear no evidence of blood and no signs of having been washed. This supposedly was to clear up the mystery of the garment, which had been in the custody of several persons between the time it was taken from the rear yard of the Lamson home and the time it became a State exhibit.

Maryland Votes Dry Law Repeal

for repeal, a second is pledged to vote against repeal and a third is not instructed. The third class class was added to circumvent a possible court action to declare the election illegal.

Each of the six congressional districts elects three delegates and the State at large elects six.

A light vote was cast in western Maryland. In the five counties of the Sixth Congressional District—Frederick, Montgomery, Washington, Allegany and Garrett—only about 50 per cent of registered voters came out.

Thirty-six out of 66 precincts in Allegany County gave 5,538 for repeal and 1,256 against.

Indications were the county will go 5 to 1 in a total less than 12,000 out of a registered vote of 32,000.

The mining precinct of Gilmore in the Georges Creek region was almost unanimously wet, the vote being 68 to 4. The closest vote reported was that of Gross District, where 46 voted wet and 38 dry.

Returns from Garrett County were slow, the vote being largely rural. Three precincts, out of 22, showed 110 against repeal and 104 for. Garrett County also voted on the sale of beer, the last Legislature having passed a referendum act for the county.

Washington County, which in 1916 passed a local option law, not only wiped that law from the books, but also voted for repeal. The vote, with one-third of the precincts in the city and county reported on the county local option law, showed 4 to 1 for its repeal.

Vote in Hagerstown.

Nine precincts in Hagerstown and the county on the county local option law gave 1,597 for its repeal and 493 against. It was predicted the vote on repeal of the national prohibition law would show an even greater ratio for repeal.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, a repeal pioneer, late last night said:

"The result is a splendid justification for the stand against the eighteenth amendment which the Maryland people have consistently taken."

George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Maryland Antisaloon League, in conceding victory for repealists, said:

"From reports in known bootlegging sections it is plain that bootleggers voted wet as well as all sensible persons knew they would. From other sections it looks like many good people were mixed up in bad company."

Official Waits 3-Month Test Of NRA Spirit

Secretary Perkins Fixes Deadline for Voluntary Joining Move.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Frances Perkins said at a press conference yesterday that the next three months will see "the great test whether we can handle" the industrial recovery program by voluntary action.

Declaring the Labor Department and NRA headquarters had received "lots of complaints" of violations of recovery codes, Miss Perkins said she realized "one noncompliance was likely to sour 200 people" on the program, but added:

"You can't put over a mass movement involving 121,000,000 people with perfect integration and smoothness without having some rough edges."

Reich Assails Dollfuss Stand

Outline of Policies Held "Maze of Muddled Notions."

Berlin, Sept. 12 (AP).—The policies pronounced yesterday by Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria were described in German official circles today as a "maze of muddled notions."

The Austrian chancellor, turning his back on party politics, announced that his government would oppose both Marxism and Hitlerism and would rebuild Austria on a Christian and corporative, or guild, basis.

German officials viewed the Austrian program as an admission of weakness on the part of the Dollfuss regime, declaring that Austria was endeavoring to master its political and economic difficulties with theoretical improvisations.

A reference by Dr. Dollfuss to "German consciousness" drew a faint appreciative comment, but simultaneously it was declared that Austro-German cooperation, however much desired by Germany, could not materialize under the present Austrian regime.

Jury Unable to Decide Cause of Sunday Death

San Francisco, Sept. 12 (AP).—A coroner's jury could not decide today whether the 75-foot plunge of George M. Sunday, 40-year-old son of the famous evangelist, "Billy" Sunday, from his apartment window, was suicide or accident.

Mrs. Mauryne Sunday, the widow, testified her husband had threatened suicide, but after the fall, which she did not see, she said her husband insisted he lost his balance while watering a fern. Sunday died last night.

Einstein Works On New Theory

Cromer, Norfolk, England, Sept. 12 (AP).—Dr. Albert Einstein is working many hours daily on a mathematical treatise in his retreat near here where he is guarded from friends and possible foes.

The scientist came here from his villa at Le Coq-sur-Mer, Belgium, after a price of approximately $6,800 was reported to have been put on his head by a Nazi organization. He is the guest of Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, British Parliament member.

His former relativity rules, it was stated, had brought the professor to a blind alley and he is reviewing the matter from a different angle with success.

U. S. Fighting Order On Joint Freight Rates

(Associated Press.)

The United States appealed to the Supreme Court yesterday to set aside the action of a three-judge Federal court in Delaware holding invalid the Denison amendment of May, 1928, to the Inland Waterways Corporation Act.

Under the amendment, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the Illinois central and 30 other railroads to join with the American Barge Line Co. in establishing joint rates on cotton from Arkansas points and Memphis, Tenn., to Eastern territory and southern New England.

Mitchell Asks Equality Basis For U. S. Jobs

Civil Service Head Finds Merit Plan Superior to Spoils System.

Absolute equality in government promotions, reductions, dismissals and Federal working conditions generally, last night was held up as an objective by Chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission.

In a radio address Mr. Mitchell contrasted the spoils system with the merit plan and found it wanting.

On the same program, Dr. Clyde L. King, former chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, flayed political patronage as costly to the taxpayer and good government.

Suggests Career.

Mr. Mitchell denied Government personnel service costs more than the same service for private interests. He suggested the Civil Service might be made a career toward which youth would train.

The present method of rating efficiency of employes he regarded as "anything but satisfactory," and pledged the attention of the commission in improving it.

Concerning Civil Service versus spoils, he asked:

"Can any one question that the people of the United States get better results from these trained, tested and experienced employes than they did from those who came into the service with each partisan change without examination or test of any kind, but solely on account of political preference?"

Tells Ideal Plan.

The ideal in Federal employment, he said, comprises these things:

The man or woman best fitted for the job; the utmost in intelligence, knowledge and dilligence on the part of all employes; just compensation; due reward in promotion for competent service; fixity of tenure so long as conduct and work are good and so long as employes are needed; reasonable working hours, with time for recreation and further education; the best of working conditions, and an equitable pension system for employes who become disabled or who outlive their usefulness.

Chicago, Sept. 12 (Spl.)—After more thrills than it seems possible for people to stand, winners in the Federal Diary popularity contest, Miss Beulah Myles and Francis O. Panneton, with their companions, arrived in the western metropolis. The train was about 10 minutes late, owing to it being held in Lindale, Ohio, pending arrival of the party when it was found necessary to leave the plane.

Upon arrival at the La Salle Street station, the party was greeted by an army of cameramen and after flashlight pictures had been taken the four happy persons were bundled into automobiles and whisked to the Hotel Bismarck, where delightful accommodations awaited them. Miss Myles' room was a bower of flowers, which had been wired to her by associates in the converted insurance division, Veterans' Administration.

Being too tired after such a strenuous day to plan on much participation in the World's Fair, the group chartered an automobile and drove to Grant Park on the lake front, where A Century of Progress Exposition is under way.

NINE teams were represented at the Arcade Bowling Alleys last night to plan for the season of the Federal Bowling League. Answering the roll were: Internal Revenue, winner of last season's race; G. P. O., Patent Office, Postoffice, Veterans' Administration, Commerce, Public Buildings and Public Parks, Navy Yard, and Investigation (Justice).

The league will bowl every Monday night, beginning September 25. An invitation is issued for the Federal or District team to apply for membership to make 10 in the league.

Leo Bittner, Public Buildings and Public Parks, was elected president. Other officers are Abe Bittner, Navy Yard, vice president; Charles Barnard, secretary and official scorer.

The sight which greeted them was awe-inspiring with millions of lights glittering on the water, spires of the skyline towers sparkling in the distance, and the Buckingham fountain at the front gate spouting water 90 feet in the air.

Today has been spent in the Hall of Science, where there are more gadgets and digits scientists have originated in the past century, than can be imagined and equally as difficult for the human mind to understand what makes the "wheels go round."

After five hours of wandering about the building it was decided a rest before dinner would be in order as Miss Myles was to be the guest of honor at a dinner which of course was to be followed by a trip to the Streets of Paris. Mr. Panneton arranged to meet friends and get his first real taste of night life at the Fair. Arrangements are being made to pass most of tomorrow in the agricultural, social science and electrical groups.

MISS JANET STEVENS and William E. Mitchell, winners of second prize in the Federal Diary Popularity Contest, will depart late Friday afternoon on their vacations as guests of The Washington Post. They will pass the week-end at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach. Their friends are preparing a gala send-off at the dock of the Norfolk and Washington Line at 6 o'clock.

MORE training in the United States for public service was advocated last night by Chairman Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission, in a coast-to-coast radio broadcast.

"To have special training that is necessary in the higher positions, there must be reasonably assured permanency," he said.

"If these positions were assured as much permanency as in Great Britain, for example, there would be boys and girls in the United States fitting themselves for government service, and there would be courses in our schools and colleges of the best class to train them."

GHOST stories, baseball skits, music—and best of all—a good picnic dinner were enjoyed by a large party of employes and their families from Division of Animal Husbandry, Agriculture, recently at Lake Ha-Ha, Beltsville, Md.

The City Slickers trounced the Farm Boys, 8 to 3. Before the game players and spectators settled down to dinner of fried chicken and all trimmings. At 5 p. m. a varied program, displaying surprising talent, was presented. Participating in skits were Betty Whitfield, Victor Sehorn, D. A. Spencer, Ruth Allen, Edna Steely, Alfred Lee and N. G. Barbella.

Ghost stories associated with the lake were told by E. W. Sheets, division chief. Everyone looked for the "haint" but we suspect "they aint no haint never gwiner face no big crowd of Govumint folks all full o' vittles."

Frank Misuse By Huey Long Is Denied Here

Officials Declare Rumor Senator Sent Paper Free Is Untrue.

(Associated Press.)

The Postoffice Department yesterday flattened rumors that Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, was sending out under frank his American Progress, a newspaper containing an open letter to Al Capone.

"No newspaper is franked by any senator," the department said.

Queried about another rumor that a proof of the Capone letter was being franked, Postmaster General Farley said:

"Such material is not frankable, and if it did go free through the mails, we would make Senator Long pay the postage."

The Postoffice Department had no report that the Long letter was circulating under frank. People said they had received copies.

The theory advanced in the paper was that if Al Capone would claim that he caused Senator Long to be punched in the eye at the Sands Point Bath Club on Long Island, Capone could collect a "House of Morgan Medal," and be released.

Long charged that Owen P. White, of Long Island, a writer, collected a large sum for a medal for Long's assailant.

McCrory Resigns As Head of Stores

To Submit Own Plan for Chain Reorganization.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—John G. McCrory, pioneer figure in the chain store business, announced today he had resigned as chairman of the board of McCrory Stores Corporation which he founded 48 years ago. He said he would submit his own plan of reorganization of the concern, which has been in receivership since January 14.

McCrory, Pennsylvania farm boy who established his first store in Scottdale, Pa., and developed a chain of general merchandise stores that spread into a score of States, resigned shortly before the board met to consider a composition plan of reorganization with which he was not in sympathy.

Farley Will Help Liberalize Texas

Going With Assistants to Open New Race Track.

(Associated Press.)

Postmaster General Farley said yesterday he and a group of other Government officials are going to Texas next month to help "make that State a really liberal State."

He said the party will leave Washington by air on October 17, to visit Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and San Antonio and to help open a new race track between Dallas and Fort Worth.

In the party, Farley said, will be Silliman Evans and Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Assistant Postmaster General; Harllee Branch, Farley's executive assistant; Marvin McIntyre, a secretary to the President, and Frank Walker, treasurer of the Democratic National committee.

Gradual Price Climb Sought By President

Confers With Council, But Immediate Plans Are Withheld.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt gripped the recovery reins tightly yesterday, planning with his executive council for a continued upward pull in prices, wages and employment.

As he called in the Government chieftains for a report, he heard an urgent recommendation for "rational inflation" from Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee.

The credit and price problems have received particular attention from the Chief Executive during the last 24 hours, but neither Harrison nor the recovery aids were prepared to state the President's ideas for the immediate future.

Harrison carefully refrained from expressing any opinion as to what Mr. Roosevelt had in mind on new efforts to raise commodity prices.

"Commodity prices have got to go up," the senator said. "I favor some rational inflation. We've got to do more than we are doing."

Harrison indicated he would have more to say later.

The President has made it plain he wants a steady, gradual rise in prices and will take whatever steps are necessary to bring this about.

Illinois Retains Hart, Criminal

Maryland to Get Escaped Slayer at Expiration of Sentence.

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP).—State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney after a conference with Gov. Horner tonight announced Illinois would oppose extradition to Maryland of Jack Hart, escaped Maryland arch criminal, who was serving a life sentence for murder.

Courtney said Hart, whose real name is James J. Connelly, would be prosecuted here on assault-to-kill charges for shooting three men in a card game at suburban Cicero August 28. Should Hart be convicted, Maryland could have him at expiration of the Illinois sentence.

Decision was announced after a conference between Courtney, the governor and J. Bernard Bell, assistant Baltimore prosecutor. Previously Courtney indicated he would permit extradition.

Today, however, he said he received a telegram from Gov. Horner, then en route from Washington, asking decision be deferred until his arrival. No explanation was given for the governor interesting himself directly in the case.

Aileen Pringle Sues Just to Oblige Husband

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 12 (AP). Aileen Pringle, movie actress, instituted divorce action today against Charles M. Pringle, prominent planter. The case, it was said, probably will not be defended.

"I got a divorce in Mexico last April," Miss Pringle said in Los Angeles two months ago, "and then was notified by my husband, or former husband, whichever the case may be, that he had to have a divorce in Jamaica before he could be free to marry there. So I filed suit in Jamaica.

"I knew the name of the woman he intended marrying but have forgotten."

Floridans Encouraged In Storm Relief Plea

The conference included the study of plans for floating ocean landing islands as designed by Capt. Sven Lindberg, Swedish inventor.

With Mrs. Lindbergh, the colonel was a dinner guest tonight of Laurence Steinhardt, the American minister.

Film Players on Circus Tour File for Divorces

Newkirk, Okla., Sept. 12 (AP).—Divorce suits were filed here today by attorneys for Jack Hoxie, cowboy screen actor, and Dixie Starr, cowgirl actress, charging their spouses with abandonment. Both claimed the 101 ranch, near Ponca City, for residence. They are now traveling with Zack Miller's 101 show.

Hoxie was married in 1921 to Marion Hoxie, formerly known in the movies as Marie Sais. Dixie Starr asks a divorce from W. B. Weber, whom she married in Golden, Colo., in 1928. Hoxie claimed previously an alimony contest in a seperate maintenance suit filed by his wife in California, that he was without funds and needed work, not only for himself, but for his trained horses, cows and dogs.

Mrs. Cudahy Wins Alimony and Home

Court Grants Millionaire Packer's Wife $1,500.

Milwaukee, Sept. 12 (AP).—Circuit Judge Gustave G. Gehrz settled for the time being today a few problems confronting Michael Cudahy, millionaire packer, and his wife, Mrs. Alice Dickson Pinto Cudahy, pending trial of the husband's suit for divorce.

The court ruled Cudahy should continue to pay $1,500 a month alimony and that Mrs. Cudahy be permitted to use their home, with the packer paying one half the $350 a month rent.

Prominent Social Worker Slain Without Warning.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 12 (AP).—Mrs. Jules Cahn, clubwoman and social worker, was shot and killed by a man at the office of the Jewish Social Relief Service Bureau today, who then killed himself. No reason for his action was learned.

Identified from the relief rolls as Joe Zimmerman, 68, the man entered the building and asked Mrs. Cahn, in an outer office, to see George A. Levy, executive director of the bureau.

When Mrs. Cahn rose to call Levy, the man fired three times.

Ryan said the election could be held anyway and voters could write on the ballots the names of whoever they cared to vote for.

Expert men and women test and inspect every single pound before these pure, fresh ingredients are made into Loft delicious Pure Candy.

It's your guarantee for the finest Candies that can be made—the most delicious soda fountain drinks and ice cream—and the best cakes, pastries and pies—all of them absolutely pure—always fresh—of highest quality—and at most reasonable prices.

The Loft reputation for nearly forty years has built this great business. Confidentially, we've been offered a million dollars cash for the name "LOFT." We wouldn't sell it for many millions, and we wouldn't spoil this great reputation by making ordinary candies, and other things, just for profit alone.

"I Insist On Loft Candies for my children, because I know they are always fresh—always pure—always delicious. And the fact that they are sold at such reasonable prices doesn't influence me one bit, because I'd buy Loft Candies if they cost twice as much"—

So said a prominent young woman, several days ago, when the subject of high-priced brands of candies was being discussed.

What's Most Important—The Candy—or The Box?

Loft makes and sells more than 100,000 pounds of delicious, fresh candies every day—packed in neat, white, inexpensive boxes. The quality and value are put in the candies—not in the box—because you can't eat the box!

If you want a gold-embossed box, decorated with a beautiful design in fourteen colors, with several yards of silk ribbon, tied around in rosettes and bows—and you are willing to pay for it—you can buy it in a Loft Store as well as in the most exclusive, ritzy shop in New York or Paris. Loft can fill your order in all sizes from $1.00 to $50.00.

The Guarantee

If you have ever tasted more delicious candy at double the price, bring back the empty box and your money will be instantly returned. If you have ever tasted more delicious fountain drinks and sundaes than those served at Loft soda fountains, please don't pay the check.

Looking at Business.

The person who goes about asking every one he meets, "How is business?" succeeds in making a public nuisance of himself, but he seldom finds the enlightenment which he seeks. It may seem strange that Americans can not agree among themselves as to the present state and future prospects of business, although the United States is supplied daily, weekly and monthly with more facts about business than any other country in the world. However, the reason for conflicts of opinion is not lack of data but the bias displayed by many analysts, experts and practical business men who are prone to interpret the facts to suit their theoretical prejudices, or confirm their hopes. Thus a man who has predicted that catastrophe is certain to result from the policies now being followed by the Government is either predisposed to ignore the statistical proof of business improvement or else he examines the evidence with a view to minimizing its significance.

At the other extreme are to be found those over-sanguine individuals who expect the administration's recovery program to bring about a miraculous renascence of business, accompanied by steadily rising prices calculated to restore a satisfactory volume as well as a proper balance between agriculture and industry. Neither the chronic pessimists nor the constitutional optimists are safe guides to follow. They confuse public opinion by their extravagant vociferousness and cry down the more moderate views of objective thinkers.

Looking at the facts of the case, for example, it is clear that there is no ground for discouragement regarding the extent of the recent price recovery. The advance has not only been rapid but on the whole it has been well-sustained. The latest indices show that wholesale price levels are at or above the maximum point for the year, reached in July. The fact that recessions have occurred in the intervening period in some groups of commodities, including certain raw materials and foodstuffs, is not a cause for pessimism. Recent declines in wheat prices still leave quotations more than double what they were at the low point of the year, while the drop in raw cotton prices from the year's high has forfeited only part of the previous advances. Cotton prices remain about 45 per cent above the low for the year. Furthermore, the general wholesale commodity price index of the United States Bureau of Labor stands at 69.7 for Sept. 2, compared with 65 a year ago for the month of September.

General production and trade figures and the highly significant increases shown in railway gross revenues and car-loadings confirm the belief that the improvement in business has been substantial in character and that it is continuing. Isolated reactionary developments, such as the sharp drop in steel operating activity, from the midsummer peak are a necessary accompaniment of any period of recovery from a condition of profound depression. Students of economic history would be greatly surprised to find the upward movement of prices and production proceeding without interruption as if in accordance with some pre-arranged schedule.

It is particularly important at the present crucial stage of the business upturn to take a dispassionate objective view of the outlook and to remember that business recovery must come by degrees; it is not an instantaneous process.

"Harnessing" the Atom.

Lord Rutherford, at whose laboratories tremendous electric forces have bombarded atoms in the hope of discovering the secret of the power that moves the universe, now advises the British Association for the Advancement of Science that "the energy produced by the breaking down of the atom is a very poor thing. Any one who expects a source of power from the transformation of these atoms is talking moonshine."

Moonshine! So that's all we obtain from the months and years of enthusiastic anticipation of release from work! Science has been trembling upon the brink of the discovery that was to emancipate the world. The atom was to be "harnessed." A particle of primeval force, compared with which a pinhead would be a mountain, was to propel giant ocean liners and battleships, operate vast factories and machine shops, run trains and tractors, abolish all fuels, and lift from man the curse of Adam. It was all arranged for. A little more bombardment, a quick but decisive grapple with the mysterious liberated force, and it was to become the world's willing slave, doing all mankind's work without cost.

Now Lord Rutherford states that more energy must be exerted to bombard the atom than the atom's energy is worth. Dr. Lind, of the University of Minnesota, concurs with Lord Rutherford, and explains that "while it is true that you sometimes get a gain in energy by disintegrating the atom, so much energy is wasted in obtaining the gain that the result is a net loss."

So fades the dream of getting something for nothing! 'Twas always thus. Science teases humanity by holding forth gorgeous prospects of eternal leisure, with the universe doing all the work, and then coolly throws up the sponge. Not so long ago the world was to be fed by a capsule the size of a pea, in which would be concentrated proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins, and perhaps even a surreptitious cocktail, all packed in a vial, so that for 50 cents a man might provide provender for life, and forget the food problem. Yet that dream also faded, and the man with the hoe must still bend his back.

Federal Salaries.

President Roosevelt is reported to be seeking a means of relieving Federal employes from at least part of the pay reduction which is now in effect. A new investigation is being made, and if the higher cost of living warrants reduction of the salary cut, action may be expected as soon as possible under the law.

The authority under which salaries were reduced is contained in the economy act. The Congress outlined a specific procedure for the President to follow. It did not give him discretion over Federal salaries, but provided that the compensation of every officer and employe of Uncle Sam "shall" be determined on a cost-of-living basis.

The Congress authorized the President to investigate the cost of living and determine an index figure for the first half of 1928 to serve as the basis for pay reductions. He was authorized to establish a similar index figure for the last half of 1932 and for each six months thereafter. The percentage by which the cost of living for any current six-month period is lower than the cost in the first half of 1928 is the percentage by which salaries must be reduced, providing that no reduction shall exceed 15 per cent.

Apparently the law contemplates adjustments under this formula no oftener than every six months. If there is to be any change in the salary schedules under the existing law it will doubtless be based on a higher cost of living in the latter half of this year. In that event the relief would extend through the first half of 1934. The Government salary provisions of the economy act expire on June 30, 1934.

It is well for Government workers to realize that under existing law the President can act only upon the basis of facts ascertained in the manner prescribed by the Congress. Relief from the 15 per cent salary cut therefore depends primarily upon the movement of prices or upon further action by the Congress.

Cooperation Against Crime.

That the warfare which an armed underworld is waging upon society has reached disturbing proportions was admitted in a radio address by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. Organized crime he characterized as a challenge to civilization, and the manner in which it is met will be a test of popular government.

The Attorney General is optimistic with regard to the progress that is being made under the cooperative efforts of Federal, State and local authorities. It was not until June of last year that the Federal statute dealing with kidnaping was enacted. Since that date it is reported that every kidnaping case handled by the Division of Investigation, either alone or in connection with State authorities, has been solved. Of the fifteen kidnaping cases thus investigated there have resulted seventeen convictions, one death sentence, two life sentences and terms of imprisonment aggregating 312 years.

In the field of racketeering Mr. Cummings finds need for energetic and persistent effort to rid many cities of gangster methods, which include extortion, intimidation and unrestrained force in their illegal levy upon trades and business enterprises.

Many of the so-called rackets are skillfully organized on a basis of business efficiency, with adroit lawyers under retainers and with influential social contacts. The Attorney General says these conspirators enlist aid from respectable citizens, including officeholders, in exerting influence upon those charged with the administration of justice.

The Department of Justice finds that the limitations placed upon police administration by Federal authority present a problem, but it expects to continue its cooperation with State agencies without doing violence either to the Constitution or national traditions. The fingerprint records of the department are the most complete in the world, forming a thoroughly efficient identification unit. To a modern crime reporting system also has been added a technical laboratory employing many scientific crime detection aids which are available to all law enforcement officials.

While the Division of Investigation handles, as a rule, more spectacular matters, it is only one of eleven distinct and important divisions of the Department of Justice. As the result of the studies of various individuals and organizations, the Attorney General believes that there will emerge a definite and constructive program for a higher degree of efficiency in the machinery of justice and for additional legislation of a helpful character.

Recording Thought.

Men and women of the present age are accustomed to reading of many scientific wonders. They are no longer astonished by the development of machines that seem to have miraculous power. Yet Dr. Louis William Max's announcement of a device which records thought activitiy in the human brain makes a strong appeal to interest.

Dr. Max who is a professor at New York University, has been conducting experiments since 1926, chiefly with deaf mutes. Subjects of this type were chosen because they are accustomed to expressing their thoughts with their fingers. The experimenter measured the nerve impulses in the fingers of deaf-mutes while they were expressing their thoughts through a sign language. He found that even though the hands did not move, impulses were registered on his delicate galvanometer and vacuum-tube amplification system when the brain of the subject was active.

The thought recorder has been used on normal persons as well as on deaf-mutes. It registers impulses that are sent along the nerves from the brain to various parts of the body. Thus it is possible to obtain a sort of electric graph of a person's brain activity. During sleep the instrument records practically no messages from the brain, unless the subject is dreaming. Dreams may be detected by the galvanometer much as is mental activity during waking hours.

There is no indication, however, that Dr. Max is able to read a person's thoughts through his instrument, except as the nerve impulses are transferred to parts of the body having special functions. The detection of action impulses is a very different thing from divining abstract thought. The so-called lie detector, which is supposed to record the nervous reaction of a subject to the telling of a falsehood, is being used in a number of cities. But will science ever be able to reveal the actual thoughts which course through an individual's brain? Dr. Max's research with the galvanometer is only a short step in that direction.

Formation Flying.

The nonstop flight of six naval seaplanes carrying 11 officers and 25 enlisted men from Norfolk, Va., to the Panama Canal Zone, a record-breaking distance for formation flying, was a demonstration of which the Navy air force may well be proud. This 2,059-mile jump of the giant flying boats was the longest flight of seaplanes in formation on record, eclipsing that of Gen. Balbo's squadron by nearly 200 miles.

The Balbo record was made in 1931 when, with a smaller number of planes than on his recent trip to the United States, the Italian commander led his ships across the South Atlantic to Brazil. His longest hop at that time was 1,864 miles, which, in turn, was 187 miles greater than the longest jump on the last return trip from America, the span of 1,677 miles between Newfoundland and the Azores.

The flight commander of the American squadron, Lieut. Comdr. D. M. Carpenter, has received commendation for himself and men from all his superior officers, from the President down, for the excellent performance of the great planes. At the Canal Zone they joined six sister ships which had made the same journey in more leisurely stages. Despite stormy weather the planes laid a direct course of more than 800 miles over the open sea.

The success of this mass flight has already led to reports that even more ambitious formation trials will be undertaken. One suggestion is that the twelve flying boats may attempt the nonstop jump of 3,000 miles from the Canal Zone to San Diego, Calif. Another intimation is that this squadron may be selected to repay the visit of Gen. Balbo by a flight to Rome. If the latter project is undertaken it probably would be delayed until next year, as the season is now too far advanced for safety, at least by way of the North Atlantic route.

The duck shooting season will run from November 16 to January 15, as usual, but no hunter can have a daily bag of more than twelve, of which not more than eight may be canvasbacks, redheads, scaups, teals, shovelers or gadwalls. Let the gunner beware!

British savants assert that Robin Hood never existed, but they can't deny that if he had not existed it would have been necessary to invent him.

Federalized Education.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Public support of a policy of Federal aid for education might be better promoted if its advocates did not complicate their cause by asking too much. The National Conference on Financing of Education has spent two weeks at Columbia University considering the question, "Can this country continue its ideal of free and universal schooling?"

Its final report, submitted "for rejection, approval or change," is a plain-spoken statement in favor of Federalized education. It goes even further when it sets forth that—

> • • • a democratic society is under obligation not only to provide adequate education for youth at public expense, but livelihood if necessary up to the age when society is prepared to offer employment.

The original question considered at Columbia is not a fair statement of the issues at stake. For the enthusiasts for Federal aid believe, for the most part, in a uniform educational system directed by governmental bureaus. They advocate a blanket curriculum for the country. And their program would not merely lift the financial burdens of education from the local community, but would tend inevitably to destroy the sense of responsibility for education which is the real basis of the present school system.

Inherent in the theory of Federalized education is a threat to all parochial and private schools. That is well recognized by those who believe in it and those who earnestly oppose it. But there is another grave danger which many enthusiasts for Federal aid and control do not see. Bureaucratic administration of popular education would eventually make every school board a political unit and every school an opening for Federal interference with private rights, opinions and local liberties and responsibilities. This is much too heavy a price to pay for whatever efficiency may be gained by putting the schools under National control and supporting them from the National Treasury.

Making It Tough for Him.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

TO A TIRED FIELD MARSHAL.

I.

Tell me, Marshal, what are your thoughts—
What are your thoughts as you sit reviewing?
Do you wonder why you are sitting there?
Do you long for home and an easy-chair?
For this Hitler stuff do you really care?
What are your thoughts as you sit reviewing?

II.

Tell me, last of the Iron Men,
What do you think as the troops are passing?
Does your blood run warm to the tramp of feet?
Are your thoughts the sort you would dare repeat?
Do you wonder "Gott! Aint it time to eat?"
What do you think as the troops are passing?

III.

Tell me, lord of another day,
How do you feel as you sit there watching?
Do you wince a bit as you view the scene?
For that Hitler bird are you very keen?
Do his speeches turn you a brownish green?
How do you feel as you sit there dozing?

IV.

Tell me, last of the wartime great,
What is your mood at those demonstrations?
Do you feel as glum as you really look?
Do you long for schnapps and a good, clean book?
Do you wish you'd died when the big guns shook?
What is your mood at those demonstrations?

V.

Tell me, Marshal, give us the truth—
What are your thoughts as you sit with Hitler?
Are you blue as you look in the public press?
Do you wish you'd hidden your right address?
Do the speeches fill you with deep distress?
What do you think of that guy Herr Hitler?

VI.

Tell me, Marshal, if you had your way,
Would you watch those goings on each day?
Would you sit in those reviewing stands?
Would you go for all those German bands?
Or leave the whole mess on their hands?
What would you do if you had your way?

BANKERS' SONG.

The slump must be beaten—
We're out to abate it;
We're following Franklin—
But, gosh! how we hate it.

Man Is the Only Creature That Denies His Young Training Needed to Survive.

By Robert Quillen.

ALL human experience has shown that man can not survive prosperity.

Time after time, nations grown fat and soft in wealthy ease have been conquered by races hardened in adversity. Time after time, privileged classes softened and corrupted by wealth have been destroyed by lean men schooled in poverty.

And what is true of nations and classes is likewise true of individuals. Nothing fails like success.

These truths are so clearly established and so abundantly supported by evidence that no man of sense will question them.

Yet in each new generation the children of prosperity are consigned to the devil by doting parents who have learned nothing from the experience of others.

You would suppose that a man of unusual ability, having made himself prosperous despite the keenest of competition, would know enough of human nature to shield his son from its weaknesses.

But his love of money and his respect for its power warp his judgment.

Money, he believes, is good. He desires all good things for his son. Therefore, he gives his son money.

He remembers and resents the hardships of his own youth and tries to get even with the past by giving his son the things he was denied.

But the chief cause of his folly is pride. He is proud of the success that enables him to give his son much. It would hurt his pride to see his son clothed like the sons of failures. And if he were advised to make the youngster paddle his own canoe, his pride would cry: "What! The son of a Smith reduced to common labor! It would disgrace the family."

Well, the old man has money and it does seem a shame to deny the boy anything. What else is the money good for?

But when too much money and ease have done their work and the boy has become a waster, an idle show-off or a dissipated profligate without character or conscience, the father will say to his soul: "I did all any man could do for a son, and this is the reward I get."

He did too much. He ruined the boy as certainly as ever one man ruined another by deliberate purpose, but he accepts no blame. Good intentions absolve him.

The tragedy of success is that men made strong by adversity can give their sons everything but the schooling that makes men strong.

Letters to the Editor

Old Governmental System Not Inconsistent With Recovery—"Crying for Uncle Sam."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some persons are bothered about the possibility of sinking the Constitution through the administration of the national industrial recovery act. Such concern is wasted.

The whole purpose and intent of moves so far made for recovery are obviously more in agreement with promotion of the general welfare than activities conducted in previous years. The breakdown of the method we followed bears ample testimony to the need for reestablishing the objectives so succintly stated by the framers of the Constitution, and the desirability of clearly understanding the issues involved in that method.

We can not logically expect "rugged individualism" to flourish in an atmosphere of growing social dependency. Nor is there reason in repeatedly demanding Federal aid and then resenting Federal usurpation of State rights—crying for Uncle Sam in every emergency, and rebelling at his ministrations. The surrender of initiative is the price we pay for a lopsided mass-production industrial system. We can not have it both ways. Political freedom inevitably suffers when people habitually solicit governmental aid and succor.

What the objectors have to deplore is not the decay of rights, but the growth of a system making the exercise of those rights impossible.

China's Dollars Recall Old American Trade Dollar of 1873.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The announcement that the Chinese Republic is ready to issue its own dollar coins, which are being minted in Shanghai, brings to mind the efforts of the United States to provide coins as a substitute for the Mexican dollars which have been the medium of exchange in the Far East for nearly a century. In 1873 Congress authorized the coinage of the "trade dollar," weighing 7½ grains more than the "dollar of our daddies," the coinage of which was stopped in the same year.

During the five years which followed the authorization of coinage of trade dollars there were produced in the mints of the United States 35,959,360 of these coins. But the attempt to induce the Chinese to accept these tokens in place of the Mexican dollars proved futile. The Chinese were unfamiliar with the "chop," and insisted upon payment for their merchandise in coins with which they were familiar.

The act of authorization of the coinage made these dollars legal tender in the United States in amounts up to $5, but that legal tender provision was subsequently repealed. In the meantime, the country had been flooded with the coins which, when their legal tender status was removed, rapidly lost their value as money. By 1884 they had fallen to something like 70 cents each.

Confident that Congress would eventually enact legislation which would either restore the value of the trade dollar as a coin or withdraw it entirely from circulation, a syndicate of bankers bought them by the million at the lowest price. Then these bankers asked Congress to act. This persuasion was successful in 1887, and within 48 hours after President Cleveland had signed the act which called those despised coins back to the melting pots in the mints they were readily sold at from 98 to 99½ cents. The bankers who had the foresight to invest in trade dollars reaped a small fortune as a result of their confidence in the integrity of Uncle Sam.

Women Who Bait Fish Hooks.

With rather dubious eyes I look
On women who can bait a hook
And never squeal or never squirm
Impaling minnow or a worm.

I know there's many a girl who can Bait hooks as well as any man,
But just the same I seem to feel
That angleworms should make her squeal.

Carlisle Bargeron

Bargeron.

WELL, sir, a grasshopper may kick my brains out, if the historians won't have a dickens of a time with what we wittingly call this era we are living through. Heretofore our periods of history have dealt with reasonably long spans of time. But now they come and go with the frequency of a mood.

Yesterday marked the beginning of a new period in which Secretary-Administrator Ickes asserted himself. He and his followers are predicting bigger and better things.

What the Secretary-Administrator set about to do is to get his public works program before the people just as much as in the NRA, if he does not subordinate it. To this end he launched an intensive publicity campaign.

• • • •

HE hasn't the publicity set-up that the NRA has. But he does have two very capable artists, Mike Strauss and Aubrey E. Taylor, whose business from now on will be to see if they can make their voices heard in the NRA din. As a starter, Taylor started off yesterday with a party of public works ballyhooers in a trimotored plane for a trip through the West and South. The airplane stunt is sort of one-up on the commissar's crowd.

Unquestionably the human element entered largely into the formulation of the plan. For one thing, it certainly has not added to Mr. Ickes' appetite the past several days for the NRA crowd to be passing around the word privately that if their program does not succeed it will be because Mr. Ickes did not get his public works program underway soon enough. It is only human that he should not want to be made the goat and should take steps to prevent it.

• • • •

NEITHER has it given him any particular satisfaction for Commissar Johnson to be getting the credit for all of the men who have returned to work. It is not that the commissar has grabbed the credit. It is simply that the NRA has been attended by so much ballyhoo that it is all that any one hears about. I have observed myself in the newspaper reports from around the country that the NRA is invariably given the credit for launching a public works project.

"The NRA is being felt here," it will say. "Five thousand men went to work last week on the river dam."

That there is some feeling towards the comissar on Mr. Ickes' part is evidenced in some movies that were made the other day of men receiving pay checks from the secretary-administrator. Two or three of them, speaking into the microphone as they received the checks, said: "I don't know anything about the NRA, but I do know that the public works program gave me a job."

Somebody must have told them to say that.

• • • •

THERE is more to this publicity campaign of the secretary-administrator than any rivalry between him and the commissar. It would seem to be quite significant that Mr. Roosevelt approved it. That's the reason I look upon it as the beginning of a new period, what might be called the Ickes' period of the new deal. And it marks the passing, to a large extent at least, of the Johnsonian period.

In other words it is not simply a movement by Mr. Ickes to get his public works program into the limelight. It is a plan that has the approval of the President. From now on, or rather after a short while, we may expect to hear less and less of the commissar and the NRA. In fact, it probably will not be but a short time until we wonder what has become of the commissar. The NRA as an administartive or regulatory agency will be with us for a long time. But it is very likely that the troops, the minute men and the generals and the colonels, the would-be boycotters and whatnot, will soon be called in—perhaps, to organize such a memory organization as Mr. Hoover's famed A. R. A.

• • • •

THE reason for this is not denied in any quarter hereabouts. The NRA has failed in its purpose, whatever that was suposed to be. You know, it had a purpose with which the ballyhoo did not deal. Insofar as the purpose which the public generally associated with it is concerned—the putting of men back to work—it has, of course, had some success, though the 6,000,000 men which the commissar promised would be returned to work by Labor Day are not there.

The failure has been more or less in connection with the more complicated purpose of establishing a "new relationship between employer and employe," the purpose of "redistributing wealth." In its efforts along this line the NRA has made the farmer mad, stirred up labor disputes and made capital hesitant.

Which is not a good way to restore prosperity at all.

Due Taxes List To Be Printed In Alexandria

City Council Also Backs Free Tuition for Fort Children.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria city council last night took up again the deferred question of publishing a list of delinquent taxpayers owing more than one year's taxes on real estate.

It was decided to publish the list October 16, and to show taxes up to and including 1932. The total amount due is $180,000.

The council decided to request the city school board to grant free tuition to children of officers and enlisted men of Fort Humphreys, attending the Alexandria High School.

City Balance Shown.

Financial statements of the city for May, June and July were submitted, showing a balance on hand July 31 of $10,767.34.

Dr. W. Lewis Schaefer, city health officer, presented a proposed ordinance covering manufacture of ice cream, which was referred to the city attorney. An ordinance covering milk and cream, placing the fat content of milk at 3.5 per cent and cream at 18 per cent, was adopted.

A memorandum from the city attorney regarding proposed removal of the spur track of the R., F. & P. Railroad on North Washington street, was tabled.

Soliciting Refused.

Permission to solicit contributions on the street was refused to the Volunteers of America.

A resolution by Councilman Davison that the city attorney draw up a comprehensive building code, including plumbing and electrical work, was adopted. This, it was explained, will necessitate the employment of a competent building inspector.

Workers Resume Jobs at Factory

Alexandria Wage Dispute Amicably Settled.

The 100 employes of the Century Manufacturing Co., of Alexandria, who walked out Monday to consider wage-scale adjustment, returned to work yesterday.

Sidney Weisman, president, said his company was unable, until a code was adopted, to pay the minimum $12 a week wage required under the NRA, but with consent of representatives of the NRA, the firm had revised their piece-work rates to enable their employes to earn $9 a week, with the possibility of the faster operators earning considerably more, and have guaranteed a minimum wage to all operators except learners of $8 a week.

Convict Break Deaths Mount

Wounded Guard Expires; Raises Angola Toll to Four.

New Orleans, Sept. 12 (AP).—The death list in Sunday's convict break at the Angola Penal Farm was increased to four today as John R. Singleton, captain of Camp E, died of wounds received when he attempted to halt 12 fleeing prisoners. Two camp guards and one of the escaping convicts also were shot to death.

Marian Russell, 21-year-old common-law wife of one of the convicts revealed today the escape had been planned for two months and that she had smuggled a revolver to her husband on one of her visits to the prison.

Police said she told them she had no idea the revolver would be used in a break.

Cummings Upholds Home Loan Bonds

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Cummings, ruling on the validity of bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, said he found the bonds "binding obligations" of the corporation.

The opinion also said that "payment of interest on such bonds will be fully and unconditionally guaranteed by the United States, and that they will be tax exempt to the extent provided in the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933."

The opinion, made public yesterday, was sent to President Roosevelt August 22.

Trials So Far Away, 4 Bailed in Rum Cases

Four men, charged with violating liquor laws, were released on personal bonds from jail at Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday. State officials said the action was taken "because it would be too long before their trials would be called."

Those released were Theodore Stringer, Bryans Road, Md., charged with transportation and possession, and Johnny Chesnut, Marlboro; Walter Dixon, Meadows, Md., and James Newman, Bryans Road, with manufacture and possession.

Capital Baker, Lacking Alexandria Card, Fined

Dalton Cahoon, representing a Washington bakery, who was cited into Alexandria Police Court for failure to take out a city license, was fined $50 and costs yesterday by Judge William S. Snow.

The case rested upon whether a so-called standing order for bakery products actually constituted a bona fide order, and Judge Snow ruled it did not. It was shown the agent took an order in January for products to be delivered from time to time, designating this as a standing order, but the court held the merchant was not obligated to purchase the amount specified and such orders were an evasion of the license ordinance.

Falls Church Council Sets $1.45 Tax Rate

Yield of $18,450 Expected for Year; Beer Law Is Adopted.

A tax rate of $1.45 on the $100 assessed valuation was fixed yesterday by the Town Council of Falls Church, Va., for the 1933-34 fiscal year.

This rate was divided as follows: $1 for general town purposes; 10 cents for fire protection, and 35 cents for school bonds.

As Arlington and Fairfax Counties are precluded from making a levy for fire protection in the town, this will mean a saving of 15 cents for the $100 valuation in Arlington County and a 3-cent saving in the Fairfax County section of the town.

It was estimated the tax rate will yield $18,450 and that $4,000 will be collected from delinquent taxes and $2,700 from fines and building permits.

The budget amounts to $25,453.91. Of this amount $5,953.80 was set aside for repayment of loan from water account; $350 for interest on loan; $2,000 for road repair work; $2,000 for retirement of school bonds; $3,196 interest on school bonds; $3,500 for public schools; $900 for fire department; $300 for water department; $2,340 for salaries of town clerk, sergeant and superintendent of water department; $240 for town library; $1,300 for street lights, and $3,360 for contingent and miscellaneous expenses.

Alton B. Shumate was elected town sergeant.

The council adopted a permanent beer regulation ordinance for the town, after an amendment to prohibit sale of beer on Sunday was defeated.

Two Are Held for Jury In Maryland Rum Case

At a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran at Upper Marlboro yesterday two men were held for the Federal grand jury on charges of manufacture and possession of whisky.

New Coach Stop Plan Approved

Report of Committee Given to Arlington Utilities Board.

Proposed new stops of the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., on Wilson boulevard between Rosslyn and Falls Church were approved in a special committee report at the meeting of the Arlington County Public Utilities Commission last night, but changes were suggested on the Lee highway.

At the intersection of Lee highway and Harlow avenue in Rosslyn surfacing of an unpaved area between the highway and sidewalk would facilitate loading and unloading, the report said. Lengthening of stopping-places on Harlow avenue also was advised.

The report urged stop signs at points where necessary to inform passengers of loading and unloading places, and suggested the commission recommend to the county board an ordinance fixing these stops permanently. Prohibiting of parking within 15 feet of the signs was proposed.

Herndon O. E. S. to Meet.

Herndon Chapter, No. 55, Order of Eastern Star, will meet tonight in the lodge hall at Herndon, Va. The grand matron, Mrs. Nellie C. Cosdon, of Clarendon, will pay her official visit to the chapter. Bready, refreshments.

Virginia West's Disappearance Not Explained

Family Departs After Safe Return of Girl in Washington.

Still declining to discuss the mysterious disappearance of his 22-year-old daughter, Virginia, who was found in a Third Precinct rooming house early yesterday, Walter H. West, retired Kentucky banker, departed with his family for Middleburg, Va., last night.

"My daughter was returned. She was unharmed, is in perfect health, and that is all we care about," Mrs. West told reporters at the Mayflower Hotel after the girl's return.

At the hotel, from which she disappeared last Saturday night after attending a show, Miss West conferred with her brother, Walter West, jr., while her father and a friend guarded the door. The family refused to disclose the result of this conference.

Beyond announcing the girl's return, Chief of Detectives Frank S. W. Burke declined to talk about the case.

Miss West arrived in Washington last week with her father and mother and a girl friend. Saturday afternoon the girls decided to go to a theater, but were unable to pick a show both liked. So they went to different shows, deciding to meet later.

Virginia did not appear at the appointed hour, and two hours later a man called the West apartment, saying:

"Virginia will be home later."

Chinese Maid Faces Taxing Hostess Role

Rose Lee, 20, Will Be Father's Social Aid at Legation.

Norma Shearer is her favorite actress.

"She is a very good actress. And so beautiful," laconically admitted the strikingly beautiful little maiden, as she casually inhaled the smoke of a well-known brand of American cigarette.

It was just time to dress for dinner, and she nervously opened and closed dressing table drawers in her father's suite at the Shoreham Hotel, apparently casting an inventory of toilet requisites.

Prefers Chinese Dress.

She prefers the Chinese mode of dress for women to Western styles, be they Parisian or Hollywood, and has the courage to follow her conviction.

When interviewed last evening, she was wearing a truly Chinese creation of high-collared red crash-like material, made floor-length on severe tunic lines and slit to the knee on either side. From her ears dangled huge round red earrings. Her soft black hair was drawn simply back into a roll on the nape of her neck. Her lips were rouged effectively.

Despite her youth, Miss Lee is superbly poised. She should succeed admirably in the mission which brought her to Washington a few days ago—that of accompanying her father, erstwhile high adviser to the Chinese Legation in Washington, to his new post at Warsaw, Poland, as minister of China to Poland and Chezcoslovakia. She will act as his official hostess.

Job Holds no Terrors.

The challenge of such a position, with its inflexible requirements of tact, assurance, intelligence, graciousness and indefatigability, seems to hold no terrors for the quiet Chinese girl.

"I have been with my mother. I have seen her act as hostess. I am not frightened at the role," she told her interviewer.

This is Miss Lee's third visit to Washington, but it is the first time she has made the long journey, from Shanghai to Washington, unaccompanied by father or mother.

On August 19, she sailed from Shanghai for San Francisco, where she landed on September 4, to make the overland trip by train to join her father in Washington.

Modern maid that she is, she embarked on the considerable adventure without the full consent of her mother, who was filled with misgivings at the idea of her youngest child making such a lengthy journey alone. Miss Lee has two older brothers, one of whom is now studying at Purdue University, while the other is connected with the Office of Foreign Affairs at Shanghai.

Speaks Pure English.

Miss Lee Speaks pure, accentless English. On questioning, she admitted she had studied it since childhood, and found it an easier tongue to master than her native Chinese.

Her first visit to this country was as a baby of three months, when she accompanied her father and mother on one of the former's diplomatic assignments. In 1927, she returned again for a three-year stay during the time her father was special envoy of China to the United States. She enrolled at Gray Court School for Girls, at Stamford, Conn., where she studied until her father was sent to Mexico in 1930 by his government. She joined her parents in Mexico City, and after five months' stay, returned again to Wahsington, and this time enrolled as a student at Western High School.

Although she has visited many countries, Miss Lee likes China best. She thinks every one likes his native land better than any other place.

She likes to read detective stories, and has never read any of Pearl Buck's stories of China. She likes to dance "pretty well," and likes jazz music occasionally, "only it doesn't make sense," she declared.

Perhaps her only real hobby is music—classical music—which she has studied, together with piano, for five years. At the latest outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war she was enrolled at the University of Shanghai for advanced study in music, but withdrew when the university was declared to be in the danger zone.

"Oh, of course!" she laughed, when asked if her vison of the future included husband and children.

Wise College Student Gets Her Portfolio

By Ruth Anne Davis.

An appropriate campus outfit includes more things than the hail-fellow-well-met looking costume. College freshmen won't believe it, but seniors will. They have battled the fall winds and winter rains enough to know it isn't sufficient to have a weather-proof costume; that it's quite essential to give a mind to the care of one's books and papers. They might have learned this lesson through costly experience. And so will the freshman.

When the gale sweeps around the corner of a building and tears her laboriously written essays from under arm and wantonly scatters them hither, thither and yon, tears of anguish will avail little. When the rain pours down from laden heavens and drenches her $15 or $20 worth of books, let her console herself as best she may.

Experience teaches, but why doesn't she spare it the trouble by providing herself ahead of time with one of the trim looking leather portfolios, either brown or black? Then the elements may rage at will, but she is insured against their destructiveness.

Father has protested before and he will again if you continue to avail yourself of his handkerchiefs every time you have a cold. Does he sympathize when you tell him in your angelic fashion that your little bits of lacy linens are chiefly to be seen and not used? He does not! So the family row begins and mother acts as buffer. If she's wise and anxious to prevent future trouble she'll pacify both parties by laying in a supply of the good-sized handkerchiefs from Greece, China, Hungary and Czecholslovakia which the proprietor of a Connecticut avenue gift shop has on hand. Their rolled hems and colorful corner embroidery make them ornamental enough to satisfy the most particular miss, while their size enables them to be extremely useful. In this instance father can't complain of the bill, for mother can explain that she bought them to safeguard his supply.

Cigarettes being one of the preferred modern indulgences, ash trays have risen to the occasion and proffer themselves in countless number of attractive designs. A large Connecticut avenue store is displaying twin trays which are joined in the middle by a candleholder. Here's a cozy item for any room.

Picture two sweet young things on a low divan in front of an open fireplace. Flames from a half-burnt pine log throw fantastic shadows around the room. On the end table sits the bright aluminum ash trays with a lighted candle between them. Somebody page an artist!

First it's fall frocks, fall thrills. Then it's payment due on fall bills. But we won't let that stop us, not with all the temptations the shops are offering in way of frocks. However, we might be persuaded to curb our expenditures by some of the attractive neckwear shown in an F street store.

No doubt we can rummage around in our closets and find one of last year's conservative purchases which we can take up or let out, according to the trend of our present figure. We can send it to the cleaners and give it a fresh beginning. Then we can change its outlook on life by taking off the old collar and putting on one of the chic angora embroidered nets.

Hosiery for the housewife often runs into an expense and plays havoc with a budget plan. Any suggestion as to how to prevent this should meet with her approval. A store on G street offers an interesting means. In the basement they are selling rubber kneeling pads, which she can use around the house when she's down on her knees painting woodwork or odd bits of furniture, or out in the garden tending her plants.

It can be used also as a cushion for the ball games, or any sporting event where the hard wooden benches become decidedly annoying. They come in red or green, and cost 25 cents.

With the price of eggs soaring high we keenly realize the necessity of keeping tab on them. A month or so ago what did it matter, an egg or so, but now it's the housekeeper who pays and pays.

As long as you depend on the clock to help you time the eggs, you're as liable as not to lose by a minute or so. But with the attractive egg timers on sale for 35 cents in a downtown department store, you'll be playing safe. They come in the guise of little Dresden figures, or blue and white china windmills, with little 3-minute sand glasses attached. Here's a plausible excuse to decorate your kitchen with something not only useful, but ornamental.

Second Lady "Vacationing"

wife of the Vice President, is following a dawn-to-dusk "vacation" schedule that involves churning and other farm chores, acting as secretary to her husband, knitting and playing hostess, a bit unwillingly, to an army of tourists that over-runs the Garner estate at Uvalde, Tex., almost daily.

Dawn-Dusk Toil—That's "Second Lady's" Vacation!

Churns Milk, Cans Fruit, Knits and Answers Letters From Morning Until Night; With Tourists Cluttering Texas Place.

Rising as always at dawn, preparing 6 o'clock breakfasts for herself and her distinguished husband, office work from 7 to noon—some days bring 100 letters and telegrams—canning fruit, knitting a bedspread and entertaining droves of tourists—thus is the Second Lady of the Land, Mrs. John Nance Garner, "vacationing" this summer at her home in the once remote town of Uvalde, Tex.

"The yard is always full of tourists," she writes Miss Josephine Sterling, secretary in the Vice President's office here. "They come miles off their routes to see us; why, I can not tell. Ours is just an average American home. Sometimes they surprise us around in the rear yard. Mr. Garner was awakened the other day from his afternoon siesta by two young ladies with cameras, 'snapping' him in his shirt sleeves.

Yearns for Wilderness.

"We like meeting folks, but I've yearned for 'some lone wilderness' where no endless stream of cars could be bringing people who 'just want to shake our hands.'"

Her droves of callers and heavy correspondence have not, however, prevented the Vice President's energetic wife-secretary from indulging in household chores about her spacious home and its six-acre setting of orchard, gardens and live oaks.

"Sara, my Mexican maid, has just had her tonsils out," she wrote one day recently, "so I've added churning to my morning pleasures. And whenever there's a lull I knit on my bedspread. Time has not permitted me to make much headway on that, but I am enjoying it immensely."

Son Lives Nearby.

In addition to Sara there are Texana, the colored cook, and a Mexican man who helps in both Mrs. Garner's garden and that of her only son, Tully.

The latter's home adjoins her own and his 12-year-old Genevieve plays around "Grandma's" yard as much as her own. Ann, Tully's wife, seeks frequent tips from Mrs. Garner's kitchen on the mysteries of some Mexican dish or Texas delicacy, so there is a well-worn path between the two houses.

The Vice President runs off for an occasional fishing trip or a visit to his nearby ranch, but mail has been heavy enough to tie him down almost as continuously as in Washington.

Love for Texas Undimmed.

A long, hot dry season and plenty of work have in no way lessened the ardor of "Ettie Garner," as she signs herself, for the flat cactus country she calls home.

"There is no place in the world like it," she comments. "And dawn here is just like heaven."

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If September 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11 a. m., from 3:45 to 5 p. m. and from 7 to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 9:20 a. m., from 12:30 to 1:45 p. m. and from 6 to 6:35 p. m.

It will be difficult for you to work steadily or long at anything on this date. Influences operating today will tend to promote activity of a jerky nature; whatever is accomplished will be done in spurts. Much work of a manual or mechanical nature done today will have to be repeated. Near perfection will not be easily attained.

The child born on this September 13 will have no hesitation about speaking his thoughts; his attitude toward his elders, including his parents, will be no different than toward those of his own age. The child will be happy and care-free and will possess a mind that works rapidly. Will probably do especially well in mathematics and in general science at school; will enjoy detailed studies.

If Septemmer 13 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely the type of person who will apparently go through life without ever showing a trace of worry; life generally, will treat you kindly, but like all others, you will buck up against a stone wall now and then. Your life will be generally successful because of the fact that your aims and aspirations will always be of a worthy and high order. Your greatest difficulty lies in the fact that you are slow to apprehend danger; you travel too much in the clouds. However, your buoyant nature, your unwillingness to "throw in the sponge" under any circumstances, and your will to win, will always pull you back on the right path after you have stumbled off it. You are quick to profit by your mistakes and quick to forget about them lest they bind you with fear.

Born on September 13, you have a mind of your own and you are quick to take command of any situation. In working out your problems, you do not stay long in a blind alley when you are puzzled; if one scheme seems not to work, you believe another will, and so you keep on trying. You are adroit in meeting and handling people; never at loss for words, you speak the right one at the right time, forcefully and convincingly. You are not the type of person who unwillingly overpowers others with your strength and personality; all who meet you feel immediately at ease, for you treat all as your equal, whether they be it or not.

Successful people born on September 13:

Leonard Kip, attorney and author.
Charles Wachsmuth, scientist.
Gen. John J. Pershing, U. S. A.
James Lyall, inventor.
Anna M. Lea (Merritt), artist.
Maud Ballington Booth, philanthropist.

Writer Insists Negroes Hold Own Salvation

New York, Sept. 12.—Julia Peterkin, who probably knows the Negro as well as any writer now practicing, talks reluctantly of "the future of the race," the "problem of the race," and so forth.

"I don't see Negroes as a 'race,'" she explained at her hotel, where she is writing still another to add to her list of four books about Negroes. The entire manuscript has been finished, except the first three pages, and they take a deal of pottering.

"Even more," Mrs. Peterkin continued, "I see them as individuals, as friends, helpers, good men, bad men, women—what not. I've grown up with them all about me and I've loved many of them. It is quite impossible for a Northerner to understand the feeling I have for many of the Negroes on our plantation, because the roots of the feeling go too far back for casual exhumation and discussion.

Future in Own Hands.

"But I know one thing about the future of the Negro race, at least. This is that its future place will depend entirely on its future accomplishment. Whatever the future produces will be produced from inside.

"I went to a dinner the other night where all the guests but myself were Communists. One was departing the next day for the South to organize the cotton mills.

"'And when we have the mills thoroughly organized,' he added, 'we shall start in on the Negro.'

"I laughed, and they asked me why.

Holds Effort Hopeless.

"'You'll get nowhere organizing the Negro,' I told them, 'because the Negro will suspect you. It will not be the white people who stop you, but the Negroes themselves.' Leaving out the fringes, as it were, of the race, there remains a great and considerable body of Negro life that absorbs attempts at exploitation like a sponge.

"And what's more, the wall against which that organizer will stop will not be a tangible one. It will be laughter. The speeches will be made, and, perhaps, accepted with a straight face. Back home there will be a lot of thigh-slapping."

Among Mrs. Peterkin's cherished experiences is a visit to a certain night club in Harlem, where the wife of one of the Negro proprietors is a Negro woman who grew up on the Peterkin plantation.

Club Is "Discovered."

The club was discovered some years ago by a certain white set, and was transformed into a rendezvous.

"Yes, Mrs. Peterkin," said the proprietor, "we used to have good times here. Just black folks came, and we had real good times.

"But then we were 'discovered,' and now we fill up with white people. It's not so much fun," the proprietor brightened up, "but we make 'em pay for it. You see this little dime bottle of ginger ale? We make 'em pay a dollar and a half for that. And they like it!"

Cruelty

By Katherine W. Smith.

Forgive me if I seek to grieve
Your heart with sudden sorrow.
By wounding you I can receive
A little rest, and borrow

From your ill-gotten happiness
A part that you are taking
From me. I wound with bitterness

School Here, Now Mothers Might Relax

They Can, if They Wish, Revive Glow of Features With Easy Routine.

We have outlined health and beauty programs for children, from kindergarten to college. And now that they are off to school, let's lend mother a helping hand.

Whether you were away at shore or mountain resort, or had to stay at home for the summer, the warm months were very likely hectic ones for you.

But now there's a long fall and winter ahead. The children are off to school for several hours a day. And, in spite of the fact that you still have a thousand household tasks to attend to, you can, if you will, plan a program daily, to allow one-half hour or more for a beauty and rest period.

Rejuvenating Facial.

A rejuvenating facial will renew your energy no end—make you look years younger in a few minutes. What's more, with a consistent schedule and beauty plan, in five years you'll actually be looking as young as you do today, if not younger.

Find time to cleanse your skin thoroughly with soap and water and then cleansing cream. Then pat very quickly and briskly with skin tonic. Blot dry with tissues. Now apply a good soothing, nourishing cream and remember to work it upward and outward over face and neck.

That Hot Stove.

If you are going to be baking over a hot stove you may not be comfortable with cream oozing over your face—although you should be sure to use it afterward to offset the drying effect of the heat—and, if you're going to be dusting, the dust particles may fly about and the creamy surface attracts them.

If you can just sit back and sew or mend, cream your skin and let the cream get a half hour's chance to soften the skin and bring back its youthful elasticity.

Then Take Rest.

If you can, occasionally, lie down—even for 10 or 15 minutes, while the cream is on your skin—have the room dark. Place over your eyes little pads of cotton moistened with skin tonic and have your mind a complete blank. That's the grandest way to relax luxuriously. After a hard day, before the family gathers for dinner, fatigue can be routed in just those few minutes of relaxation and you'll look fresh as a daisy at the dinner table.

The next step is to remove the cream and pat with iced astringent, then go over the skin with a piece of ice covered with gauze or clean linen. After that your makeup and you should be all aglow.

The Family Marketer

Pumpkins Reach Market Here, But Housewife Must Look for 'Em.

There's no doubt about it anymore. Fall is definitely here with the arrival of pumpkins on the market. You won't find them readily available, but if you seek the hucksters' stands, there they are, prices ranging according to size.

Squabs are always delicacies. Right now you can buy them for considerably less than you'll be able to a month from now. For a dinner party, or a tempter for a sick friend, there's nothing more appropriate. Buy now while they're only 50 and 55 cents a piece.

A duck dinner always offers a pleasing variation from the usual fish, fowl and meat menus. There are two kinds to choose from—the Long Island ducks, always on hand, fresh or frozen, and the country ducks from our own locality. Some of these look decidedly inviting for 25 cents a pound. Don't forget, with a duck dinner, sour wine is a finishing touch.

Get Your Grapes Now.

In regard to wines, you should stock up on grapes right now so that your cellar will be looking right in prime this time next year.

Corn lovers regret the absence of golden bantam, but if they know how to choose they can find delectable sweet corn aplenty. You can tell it from the less tasty varieties by the long flaps on the husks. Country gentlemen and evergreen are both selling three ears for 10 cents. Both kinds have a decidedly different flavor, either of which is likely enough to prove your favorite. The former is large, with proportionate kernels, whereas the latter is smaller, with deep, irregular kernels.

Tomato Price Doubles.

In the last week tomatoes have doubled in price on the wholesale market. Retailers should consider themselves lucky that they have been comparatively unaffected by the rise. Beware, though, lest you, too, be called upon to pay. People waiting for cheaper tomatoes are liable to be left in the lurch. One dollar a basket should be considered a lucky price.

The little yellow tomatoes we suggested for preserving are down 5 cents a pound. It's a good time to change your mind and put up some of these, anyway.

The petite pickling onions selling three pounds for 25 cents offer a pleasing suggestion for your dinner tonight. Take some of these home with you and try boiling them. The result will prove highly satisfactory from the point of tenderness and adaptability to the rest of your dinner.

Second Best Seasoning.

You know, that after salt, onions may be considered the most valuable seasoning in cooking? That explains why, when cooked as a whole, they have a way of bringing out the other units on your menu.

New crops are generally rather high in price, but not so with the cauliflowers, now on the market. You can buy them for 20 or 25 cents a head and delight in their fresh flavor.

We go along taking lettuce so much for granted that when it does go up in price we're quite at loss what to do about it. Don't take such a fatalistic attitude. As long as we have to pay 10 and 15 cents a head for it, lets hunt around and find our money's worth. The iceberg lettuce generally is dependable. No matter if the outside leaves appear to be a bit ragged, if the head feels hard and firm you know you aren't being cheated.

This is the very best time of the year for lamb. You can buy baby lamb leg for 25 cents a pound, tender and digestible meat.

Would-Be Suicide Snubs Her Rescuer

He heard a young man shout that his sweetheart had quarreled with him and was trying to drown herself.

Waycott got into a boat and told her to climb in. She said, "Go away."

"Climb aboard at once or I'll hit you over the head with this oar and drag you in," said Waycott.

She did and Waycott took her ashore, where she resumed the quarrel and departed without a "Thank you" to her rescuer.

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where styles of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, Washington Post, on request.

Whether you call it "princess" or "mermaid" or Mae West" or "sheath" or any of those names which imply the high-busted, fitted waistline, smooth-hipped figure, you're going to want to look like it before the season is far under way. Even though you may not think so now.

And the surest way to look like it is to start at the foundation . . . meaning, of course, the corset.

With clever use of that comfortable two-way stretch material . . . with curved and bias fabric inserts . . . with longer cut hip sections and high tops lightly boned to stay well above the waistline . . . the new foundation garments will turn you into a 1900 beauty in as little time as it takes to put one on.

All-in-one garments are built to curve in the waistline and curve up the bust. Separate brassieres are designed to lift and round out.

Because dresses are so smoothly molded, every unnecessary seam has been cut out of new girdles and all-in-ones. Where seams are used, they are as fine and inconspicuous as is humanly (or machine-ly) possible.

Slide Closing.

One of the new girdles for the more slender figure is illustrated. It has the novel feature of a slide fastener down the center of the back which helps keep it snug and smooth. And placed in the back, it makes no ridge to mar the smooth outlines of a dress.

Two tiny bones, one on each side of the back, keep the high waist from rolling over.

Geometry Alters Figure.

Along with the right corset, fashion has another idea to aid you in perfecting your figure. That's her clever use of geometrical figures in the design of a dress. They can make you seem wide or narrow wherever you want to.

Our new leaflet tells you how. Send the filled-in coupon and proper inclosures and we'll mail you the leaflet.

Graying Hair Is The Thing, Experts Say

It's Fashionable and No Longer a Sign of Old Age, They Insist.

Platinum locks and henna-ed heads notwithstanding, gray hair is coming to the fore as just about the smartest shade in coiffures, according to the Chicago & Illinois Hairdressers Association, which recently convened in Chicago.

In a one-day style show, illustrating fashionable ways of dressing white, gray and graying hair, models used were young women, prematurely gray, to whom the early change represented nothing of a bugaboo.

Modern women, instead of developing an inferiority complex with the appearance of the first gray hair, hail its advent as increased opportunity for distinctive appearance, hair dressers assert. There has been a marked decline in demand for dyed hair.

Aversion to gray hair arose in a bygone day, when its possession was regarded as a handicap to women's advancement in business, social and professional life and sounded the death knell on hopes for future adventure or romance.

"Today," they say, "one finds that women popular in society, successful in business and happy in romance, are gray-haired as often as not. Not all of them are along in years."

"Go into the dress sections of department stores," urged one hair stylist. "Observe the number of saleswomen with gray hair. One didn't see that a few years ago. Perhaps business houses in times like these want the woman with silver in her hair, associating it with experience and stability, and engendering confidence."

Sun as Bleach.

Sunshine acts as an excellent bleach. Some stains may be removed by dampening the spot with a soapy solution and letting the sun do the rest. Several repetitions of this treatment will remove most stains.

Govern Diet And Exercise To Keep Slim

Before 30 Is Time to Get Habit; Moderation in All Things Advised.

To eat out of proportion to one's need either on the side of meagerness or superfluity is culpable in the light of modern knowledge.

A witty writer, who applied herself to the problem of reducing her weight, testified: "I removed 50 pounds in seven months without exercising anything but my intelligence!"

The only way to rid oneself of extra pounds is to create a discrepancy between food intake and energy output, and to do this, one must either abstain from foods, or go in for strenuous exercises.

The better method is to apply both remedies in moderation. Increasing one's exercises is apt to put a keener edge on one's appetite and, for that reason, it is practical for overweight persons to engage in a limited program of exercises early in the day. During the ensuing waking hours, they can carefully count their calory intake. And the best way to keep the count low is to turn aside from starches and fats, such as bread, potatoes, butter, cream and rich milk, as well as pastries and candy.

Persons with an hereditary tendency to store bodily fat easily should be on guard before the age of 30, after which age most people show a tendency toward increased girth. The time to adjust one's diet is when the tendency to store fat first appears. The problem of removal of weight is vastly more complicated than thwarting its growth.

A REPORT OF PROGRESS

Three months ago today, the following statement by Mr. Eugene Meyer appeared in the first issue of The Washington Post under Mr. Meyer's ownership:

> "It will be my aim and purpose steadily to improve The Post and to make it an even better paper than it has been in the past. It will be conducted as an independent paper devoted to the best interests of the people of Washington and vicinity, and hopes to have their interest and support.
> "I think I should, in this connection, make it clear that, in purchasing The Post, I acted entirely on my own behalf, without suggestion from or discussion with any person, group or organization."

The Post desires to report to its readers the progress that has been made in the period since the above announcement appeared.

Customarily, circulation declines in the Summer vacation season, on account of the large number of readers who go to the seashore, to the mountains, or abroad. In the last three months, however, the Post circulation has increased approximately 10 per cent.

Advertising also has increased. In the month of July, The Post gained 171,690 lines of advertising, and in August gained 188,447, over the corresponding months of the year before. These increases in patronage follow material changes in the aspect and contents of the paper itself.

A new and modern type was purchased to make the paper easier to read. Improvements were made in mechanical processes to assure a cleaner printing of each of the pages.

The news and editorial staffs have been largely increased, in order that the presentation of fact shall be fuller and more accurate.

The use of more and better illustrations has brightened The Post's columns and improved its appearance.

The Post plans to continue this program of expansion and progress, and will report from time to time those developments in its growth which the management believes will prove of interest to its readers.

U. S. Banking Must Improve, Stonier Says

Education Head Addresses Institute's Annual Dinner Meeting.

The American banking system can and must be improved. So Dr. Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director, American Institute of Banking, informed members of Washington Chapter of the institute last night at the Raleigh Hotel.

Dr. Stonier delivered the principal address at the annual dinner meeting of the educational committee of the chapter, marking the inauguration of its next school year. It was attended by representatives of the committee, faculty, officers, governors and consuls of the chapter, and some guests.

Dr. Stonier said the banking system today is a far better one than it was 25 years ago and has given credit facilities to develop the greatest industrial, agricultural, and commercial nation in the world.

Improvement and Law.

The still needed improvement of our banking system can not come by law alone, however, he declared. The rank and file of our people have to realize that we must somehow or other retard our propensity for gambling, he warned, and we must slow up the development of our resources if we want safe banking. We can have safe banking if we will follow safe economic objectives, he emphasized.

"Simply passing a law to prohibit gambling means nothing, Dr. Stonier reminded. We passed a law to prohibit the consumption of alcohol, but the law was ahead of our ideals on the subject and hence failed. And banking law will fail if it is not supported by the rank and file of the people.

"There has been more public education in the field of banking in the United States since March 4, than during any other similar period in our history. The President of the United States has been responsible for a good deal of it. People realize now that they can not convert the United States of America into cash overnight.

Predicated on Averages.

"Any banking system must be predicated on the law of averages just as any business system must be. We can not all buy shoes on the same day. It would break down our whole system of the manufacture and distribution of footwear. We can not all get our deposits converted into gold or currency overnight. We tried that and failed."

The American banking system of the future will be a better one, he predicted, by virtue of its experience during the past four years. Not only will we have better bank management, but our banking clientele will also be more intelligent about its responsibilities toward the bank.

"It is very rare," he concluded, that a bank fails if all its borrowers pay their notes. In most cases the bank fails only because the community first fails the bank."

Vass Is Speaker.

George O. Vass, vice president and cashier, Riggs National Bank and president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, informed the junior bankers of his organization's interest in the constructive work of the chapter and its appreciation of its contribution towards higher standards of bank administration.

Raymond B. Dickey, dean of the faculty, praised the interest and energy of local bank employes, who, after the day's work, study the courses of the institute. Robert H. Lacey, cashier, Columbia National Bank and president of the chapter, outlined its educational program for the year, 1933-1934. J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co., chairman of the membership committee, and William H. Laughlin, Washington Loan & Trust Co., chief consul, reviewed the work of their respective groups. Walton L. Sanderson, Hamilton National Bank, chairman of the educational committee, presided.

Washington agency of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States has concluded an interesting educational conference at Orkney Springs, Va. This meeting followed a 65-day campaign of policy application writing by agents in which a specified mark had to be achieved to qualify for attendance.

The campaign ended September 5, anniversary of William Alexander, secretary of the society. More than 60 persons, including 34 accredited delegates with their families, as well as officials of the home office, were in attendance.

Among Meeting's Guests.

Among the guests were R. R. Hale, superintendent of agencies, Southern department; L. W. Klingman, manager, salary savings division; Field Instructor F. R. Amthor, all of the home office, New York; Victor E. Beamer, manager, Florida agency; T. Woody Evans, Roanoke, Va., a district manager.

As a result of the campaign of its members to qualify for the conference, the local agency wrote 224½ applications for the August period, compared with 176 in the period last year. During the July part of the effort, 206½ applications were written, contrasted with 146½ in July 1932. In the first five days of September, concluding the contest, it secured 112 1-6 applications in comparison with 23 in this period a year ago.

Leaders in the campaign of the local agency were David M. Stephens, first, with 29 2-5 applications; David W. Darden, second, with 23½ and John A. Vanden Heuvel, 22 1-5. Mr. Stephens as leader, has been delegated to present the report of the local campaign to Secretary Alexander at Chicago, September 25, where winners in all agencies will do likewise.

The board of directors of Riggs National Bank, at its latest meeting, declared a quarterly dividend of $2 per share, payable October 16, to stockholders of record September 30, according to announcement made by Robert V. Fleming, president of that institution.

More Federal Aid For Iowa Sought

Gov. Herring, Here, to Ask $1,000,000 Relief.

Declaring Federal relief grants on the basis of matching local funds will be insufficient to carry Iowa unemployed through the winter, Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa said yesterday he will ask for about $1,000,000 from the "discretionary" fund available for direct grants to States.

"I am also anxious to point out the imperative need for increasing farmers' purchasing power," the governor said. "The success of the NRA depends on bringing farmers, who represent 50 per cent of the Nation's consumers, into the buying market."

Gov. Herring is in Washington to assist in hearings on the automobile code in his capacity as industrial adviser to the NRA for motor vehicle trade. He probably will preside at the preliminary hearing on the motor vehicle code today in preparation for the public hearing Monday.

Kansas City Pay Roll Gains Million.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 12 (U.P.). Returns from the NRA canvass indicated Kansas City pay rolls will be increased almost a million dollars by October 1, with more than 8,000 persons given work since the recovery program was inaugurated.

Railway Bonds Lead Market In New Gains

Industrials Join Advances as Sales Mount to $10,042,000.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—Reports of continued gains in freight car loadings brought renewed buying into secondary carrier bonds today and advances of 1 to around 2 points were held by a number of the speculative favorites.

While some of the industrials improved substantially, the utilities were rather indifferent. With the exception of some of the liberties, United States Government securities were inclined to sag moderately and foreign obligations were still somewhat irregular.

Trading activity expanded under the demand for the rails and industrial specialities and sales totaled $10,042,000, compared with $8,520,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues was up two-tenths of a point.

Among the more active rail gainers were some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

Bonds of International Telephone and Western Union were in fair demand and the better industrials included issues of Certain-teed, McKesson, National Steel, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Remington Rand, Texas Corporation, United Drug and U. S. Rubber. Profit taking in the last hour cut down extreme advances in most categories.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s received the best support in the Federal section, closing with a net gain of six-thirtyseconds of a point. All of the treasuries declined one-thirty-seconds to eight-thirtyseconds of a point.

Both Buenos Aires 6s of 1960 gained around 4 to 7 points and bonds of Dutch East Indies, France, Canada and Switzerland advanced 1 to 3, probably in response to a rally in foreign exchange rates.

American Cotton Stocks Are Smaller

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—World stock of American cotton at the end of the season July 31 were 239,000 bales less than previously indicated, the New York Cotton Exchange Service reported today, and more than offset the increase of 98,000 bales in the Government crop forecast issued Friday when the latter is converted to a running bale basis.

The service had estimated that cotton mills of the world used 14,132,000,000 bales of American cotton last season. The world stock of American cotton at the end of the season amounted to 11,736,000 bales.

The service now estimates that the world supply of American cotton this season will be 24,068,000 bales or 141,000 bales less than estimated sometime ago.

Stocks Lose in Battle To Continue Advances

Rallies in Early Trading Yields to Average Decline of Six-Tenths in Quieter Trading; Sales Increase to 2,240,396 Shares.

New York, Sept. 12. (AP).—Stock market enthusiasms waned a bit today after an early bid for extension of Monday's rally. Prices exhibited considerable resistance to such selling as trickled through the list during the afternoon, but the market lacked the strength for further appreciation and final prices were generally lower.

Forenoon trading was active, particularly in the first half hour or so which saw some extension of yesterday's gains. Later, volume dwindled and the market became colorless. Net losses averaged into a major fraction, though some of the favorites were down a point or slightly more. Sales totaled 2,240,396 shares.

In stocks, oils maintained an upward direction and so did some of the motors. Petroleums were slightly higher at the close, but automobile issues were more subject to the profit-taking which pared down prices eleswhere. Chrysler succeeded in negotiating 50 for the first time in about four years, then lost more than a point net. General Motors touched its best price since 1931 and held part of the advance.

Other industrial leaders limited their losses largely to moderate proportions. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, General Electric, Harvester and Westinghouse lost major fractions to about a point. Case and Allied Chemical yielded 2. Rails were somewhat lower, New York Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio dipping slightly. Union Pacific lost 2½, while Santa Fe closed unchanged. Alcohols got no inspiration from Maine's prohibition repeal vote, and finished with declines.

American Telephone was firm on reports that the Bell system's might report a net gain in installations for September. Southern Bell, had a small increase in August, while the New York company, which has 20 per cent of the system's phones, reported the small loss of 7,000 conections last month, leading to a supposition that seasonal trends would put total figures for September in the black.

Dollar exchange weakened, suggesting that the inflationay impulses held responsible for yesterday's share market advance had sent some echoes abroad. Wall street, however, appeared less eager to take this tack.

Business news added little to what was already known of industrial trends. Several railroads reported larger car loadings for last week, which included Labor Day, than a year ago. The Federal Reserve Board's department store sales statistics for August represented a gain of 16 per cent over 1932, while the gain from July of this year was better than seasonal.

Commenting on conditions in the steel industry, American Metal Market said that broadly speaking output is receding at about the pace at which it had previously increased, the country, continued the review, "is now engaged in liquidating some of the stocks of steel and manufactures of steel it accumulated recently and production may well pass below the rate of ultimate consumption. For a time steel will not be an indicator of the volume of general industrial activity and the steel consuming industries will have to be studied in detail for information as to the business situation."

Exports of Grain Rise During Week

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 275,000 bushels, against 56,000 bushels the preceding week and 924,000 during the corresponding week of last year.

Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the week before: Wheat, 1,000 bushels, against 3,000; barley, 240,000, against 30,000; corn, 22,000, against 6,000; oats, 12,000 against 17,000. No exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports amounted to 431,000 bushels, against 612,000 the preceding week, while exports of North American wheat flour were 15,000 barrels, against 55,000 barrels.

Foreign Markets.

London, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—A more cheerful tone was registered on the stock exchange today. International issues were generally higher on better advices from New York while most industrials also improved. Wet stocks were the most prominent. Oil shares rose in anticipation of a possible rise in the price of petroleum here and German bonds rallied somewhat. The market closed firm.

Paris—Buying, stimulated by the advances in Wall street, lifted prices on the bourse. Bank, electrical, oil, rubber and mining shares especially improved. The closing was steady.

Wool Market.

Boston, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)—Relatively little business has been transacted in wool thus far this week; but there is some interest being shown. Asking prices are very firm as recent advances, but the advanced prices have slowed up sales. Good French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags are being held at 77@78 cents, scoured basis. Similar lines running to short French combing staple are mostly firm at 75@76 cents, scoured basis.

Naval Stores Firm.

Buying of Lead Is Feature in Metal Markets

Copper Trade Still Lags as Smelters Settle Codes; Steel Yield Cut.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—Renewed buying of lead, following a short lapse of quietness, was the outstanding feature in the nonferrous metal markets this week. The earlier demand was said to have supplied consumers' needs for the first half of September, but the fresh buying wave which developed in the latter half of the week extended into October.

Battery manufacturers were the outstanding buyers, owing to continued activity of the automobile trade, but miscellaneous users also took considerable quantities, and the demand exceeded daily smelter intake. Prices, however, remained unchanged.

The copper trade was still marking time while custom smelters and producers continued efforts to iron out differences which checked final adoption of the recovery code for this industry.

Business Is Limited.

In the meantime, business was on a very limited basis at the unchanged price of 9 cents for electrolytic in the Connecticut Valley. Optimistic statements were being made in the trade, despite current dullness.

Sellers were expecting renewed demand to cover fourth quarter needs when uncertainties were removed. A trade leader was quoted as predicting a return of normal conditions within six months, and estimating that surplus stocks had been reducted 100,000 tons in recent months.

Tin declined under moderate pressure of resale offerings, but the lower levels toward the close attracted buying by consumers and importers. A favorable view of August statistics and continued domestic tin plate mill activity had little apparent influence.

Zinc Prices Sag.

Zinc prices sagged further under light offerings, which found buyers indifferent. Favorable August statistics failed to stimulate buying interest. The figures revealed a further reduction in stocks as shipments exceeded output. The trade was expecting another downward adjustment of ore prices.

Antimony displayed a barely steady tone as light offerings appeared at concessions in the face of poor demand. Some sellers, however, held steady.

Steel ignot production declined further as buyers remained cautious in placing new orders pending clarfication of numerous details in steel prices, with activity variously estimated at from 40 to 45 per cent of capacity. With the exception of a scheduled advance in strips and annealed sheets next week, prices are expected to be unchanged for the last quarter. Pig iron shipments continue active but some furnaces are being banked.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Pig Iron—September shipments of pig iron in most districts are holding up well compared with August, although new buying has fallen off sharply. It is expected, however, that the next fortnight will see some substantial pig iron purchases.

Gasoline—Despite a light spot demand, wholesale gasoline prices in the midcontinental group continue strong and prices have advanced generally about ½ cents a gallon since the recent 15 per cent hike in crude oil quotations became effective September 8.

Woolens—With the future clouded somewhat, pending determination of the effect of the NRA code, sales agents are somewhat dubious as to prices. Sales of men's and boys' wear have been satisfactory, although the week-end was slow due to warm weather. Reopening of schools brought the usual amount of clothing business to department stores and also increased sales of flannel skirts and woolen sweaters.

Sugar—Importations of sugar into the United States during the first seven months of 1933 totaled 3,010,070 long tons, reports Lamborn & Co., against 2,938,633 tons in the like period of 1932, or an increase of 2.4 per cent.

Dried Fruits—Prices of fruits continue to be well maintained and stocks on the spot are moderate. The trade has been operating throughout the summer on light stocks and an active replacement market is anticipated with the approach of cooler weather.

U. S. Insurance Of Deposits Wins Support

Chicago, Sept. 12 (AP).—Bank supervisors of the 48 States today voted themselves in accord with Federal deposits insurance, aligning with the national administration and against the stand of the American Bankers Association.

The supervisors, State officials named to regulate banking, also suggested that Federal authorities allow them to assist in putting it into effect.

Such cooperation between State and Federal officials, the supervisors said, would do much to alleviate the fear that State banks not holding Federal Reserve memberships might be unable to qualify for the Federal deposit guaranty, and ultimately might be forced to close because of lack of the insurance.

They expressed concern over the possibility of men not familiar with local conditions being placed in charge of examining State banks that were not reserve members. The American Bankers Association said the deposits guaranty might menace the operation of thousands of such banks.

"If nonmember State banks are to be examined by men familiar with local conditions, men who will make allowances, in view of those conditions, all will be well," said Dr. D. W. Gordon, of Pennsylvania, in expressing the sentiment of the convention.

He said it seemed essential that the banks in question should have their qualifications for deposit insurance measured with an equitable yardstick. The convention adopted a resolution for appointment of a committee to confer with Federal authorities to bring forth such a solution.

The supervisors expressed their sympathy with deposits guarantee after hearing Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, criticize the American Bankers Association's attitude.

Vandenberg said the bankers' arguments were founded on fallacies; that State guarantee system failures in the past did not condemn the National guaranty plan for failure without trial.

He said the Federal guaranty, effective January 1 on deposits of $2,500 or less and next July 1 on larger amounts, was based on the same principle of diffused risks under which insurance companies have operated for years; that in comparison the State guarantees had involved localized and concentrated risks.

Other arguments in favor of the plan, he said, were that it would be soundly administered under the Federal Deposits Guaranty Corporation, and that it would not foster organization of new and needless banks. He said the corporation would have an intial fund of $290,000,000 and a borrowing capacity exceeding $1,000,000,000.

The Michigan senator agreed to support the supervisors' request that State officials have a voice in examining non-Reserve-member banks preparatory to including them under the corporation. He also expressed sympathy with their plan to name a committee to meet with Federal authorities to carve out a yardstick.

Curb's Prices Trimmed by Profit-Taking

Alcohol and Mining Issues Hit in Decline; Sales, 315,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—The curb market was irregular today, affected by moderate profit taking in a number of issues which scored sharp gains in yesterday's upswing. Alcohols and some utility and mining shares were under mild pressure, but losses in these groups were offset by firming tendencies in oils and various specialties.

Prices were steady to slightly improved in rather active initial dealings, but trading soon dwindled as the list backed and filled over a narrow range.

The celluloid issues extended yesterday's sharp gains by 1 to 3 points. Fisk Rubber preferred acted similarly, closing 3¼ points higher, while Singer Manufacturing added 5 in light dealings. Humble Oil, Standard of Indiana, A. O. Smith, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred and Armstrong Cork firmed around a point or so.

Aluminum Co. of America eased 2, while recessions of fractions to about a point were registered by Pan American Airways, Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, Hiram Walker, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams and Lake Shore Mines.

Wheat Values Close Lower After Rallies

Chicago, Sept. 12. (AP).—Despite a fresh advance of 1¼ cents a bushel today, wheat finished at a loss.

Profit-taking in the late dealings more than offset continued notice of inflation possibilities and of needed rain for Northern Argentina, where a repetition of severe crop damage in 1929 was suggested. A handicap to bulls was that United States Government crop figures, although confirming major losses in all cereals, were not as low as trade expectations.

Wheat closed unsettled, ½ to 1⅛ under yesterday's finish, corn, 1 to 1½ down; oats, ⅝ to ⅞ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 7 cents.

Wheat Is Nervous.

The wheat market was extremely nervous throughout the day. Mills were good buyers early, and this encouraged speculators to purchase, but finally the demand proved inadequate to absorb selling to realize profits.

Aside from inflation talk, traders were chiefly alive to reports of crop uncertainties in Argentina. Indications were that rains in that country came too late to be of large benefit in important areas, especially advanced sections North, Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces, in particular.

A leading crop expert said weather in Argentina this season had been very similar to 1929. In that year Argentine wheat production was 163,000,000 bushels, compared to a five-year average of 241,000,000. He added that a fair crop in Argentina for 1933 is still possible, but only with favorable weather.

Cool temperatures, he said, were the most important requirement for the remainder of the Argentine season.

Corn and oats receded with wheat, notwithstanding that the aggregate yield of coarse grains in North America is about 1,374,000,000 bushels less than last year's narvest, and makes the smallest total in a great many years.

Provisions at times displayed notable strength today, a circumstance attributed to talk of likelihood of export business with Germany and Russia.

Cattle Raisers Meet to Plan Higher Prices

Bristol, Va., Sept. 12 (AP).—Cattlemen of four States—Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee—met here today to discuss mutual problems and more particularly plans for raising the present price of cattle, held by producers to be ruinous.

The meeting is sponsored jointly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and cattle producers who ship to Eastern markets, and is under the direction of Kenneth Litton, animal husbandryman of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division.

Roy F. Bell, of Blountville, Tenn., former president of the Tennessee Federation of Farm Bureaus, and Walter Stuart, of Elk Garden, Va., prominent Southwest Virginia cattleman, who attended a meeting at Washington last week at which the cattle industry's problems were discussed before a Department of Agriculture Board, were expected to report on the result of this conference at today's meeting.

"Every other group is organized and is being aided by the Government," Mr. Stuart said, "and if we are to exist and get a living price for our product we must act quickly and effectively. Our business is in such condition that there must be concerted action that we may get speedy relief."

Helena, Mont., Sept. 12 (U.P.).—Montana's chain-store license tax yielded $19,181 to the State in the first six months of the current fiscal year, Chief Clerk John J. Jewell, of the State board of equalization, reports.

By far, the majority of the 5,044 licenses issued were for single stores, 4,174 of them being in this classification.

Daily Output of Oil Cut 59,113 Barrels

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 12 (AP).—Reductions in Oklahoma and Texas brought the National crude oil output down 59,113 barrels, from 2,774,714 to 2,715,601 barrels daily last week, the Oil and Gas Journal reports.

In Texas the reduction was from 1,297,038 barrels to 1,247,254 barrels daily, with East Texas producing only 636,558 barrels, as compared with a previous daily average of 683,118 barrels.

There was an increase from 500,150 to 513,000 barrels in California.

Other areas:

Kansas reduced production from 129,720 to 127,375 barrels a day; Eastern output shot up 11,000 barels to 128,000 daily; Rocky Mountain production increased from 78,830 to 80,840 barrels daily.

New Coal Company To Operate Soon

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 12 (Spl.).—A new coal operating group in this county, the Pursglove Gas Coal Corporation, has been organized, according to a certificate of incorporation filed in the county clerk's office.

The incorporators, F. I. Walton, R. K. Stevenson and E. L. Baker, all associated with the parent Pursglove organization in Cleveland, did not announce the purpose of the new company.

Frank P. Weaver, local counsel for the Pursglove interests, said he would announce later the coal that would be worked by the gas corporation. However, from usually reliable sources it was indicated that the Connellsville mine, closed several months, would be reopened and operated by the new group. The Connellsville mine is one of the largest operations in the Scotts Run field.

Calumet Steel Company Gets Large Rail Order

East Chicago, Ind., Sept. 12 (AP).—Officials of Calumet Steel Companies have anounced receipt of a $1,100,000 steel rail order from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad—said to be the largest order of its kind since 1929.

The Inland Steel Co. will roll 10,642 tons for the railroad, while the bulk of the remaining 16,200 tons will be rolled at the Gary works of the Illinois Steel Co.

Tardiness of Business Revival Fails to Disturb Wall Street

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—If that autumn revival in business, which tradition says should come on the heels of Labor Day, has failed to materialize, Wall street analysts assert it should cause no serious misgivings.

As a matter of fact, they explain, that quick fillip to business after Labor Day is largely a myth. Past records show that the autumn seasonal impulse to business activity is as likely to be felt in October as September, and may even come later.

Furthermore, it is pointed out that the road to recovery from past depressions has always been rocky, so some momentary letdown, such as has recently occurred in lines like steel and cotton textiles, was to have been expected after the sharp upswing of recent months.

In some respects, the NRA campaign has added to uncertainties, and some Wall street observers think it may have made for a little temporary hesitancy, although it may well succeed in speeding the recovery process later on.

Recovery from past depressions has frequently been speeded by the investment of semispeculative capital attracted by low costs, but several factors at the moment, bankers say, have tended to make capital timid, among them the prospect of higher wages and higher costs as a result of the NRA campaign. While this is designed to help business by increasing consumer purchasing power, capital is evidently waiting to be shown. Raising of capital for new financing also has been hampered by financiers inexperienced with the new securities act.

The heavy industries, such as engineering construction, manufacture of railway equipment and heavy machinery, are lagging because of the dearth of new capital. In the meantime, the Federal administration is seeking to revive these lines through public works and the Federal Reserve banks' easy money policy.

U. S. Dollar Sinks On Foreign Marts

New York, Sept. 12. (AP).—Foreign exchanges rallied sharply against the American dollar today, apparently reflecting a renewal of the inflationary psychology which yesterday lifted prices in the securities markets.

The British pound sterling gained 2¾ cents at a cable rate of $4.57½, French francs advanced .13 of a cent to 5.59 cents, Dutch guilders spurted 1.32 cents to 57.62 cents and Swiss francs and Belgium belgas recovered about ½ cent each.

German marks, the Scandinavians and far eastern currencies also exhibited strength.

Rice Market Pact Is Expected Soon

(Associated Press.)

A. J. S. Weaver, head of the Farm Administration's rice section, said yesterday he hoped for an agreement on all phases of the proposed marketing agreement for Southern rice millers within ten days or two weeks.

Some difficulty arose through the proposed labor code offered by the millers as a supplement to the marketing agreement, but Weaver said he expected a compromise between the millers and representatives of the National Recovery Administration.

At present, a force of Farm Administration auditors are checking figures on operating costs submitted by the millers, and this work is expected to be completed within eight days.

Through the marketing agreement—if it becomes effective—Southern rice growers would be virtually assured of parity prices on their product this year. The agreement gives the Secretary of Agriculture power to fix minimum prices for each grade of rice grown in Southern States.

C. B. & Q. Car Loadings Decrease in Past Week

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—Freight loadings of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad system last week totaled 20,356 cars, compared with 21,961 in the previous week and 19,351 a year ago.

General Motors Ship 11,292 Cars Overseas

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—The General Motors Corporation reported today that overseas sales for August totaled 11,292 units, or 36 per cent higher than for the same month in 1931 and 91 per cent above the aggregate for August, 1932. The total was only 616 under the figure of 11,908 in the 1930 month.

Chrysler Exports Boosted in August

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—Chrysler Motors shipped more cars and trucks overseas in August than in any August since 1929, W. Ledyard Mitchell, chairman of the Chrysler Export Corporation, announced today. Export of passenger cars last month were 268.7 per cent of the volume for August, 1932, while Truck shipments were 537.6 per cent of a year ago. Combined shipments ran 299 per cent of August last year. Actual figures were not given.

"What is most significant," Mitchell said, "is that the rise in our overseas shipments has been gradual enough, yet consistent enough, to convince us that we are on a firm foundation. We are looking forward to a continuance of the rising market overseas."

Cattle Brands Total 6,678.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 12 (U.P.).—Cattle and other live stock brands on file in Arizona State offices total 6,678, officials reported. At one time more than 100,000 brands were in existence.

Cotton Rallies Are Reduced in Closing Sales

December Sells at 9.11 as General Market Gains 4 Points.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP).—Early advances in cotton today on firmness of foreign exchange and reiterated discussions of inflationary possibilities were followed by reactions when grains and stocks softened in the later afternoon.

December contracts, which had advanced to 9.23, or 14 points net higher, eased to 9.05 and closed at 9.11. The general market finished unchanged to 4 points advance.

The market opened 11 to 13 points higher in sympathy with firm cables and on an accumulation of overnight buying orders attracted by yesterday's rally. Washington reports of White House conferences with financial advisers and weakness of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies.

Trade Buys Early.

The trade commission houses, Liverpool and the continent were early buyers and the advance carried prices up to net gains of 13 to 15 points, or to what proved the highs for the day. Moderate Southern hedge selling and some profit taking appeared, with prices working off 4 or 5 points from the best.

However, the market ruled relatively steady during the remainder of the morning and in the early afternoon, traders showing little disposition to follow advances prior to tomorrow's half holiday. Selling from Wall street and local sources increased later, when other markets reacted, with May easing from 9.64 to 9.50, but prices recovered 3 to 7 points of the losses at the close.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimate of domestic consumption of 607,000 bales in August, compared with 601,000 in July and 403,000 in August, 1932, attracted favorable comment as pointing to a gradual improvement in the statistical position, but was without apparent immediate market influence. Exports today, 25,560, making 786,308 so far this season. Port receipts, 50,433. U. S. port stocks, 3,070,511.

Industrial Sag Found Halting As Fall Opens

Average Operation Remains at Last Week's Level; Coal Yield Cut.

New York, Sept. 12 (Dun & Bradstreet).—While advances in manufacturing schedules were infrequent this week, the rate of recession which became evident in August has slowed down, which leaves the average of industrial operation stabilized at the level of the week preceding.

Orders on hand in numerous divisions are sufficiently large to permit current schedules to be maintained until October 1, at which time the depletion of stocks in distributive channels will replenish the backlog. Production schedules in the glass industry are about on a par with those of last week, which represented a large increase over the rate of a year ago. Shipments of plate and window glass have been holding up fairly well.

Plate glass, in particular, made a better showing in August than in July, and production was materially larger than during August, 1932. Foundry and machine shops are stepping up schedules steadily, and there has been an improved demand for electrical products, with manufacturers of electric refrigerators continuing well occupied.

Building Material Slower.

While builders' supplies and lumber are moving at a slower pace, shipments are in excess of last year's total. Production of steel was lessened through the observance of the Labor Day holiday, and for the time being the trend of the market is not definitely indicated.

Both consumers and producers are considering adjustments by reason of the price code and the closing of new commitments has been deferred. Miscellaneous steel specifications have become spotty, but tin plate production continues to maintain a good level. Structural steel backlogs are comparatively moderate, and immediate gains in construction materials apparently are not in prospect, though public financing eventually is anticipated to improve the situation.

Production of bituminous coal was somewhat lower this week on account of the holiday, but still was higher by 50 per cent than for the same week in 1932. With labor troubles fairly well disposed of, the output is expected to increase for some time to come, and higher prices are anticipated to accord with the advanced costs of production now prevailing.

Activity Is Broadened.

The higher rate of industrial activity has broadened the demand for steam coal, and the greater number of ships now in operation has stepped up the orders for bunker coal. The outlook for the industry has improved during the last few weeks, and it is expected that the application of the code will eliminate some of the unfavorable factors which have been retarding improvement.

With the code now in operation, lumber producers are more hopeful of activity increasing. While a majority of the larger operators still have enough orders on hand to keep them busy to the end of the current month, many mills have been reluctant to book orders, because of the uncertainty regarding the number of hours they would be allowed to operate, the limits which would be placed on production and the extent of the rise in wages.

Despite the fact that building permits do not promise a heavy consumption of lumber during the balance of the year and crops in many agricultural sections will be almost a complete failure, the consensus of opinion appears to be that the fall months will bring active business. During the middle of August, there was a period of increased buying in all lumber markets, but demand since that time has tapered off perceptibly. While inquiries continue numerous, bona-fide placements have dropped to a low level, as compared with the June and July totals.

Wool Is Higher.

A decided upturn has taken place in the wool market and sales of domestic wools have been heavy. Manufacturers have been interested in the wide selection of grades held at firm prices. There has been a large increase in the call for wool tops, although further advances in selling prices have tended to slow up sales to some extent.

It is estimated that about 40,000,000 pounds of wool changed hands during the past two weeks in the Boston market alone. Strength in the foreign market has been an added factor in the upturn.

Woolen mills have been operating at a high rate since Last April and the amount of wool consumed for the first seven months of the year nearly is 70 per cent ahead of the 1932 record. While there was a slight reduction in the rate of operation during July, the mills still continue very active. Outlook in the goods market is improved, with clothing manufacturers and cutters in the women's wear line purchasing their current needs freely.

Cotton Mills Slow Up.

Current operations of the cotton mills have slowed down, to some extent, due to the reduction necessary to comply with the new code, and partly as the result of having already filled a portion of the orders with which they were swamped when prices first started to advance.

Cotton goods prices at mills now are averaging more than double those prevailing earlier in the year. Some hesitation is noted among converters and wholesalers of cotton goods, who are deferring the placement of any large-sized orders until the trend of consumer demand will have been established more definitely. Cotton yarns continue slow of movement and only a comparatively few orders were received during the last week or two.

Shoe manufacturing plants continue moderately busy, but there has been some decline in the number of orders received during the past three weeks. Popular lines of shoes were advanced on September 1 from 50c to $1 a pair, and similar increases are expected on all grades.

Otis Skinner Here in "Uncle Tom" Soon—Music by Trunkful—Mme. Alda, Friday

Players' Club Production to Play National

Opera Plans Are Changed; The Children's Theater; Playhouse News.

Rowland Stebbins, whose production of Marc Connelly's "The Green Pastures," established him as an important figure in the American Theater, will present the Players' Club production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in Washington, probably as either a late October or early November booking in the National Theater, according to announcement made yesterday.

This is the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" that boasts Otis Skinner in the role of Uncle Tom; Queenie Smith, as Topsy; Elizabeth Risdon as Eliza, and such other stage notables as Regina Wallace, Kate Mayhew and Frank Wilcox in the other roles of prime concern.

The Harriet Beecher Stowe classic, it will be recalled, was revived at the Alvin Theater, in New York, last May and met with such instant approval that its engagement twice had to be extended beyond announced closing dates.

This Players' Club revival was the first Broadway presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" since the William A. Brady revival of 1901, when an enterprising press agent described Mr. Brady's magnificent gesture as a theatrical undertaking of such dimensions that it was necessary to provide two Uncle Toms, two Topsys, two Little Evas and two Ohio Rivers!

A Limited Tour.

Mr. Stebbins, who masquerades under the nom du theatre of Laurence Rivers, Inc., now is making this noteworthy Players' Club interpretation of the "Tom show" available to a limited number of cities in the East and Middle West for the regalement of audiences remote from Broadway. It was "Laurence Rivers, Inc.," it may be remembered, that presented, prior to "The Green Pastures," various George Kelley plays, including "Philip Goes Forth" and last season's provocative, but unprofitable, "Red Planet," by John L. Balderston.

Hartford, Conn., which Mr. Skinner, in addition to William Gillette, the late Winchell Smith and others of note in the theater, boasts as his home town, will witness the first off-Broadway performances of "Uncle Toms Cabin," on Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7, following which it will be presented for a week in Boston.

A tentative subsequent route that has been arranged includes bookings of from three days to a full week in Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis and St. Louis.

It is interesting, in this connection, to note that A. L. Aiken made the original dramatization of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and A. E. Thomas revised the text for the purposes of the current revival which is being staged by John Hayden.

Miss Phyllis Elaine Sorkin, whose advent was hesitantly Winchelled in this space by her father many weeks ago, was born at the Columbia Hospital last Sunday morning at 4:17 o'clock. Little Miss Phyllis, it should be said, is the first-born of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Sorkin, Mr. Sorkin being assistant manager of the RKO-Keith Theater in this city. Prior to his appointment to Washington Mr. Sorkin was assistant manager of the RKO-Mayfair Theater in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Sorkin, needless to say, look upon the "Greater Show Season" as a huge success!

When Phil Spitalny and his orchestra arrive in the Capital to open their fortnight's engagement at the Earle Theater on Friday, cabmen and red caps at Union Statoin will have one of the busiest half days since the depression set in!

Thirty-two musicians, with musical instruments and personal effects, will have to be transported to a midtown hotel—plus 30 or 40 odd trunks of music!

Phil Spitalny's collection of music trunks represents many years of laborious effort and sustained and painstaking care. In those trunks are all the Spitalny orchestrations. They represent—and this is no figment of a press agent's imagination—in excess of $75,000 worth of music. That, good burghers, is a lot of tunes!

For 25 years Phil has collected musical manuscripts in every quarter of the world. Some are original copies of great musical works. These, of course, are priceless and can not be accorded any definite monetary evaluation. The other folios represent the Spitalny orchestrations, all written by hand, and none of them ever copied by any other orchestra.

All Special Arrangements.

"Spitalny and his music" has a definite and exclusive significance. The new nuances and delicately shaded meanings he imparts to many oft-heard melodies are inherent in the arrangements packing these many trunks of which we are speaking. These new phrasings, innovations and complex rhythms represent hours of work by Phil Spitalny and his competent staff of arrangers, composers and musical assistants. Each part for each instrument is rearranged; the commonplace is taboo.

Each trunk has its specific sections, each section its label, all systematically arranged, filed and indexed so that any selection in the Spitalny repertoire is within easy reach and quick accessibility.

"Hot" numbers, "blue" numbers, slow, dreamy foxtrots, stirring one and two steps, marches, Victor Herbert compositions, Gilbert & Sullivan, Stravinsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Tschaikowsky, Beethoven, Dvorak, Schubert, Wagner, Gershwin, Berlin and innumerable others are all companions on the music rack, in the music trunk and the baggage compartment.

Awake to Change.

Therein lies the secret of Spitalny's success as a bandsman, musician and showman. The hackneyed, the trite and the oft-repeated theme are hardly countenanced in the Spitalny scheme of things. His finger is constantly on the musical pulse of a nation, rapidly adjusting himself to all whims, moods and changes.

One compartment in a special trunk features a prize valued by Spitalny above all others. It is the baton with which Paganini conducted his last concert.

We must go up and hear him sometime! (Spitalny, not Paganini.)

Announcement is made by by the Children's Theater, which will present its second full series of children's plays at the National Theater, beginning October 21, that its Washington boxoffice henceforth will be in the new office of the Women's International League, 532 Seventeenth street northwest, instead of 1805 H street. Subscriptions for the series of six plays, including "The Five Little Peppers," "Curdie, the Princess and the Goblins," "Cinderella," "An Old-Fashioned Girl," "Rip Van Winkle," and "The King of Golden River," are now being received. Tickets for individual plays will be on sale October 1.

Two Bills in One.

To be listed among the sudden shifts in managerial intent would fall the comparatively last-minute decision of the International Opera Company to combine its proposed afternoon and evening performances in the Washington Auditorium on Sunday, October 1, into one Sabbath evening operatic festival of diversified and interesting content.

Instead of the double-bill of "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci," in the afternoon, and "Aida," at night, the single Sunday night bill will embrace the "highlight scenes" of all three of these favorite works, sung by a large group of opera stars of renown.

Following a precedent set by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, this Sunday night Opera Festival will offer this full evening of excerpts without increase in the low scale of admission charges already made known to the public—a modest scale of assessments ranging from 25 cents to 99 cents.

Tickets already purchased for the afternoon performance, it is emphasized, will be honored in the evening.

Johnny Brown and His White Fleet Orchestra, who set a new attendance record when they played at Chevy Chase Lake in July, are being brought back to the Lake for a reurn engagement tonight by Eddie Carr, shrewd impresario of the popular resort. One of the most popular dance bands of the South and East, Brown and his lads have played at Young's Million Dollar Pier in Atlantic City and many other well-known amusement places. They are noted for the deft combination of instrumental music, song and dance which they present. Dancing tonight will begin at 9 and continue until 1 a. m.

Another Song Bird.

Speaking of opera, few operatic figures have been so richly endowed with the vocal, intellectual and temperamental equipment to sway audiences as Mme. Frances Alda, for many seasons prima donna soprano with the Metropolitan, in New York, who, beginning Friday, will share headline honors on the stage at Loew's Fox with Dave Appolon, one of the most engaging of the musico-acrobats.

Mme. Alda's debut with the Metropolitan was as Gilda in "Rigoletto," in which, needless to say, she created a sensation. She played a total of 13 roles at the Metropolitan Opera House, and during her career has sung the leading roles in more than 40 operas throughout the cultural centers of the world. She also prides herself on an unlimited repertoire of classical and modern songs and ballads.

This is but another of the musical treats that seem to be showering themselves upon the National Capital in the very opening weeks of the new season of 1933-34. It is to be hoped that the augury will hold throughout the ensuing year.

Today, by the way, is the last day upon which patrons of Loew's Fox under 16 years of age may compete for one of the three $5 cash prizes being offered by Joe Laurie, jr., for the best 250-word letters written by Washington youth as to why they like or dislike his "Memory Lane" revue, headlining the current stage bill at the Fox. Midnight tonight marks the deadline after which no letter submitted will be considered as eligible for the prize awards. The letters should be addressed to Joe Laurie, Loew's Fox Theater. After all, as we have remarked before, in times like these $5 is $5!

Headline Act Hunter.

The formal winter opening of the newly redecorated club room, which will be definitely announced in a few days, will feature some of the most famous of night club entertainers, according to grapevine information that already is beginning to twine about the amusement desks of the daily press.

Boniface Von Herbulis will divert himself while in New York—he left the Capital Monday night for this express purpose—giving auditions to aspiring artists who have heard of the high repute in which his establishment is held in Washington and are anxious to add the prestige of an engagement at Club Michel to such distinction as already is reflected upon the pasted pages of their scrapbooks.

In the meantime, the Messrs. Albert and Kolk are doing their darndest—which is very good, indeed—to keep the home fires burning, along with a lot of hot tunes and torch songs!

The Merry Millionaires!

Will H. Hays, Sidney R. Kent, Jack and Harry Warner, a mess of the Skouras Brothers, A. Julian Brylawski, Llonel Atwill, Lester Cowan, Ed Kuykendall, Harold B. Franklin, Leo A. Ochs, B. B. Kahane, Carl E. Milliken, C. C. Pettijohn, R. H. Cochrane, Max D. Steuer, Frank Capra, Nathan Burkan, Waldemar Young, Ashley M. Abendschein.

No, Oswald, that is not a bread line. That is just a few of the millionaires filing in to the hearing on the Motion Picture Code of the NRA. See how happy they look!

Oh, Yeah?

A Maestro and His Music Boxes!

This, ladies and gentlemen, is Mr. Phil Spitalny, his secretary and his music trunks. Yes, music trunks. They contain nothing but carefully classified and catalogued orchestrations and their contents are valued at more than $75,000. That's why Maestro Spitalny and his boys, opening a two-weeks' engagement at the Earle on Friday, are never stumped for precisely the selection they need. Simple, isn't it? Except that it has taken about 25 years to assemble this library!

Culbertson on Bridge

Contrasting Methods.

The first international match for the Schwab Trophy, symbolic of the world's championship at contract bridge, which was played in London recently by an American team composed of Mrs. Culbertson, Michael T. Gottlieb, Theodore A. Lightner and myself, and a strong English team captained by Col. H. M. Beasley and including Sir Guy Domville, P. V. Tabbush and George Morris, brought into clear relief the differences in temperament between the players representing the two countries.

One of the hands which brought about a decisive swing occurred very early in the match. It was:

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

In room No. 1 Col. Beasley was seated North, with Sir Guy Domville as his partner in the South. Mr. Lightner was East and I was West. The bidding there was as follows: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
1♠	Pass	2♡(1)	Pass
2♠	Pass	3◇(2)	Pass
4NT(3)	Pass	6◇(4)	Dbl.(5)
Pass	Pass	Redbl.(6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—I preferred to take a slight risk of being left in two hearts for the advantage of careful building up of inferences without overcrowding the bidding. The swing I got on this hand amply justified such a treatment of this freak.

2—Three diamonds is an inferential Force since the bidding is voluntarily reopened.

3—Lightner, who was dormant until now, becomes a raging volcano. He reasons quite properly that if I am strong enough to force him to a vulnerable game, he is strong enough to look around for a Slam.

5—A fatal error, due to inability to trust the opponents. It is far more important to trust the enemy than to trust the partner, and had North listened more carefully to the inferences exchanged, he would have realized that, in spite of his apparently powerful hand, he was in the hands of the enemy.

6—An apparently daring Redouble, but withal quite sound. Lightner's four notrump is the key to the Redouble, for it is impossible to conceive a reasonable combination where more than one trick can be lost at the worst.

In room No. 2 Mrs. Culbertson was North, Mr. Gottlieb, South, and for England Mr. Tabbush was East and Mr. Morris, West. The bidding there was:

East	South	West	North
1♠	Pass	2♡	Pass
2♠	Pass	3◇	Pass
5◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

Of course, 12 tricks were made in both rooms. In room No. 2 West, in passing East's five-diamond bid, utterly failed to measure up to the requirements of the situation.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If South is playing the hand at four hearts, what is West's strongest defensive lead and what should East play to the first trick, provided West opens the doubleton spade?

South, Dealer.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

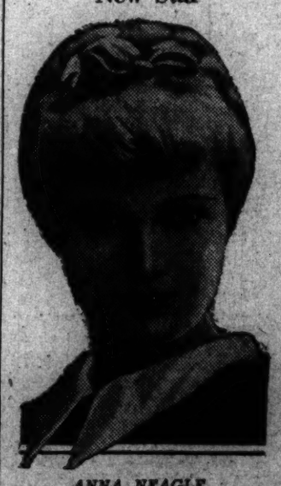
New Star



ANNA NEAGLE, a newcomer to the American screen, who will be seen in the Evelyn Laye role in the picturization of Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet," third attraction of the RKO "Greater Show Season," at RKO-Keith's next week.

Third and Final Puzzle Given In "Star" Test

Entrants Must Indentify Only Two Players in "I Loved a Woman."

Today we have the third and final puzzle of The Washington Post and Metropolitan Theater "Star of Stars" contest. All cut and jumbled up are two famous screen stars, who will be seen in Washington starting Friday at Warner Bros.' Metropolitan Theater in "I Loved a Woman," reopening this popular F street theater.

Do you know who they are? They are two of the stars of this new film, starring Kay Francis, Genevieve Tobin and Edward G. Robinson. That shouldn't be hard, as we have named only three players and you have just two to identify.

The Washington Post and Warner Bros.' Metropolitan Theater are offering a first prize of $15 and second prize of $10 and 25 pairs of guest tickets to "I Loved a Woman," a stirring love drama, for the neatest and most original entries.

There are no intricate rules. Cut out each piece, assemble it in the right order and identify it. Two other puzzles were published, one in Monday's issue and the other Tuesday. Send all three to the Contest Editor, Warner Bros. Theaters, Earle Building, before midnight Thursday.

Winners will be announced in Saturday's issue if possible. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be given.

Grace Buried, Slayer Is Silent

Santa Cruz, Calif., Sept. 12 (AP).—While Francis J. Morgan Grace was buried today in the Catholic Cemetery here after funeral services attended only by the family, Pennsylvania relatives of his slayer, Wilhelmina Weltz, were hurrying westward to aid her in fighting murder charges.

The 43-year-old nurse, who has refused to disclose the motive for shooting the retired capitalist, continued to profess indifference to whatever fate awaits her, and requested her brother and sister not to come.

In an avowed move to forestall any attempt of Miss Weltz to fight the murder charge by a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," District Attorney J. Frank Murphy summoned physicians from State hospitals for the insane to examine the nurse.

A prompt offer of succor came from the nurse's brother and sister, William and Meta Weltz, of Connelsville, Pa. The brother telegraphed authorities, "please hold no preliminary hearing pending my arrival Friday."

NRA to List Local Employment Gain

Employment increase in Washington is to be determined by the local NRA.

Blanks will be sent all major employers to fill in such information. Names of employers who have signed the Blue Eagle will be obtained from pledge cards at the Ben Franklin postoffice.

Raymond J. Walter, major in charge of information of the local NRA, made a radio appeal last night to Washington residents to patronize only establishments flying the Blue Eagle. He spoke over Station WOL.

Kiss Described In Suit Against Miss Windsor

Broker Testifies Against Former Wife in Love Balm Case.

Los Angeles, Sept. 12 (AP).—Relating how he had been the aggressor in the defunct love affair with blonde Claire Windsor of the screen, Alfred C. Read, jr., caused a stir today at the trial of his divorced wife's $100,000 alienation-of-affections suit against Miss Windsor by declaring he was the one who should be sued.

"If anyone should be sued it should be me," testified Read, former Oakland stock broker.

Read said he and his wife, Mrs. Marian Young Read, had repeated quarrels—"at least a hundred"—over other men and women.

Miss Windsor, he said, was only one of many women.

"I am not anxious to see Marian win this case," Read testified, "because I know I am the one to blame."

He reviewed the romance with the actress. He proposed a bridge game, he said, to get acquainted with her. He said he and Frank Trower, his traveling companion, went to Miss Windsor's compartment for a few rubbers of bridge with her and Miss Ruth Western.

"I tried to kiss her," related Read.

"She asked me if I was married and I said no, and then the next day, I told her I was married but that my wife and I were getting a divorce.

"On the second night Miss Windsor let me kiss her."

"Did she assault you effectionately?" he was asked.

"Why, no!" Read exclaimed.

Workers' Overtime To Go on Records

However, Parks Employes Will Lose Leave.

A record of all overtime work of parks and building employes here will be kept by the chief clerk of the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations, where it can be studied in connection with personnel records.

This was made plain to employes by Arno B. Cammerer, chief of the office, in a letter warning them that more overtime work will be required. The letter said:

"Considerable overtime work has been and will be required due to the additional burdens placed on us by the reorganization of the emergency conservation program and public works. Report of all overtime work is to be made to the chief clerk at the end of each month. However, the practice of granting compensatory leave on account of such overtime will hereafter be discontinued."

Fair Practice Is Held NRA Key In Trade Talk

B. H. Namm, of New York, Is Heard by Better Business Session.

Doom for a vast number of retailers in the United States if the fair practice provisions are changed or eliminated from the retail trade code was foreseen by B. H. Namm, president of the Namm Store, of Brooklyn, in an address last night at the annual banquet of the Affiliated Better Business Bureaus convention at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mr. Namm declared retailers can not absorb increased labor costs without protection from unfair competition. He expressed confidence that the NRA will end such competition.

Secretary of Commerce Roper, in an address, predicted that the NRA will bring "an era of better controlled selfishness."

H. W. Riehl, of St. Louis, read a telegram from President Roosevelt in which the Chief Executive declared that "truth in advertising and fair play in selling are of great economic and social importance to all of our people."

Ross Retains Crown in Furious 15-Round Battle With Canzoneri

Pearson Beats Nats in Duel, 3-1; Fischer's 141 Wins Golf Medal

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

A NEW high for formality will be set next Thursday morning at the sumptuous offices of Baseball Commissioner Landis in Chicago when the representatives of pennant-contending teams meet in solemn conclave with the front office of big-league baseball concerning the details of world series seating arrangements.

The good Judge Landis has observed the letter of the baseball law in inviting representatives of the contending clubs. The invitation to the Yankees to attend was just as formal, just as sincere as the invitation to Washington officials, despite the fact that the Yankees have about as much chance of figuring in the world series as Adolf Hitler.

Landis' invitation to the National League representatives was not confined to the Giants, who are leading the race by 7½ games. The Cubs and Pirates, tied for second place, and the Cardinals, 10½ games behind in fourth place, were also summoned to the meeting. Until Old Man Mathematical Certainty jerks the clubs out of contention, they are pennant contenders, according to Landis' office.

Bookies Revise Odds.

The bookies have already started to revise their odds on the 1934 American League campaign as the result of late-season developments.

Chief among these have been the sensational performances of two rookie pitchers who threaten to make the two clubs a bit tougher—the Indians and the Athletics.

Washington fans yesterday tasted another sample of the pitching of young Monty Pearson, the reformed wild man from Toledo, who for the second time in three starts was cheated out of shut-out victories against the Nats. On the third occasion, he held Washington to two hits and one earned run.

Pearson, in ten weeks with the Tribe, has turned in ten victories against four defeats, but his record is eclipsed by the remarkable debut of another rookie—young Johnny Marcum, of the Athletics. Marcum, in two starts for the A's, has pitched two shutouts.

Washington fans who happen to be interested in the world series will receive the first details of the ticket distribution on Friday morning from club secretary Edward B. Eynon, jr., who will represent the Nats at Landis' conclave.

Eynon, like every other representative at the meeting, is carrying along blue prints of his ball park for Landis' inspection, from which the seats will be scaled.

With every seat in Griffith Stadium sold, the park will seat a capacity of 35,743, the high mark reached during the 1924 world series with the Giants. The normal capacity is increased by the addition of the jury box pavillion out in right center field which seats approximately 3,000. Three thousand tickets per game for standees were sold in both the 1924 and 1925 series.

The same price list is expected to prevail. That is: $6.60 for box seats; $5.50 for reserved grand stand seats; $3.30 for reserved pavillion and bleacher seats, and $1.10 for standing room.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

Every team in the American League, with the exception of the Nats and Yankees, is mathematically out of the pennant race . . . but any one of five clubs can win the National League flag . . . Hal Trosky, the Indians' new first baseman, has been looking at nothing but slow balls since Monte Weaver struck him out with three straight floaters on Monday . . . uncle and nephew were on opposite coaching lines at Griffith Stadium yesterday . . . with Walter Johnson coaching at third for the Indians and Johnny Kerr at first for the Nats . . . the Nats had eight men left on bases in the first six innings to one for the Indians.

Tribe Rookie Gives Only 4 Hits

Hale's Home-Run Gives Visitors Lead; Manush Ties With Single.

THE league-leading Nats had their league-leading pitcher, Alvin Crowder, in the box yesterday, but the Cleveland Indians had Pearson-ality, and won the ball game, 3 to 1.

Washington met up with Monty Pearson again, and Walter Johnson's rookie from Toledo was so awed by the imminent pennant winners that he failed to repeat his two-hit performance against the Nats in Cleveland last month. He permitted four hits.

Pearson, in Washington, and the Yankees, in New York, called a halt in the Nats' mad dash for the pennant yesterday. While Pearson was throttling the locals in their own back yard, the Yankees up in the Bronx were putting the Tigers through the hoop and thus whittled the Nats' margin to 8½ games, which is still no situation for the Washington public to view with alarm.

Cheated of Shutout.

This fellow Pearson has now encountered the Nats three times. On the occasion of their first meeting, his mates kicked in three runs in the first inning, and he lost a 3-2 game to Crowder. Out in Cleveland last month, he had a no-hit game before permitting the Nats two safeties in the ninth. Yesterday an errant teammate robbed him of a shutout.

It was no bad ball game that Crowder pitched. The old campaigner battled the talented rookie's fire with a withering reply of his own, but he had the misfortune to run into a home run by Odell Hale in the second inning and then dissipated a two-hit performance by yielding three safeties in the seventh that gave the Indians two runs and the ball game. It was a five-hit ball game by Crowder.

Cronin Makes Error.

Joe Cronin, himself, helped to betray Crowder's bid for his twenty-third victory of the season, when he contributed a wild throw to the two-run festivities of the Indians in the seventh inning that unlocked the 1-1 tie that Crowder and Pearson were providing.

Earl Averill opened the seventh auspiciously with a single to center, and big Trosky, the new first baseman, slammed a single into shortstop that Cronin stopped with one hand. He made a valiant effort to force Averill at second with a throw to Meyer, but the heave was wild and both runners took an extra base.

The danger was alleviated a bit when Hale popped to Kuhel, but along came Wes Ferrell with his first hit of the series, a drifting single to center, and the Indians had two more runs and the ball game.

Indians Take Lead.

There was no doubt about the run in the second inning that gave the Injuns their 1-0 lead. Bad News Hale simply socked one of Crowder's pitches on a line over Schulte's head into the center field bleachers for a home run.

Going into the fifth inning, Pearson had pitched one-hit ball and had left four Nats on the bases, but he was cheated of a shutout. Luke Sewell led off the fifth with a single and was forced by Crowder. Buddy Myer grounded to Hale, who was a bit overzealous in an attempt to tag Crowder on the baselines and start a double play. He failed to come up with the ball, all hands were safe, and Heinie Manush's single, with two out, scored Myer.

That was the last hit off Pearson until Pinch Hitter Cliff Bolton singled with one out in the ninth. He never reached second.

Nats May Face Tribe Rookie Today

Lee, Southpaw, May Oppose Whitehill; No Letdown Now, Says Cronin.

ALTHOUGH the Nats, to all intents and purposes, appear just the same as "in" in the American League pennant race, Manager Joe Cronin says that there will be no let-up on the part of his charges. "We're going to keep on trying to win games until the last game of the season," he said yesterday. "I want to keep the boys in the winning habit right through the world's series, if we get in it, and am taking no chances on any mental let-down on their part."

Following out this idea, Lefty Earl Whitehill will draw the home pitching assignment in this afternoon's series finale with the Cleveland Indians. Pilot Walter Johnson intimated that he likely would take a look at Thornton Lee, a young lefthander, who reported here from Toledo, Monday.

Two young pitching hopefuls, both righthanders, worked out with the Nats before yesterday's game. One was George Callis, from Harrisonburg, Va., and the other answers to the name of Ed Carroll around his Catonsville, Md., home.

"Uncle Billy" Smith, assistant secretary of the Nats, was given a surprise birthday party at the stadium yesterday morning.

Having reached the 200 hit-total Monday, Heinie Manush passed it yesterday. His single in the third was the first safety granted by Pearson.

Crowder's attempted sacrifice after Sewell had singled in the home fifth was too perfect a bunt. Catcher Pytlak took it just in front of the plate and made a force-play at second.

Cronin made a sensational backhanded stop of Trosky's grounder in the seventh, but he had no chance to make the out and it went as a hit. He tried for a force-play at second, however, and was charged with a costly error when the throw was wild.

Wes Ferrell made a hit his first time up as a Cleveland outfielder, in Saturday's game at Philadelphia, and then did not get another until the seventh inning yesterday. This blow was a big one, though, for it scored two runs.

Post Mortems . . .

According to experts who have seen him in action, Carl Hubbell, of the Giants is somewhat of a pitching freak . . . although a southpaw, his delivery comes up to the plate in the same manner as one propelled from the right side . . . Maxie Koshover, who was scheduled to do battle on the Fort Washington card, which was postponed Monday because of rain, evidently forgot to notify his folks . . . they wired The Post yesterday, asking if he boxed . . . Ernie Millar and Jim Burch, of the Potomac Boat Club, brought home the only Middle States Canoe Racing Championships won by paddlers of this town on the Schuylkill last Saturday . . . Millar won the one-man single blade . . . and, teamed with Burch, won the tandem single-blade race . . . beating out other local contestants in this event.

William J. Griffin, of the City Postoffice, scored his first ace yesterday . . . on the 103-yard eighth hole on East Potomac's "F" course . . . maybe he gets practice shooting letters into those little pigeon-holes . . . Clark Griffith donned a false beard and Joe Cronin a very rural straw hat . . . at the smoker tendered them last night at the K. of C. . . . Jockey Porter won four straight races at Rockingham yesterday . . . Westrope rode one winner at Rockingham to bring his season's total to 212 . . . tying Johnny Gilbert's record set last year . . . in yesterday's game, Odell Hale, nicknamed "Bad News," lived up to his moniker when he clouted a homer into the stands in left-center . . . it was bad news for the Nats . . . and also the only extra-base hit of the game.

Tigers 5-to-3 Victims of Yankees

Walkers, Dixie and Gerald, Are Batting Stars of Game.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP).—George Uhle, who once pitched for the Tigers, kept most of the Detroit players under control today and pitched the Yankees to a 5 to 3 victory. It was Uhle's fourth straight victory for the Yanks.

New York won the final series with Detroit, 3 to 1, and the season's series, 15 to 7.

Gerald Walker made most of the trouble for Uhle. He drove in all three Tiger runs with a double and a triple. The Yanks piled up an early lead off Tommy Bridges, getting the winning tallies when Dixie Walker hit a homer with one on in the third. They added an extra run off Elon Hogsett in the seventh.

Bucs Win Twin Bill; Tie Cubs for Second

Pittsburgh, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—The Pirates clambered back into a tie with the Chicago Cubs for second place in the National League today by beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1 to 0 and 2 to 0, in their final doubleheader. The Bucs finished 7½ games behind the idle New York Giants.

Heinie Meine and Waite Hoyt reeled off 18 innings of runless pitching. Meine held the Dodgers to five hits and Hoyt went one better by granting only four. Hollis Thurston and Emil Leonard, rookie right-hander from York, Pa., opposed them in a pair of fine mound duels.

Peacock Five Strokes Out; McCarthy Far Back; Others Pick Up.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

KENWOOD Country Club, Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Washington's golfers were no match for the lengthy Kenwood course today and were completely smothered under the heavy fire that spat from the big guns of golfdom.

Figured to go far in the tournament, Roger Peacock, Maryland District champion, made a valiant finish this afternoon, but his best was a 76. With is first day score of 79, the Indian Spring ace wound up with a 155 total, five shots out of the select circle.

It was a sad day for the former Duke University golf captain, as a string of fives—five to be exact—forced his first nine score to soar to 40, four over par. Peacock then pulled himself together on the stretch, but made his comeback too late. His 36 that saw him go over on only one hole, the fifth, was an exhibition of consistent stroking. Wild tee shots proved the youngster's bane.

McCarthy Other to Finish.

Martin F. McCarthy, of Beaver Dam, was the only other District entrant who turned in a score. He finished with 80—79—159. McCarthy was out in 39, 3 over par, rallied to score a birdie 3 at the tenth, only to run into a 7 on the next hole, and shoot the incoming side in 40.

Dick Lunn, of Chevy Chase, by withdrawing yesterday started something that proved quite contagious. Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia veteran, with an 86 staring him in the face, started out with a 4 7 4 4, then quit the task. A late starter, Luther Steward, jr., of Congressional, got as far as the sixteenth hole—and he withdrew. Steward shot an 80 the first day. Today he had a 43 for the first 9, and was 12 over par when he ceased firing.

College Boy's 141 Card Is Record

Finishes With 69 to Top Sawyer by Stroke in U. S. Amateur.

Somerville's 143 Third; Goodman Totals 145; 150 Qualifies.

By Dave Herman.
(Post Staff Correspondent.)

KENWOOD Country Club, Cincinnati, Sept. 12.—Shattering a 9-year-old record, of which he was a co-holder, blonde Johnny Fischer, a homebred golfing son, stormed across the finish line of the National Amateur qualifying round today with a par-cracking 69 to win the medal with a 36-hole total of 141.

Fischer's 72 of the opening day and his scintillating score of today enabled him to break by one shot the mark first established by D. Clark Corkran, former Baltimorean, later tied by the peerless Robert Tyre Jones, and last year equalled by the University of Michigan star himself at Five Farms.

It was a day of scorching, hectic golf, that saw old man par beaten into submission four times and equalled thrice in the eclipse of a variety of records.

Pat Sawyer Runner-up.

Out of the pack of 152 golfers who started out in quest of laurels yesterday, the lanky figure of Johnny Fischer, son of an humble Cincinnati postman, came forth to dominate. Turning on the heat, Fischer steamed home with 34—35, two below par, to beat out Pat Sawyer, deep-chested Minneapolis star, by one stroke. Shooting in championship fashion, Sawyer carded a brace of 35's. This, with his 72 of the first day, shot him ahead of the defending champion, Silent Sandy Somerville, of Canada, by one stroke.

Drama was piled on drama in today's proceedings, as first two comparatively unknown golfers, 20-year-old Jim Milward, of Madison, Wis., and William R. (Shorty) Long, jr., of Austin, Tex., held the medal spotlight earlier in the afternoon with scores of 144 each. Later Gus Moreland, the Texas hurricane, and Walker Cup star, matched his 72 of the first day, to cause a triple tie. Hardly had 20 minutes ticked by before Sawyer came thundering home with his par-breaking 70 to take over the lead by 2 strokes.

Goodman Misses Putts.

Johnny Goodman, whose 72 the first day tied with six others for second place, three-putted two consecutive greens on the first nine this morning, crossing the road with a 38, 2 above par, and shot the stretch in even par figures to finish the 18-hole jaunt in 73 for a 145 total. This was just a few shots too much for the medal, and the gallery, that had been followng Goodman the latter part of the morning and the best part of the afternoon, quickly shifted its attention to Fischer.

But when the day's firing was over Goodman found himself encamped in fifth place with Frank English, 39-year-old World War veteran, of Denver, who knitted together scores of 74-71.

With a chance to tie Fischer for the medal, Champion Somerville came to grief on the 244-yard sixteenth hole, a one-shotter, that is guarded and flanked by cavernous traps. Up to this juncture Somerville was one over par, but new life

Stretch Duel Lost by One Chance

Kawagoe Sets Own Pace to Win Belmont Juvenile Filly Race.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (AP).—Running over a heavy track, Fanfern, from the Audley Farm and ridden by Jockey J. Kacala, captured the Grant Park Purse, the feature event at Lincoln Fields today.

Darting to the front in the 7-furlong dash, Fanfern led the field from flag fall to finish and had a half length to spare over One Chance. Yonkel finished third.

Only five horses started. Fanfern and One Chance ran like a team until the stretch bend was reached, when Fanfern took command.

The race was run in 1:27 4-5. The winner paid $9.06 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Kawagoe Belmont Winner.

Belmont Park Race Track, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP).—The Nursery Handicap of 6 furlongs down the Widener course brought together 11 smart 2-year-olds here today, with all but Sergt. Byrne and Agrarian eligible for the rich Futurity. G. D. Widener sent two colts—Kawagoe and Chicstraw—after the purse, and the first named made the grade in a driving finish with Sergt. Byrne, a length and a half separating the pair. Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Singingwood was third, a length behind.

Kawagoe ran the distance in the fast time of 1:11 1-5. The entry was favorite at 11 to 5 and the race was worth $1,825 to the winner.

Kawagoe made all his own pace, jumping into command at the break and staying there for the full distance.

A mark for commercial aviation builders to shoot at was set by B. W. Thompson, flying enthusiast of China Grove, N. C., when he flew his home built plane 41 miles in 28 minutes on a single gallon of gasoline—in fact just a little less than a gallon.

The ship is a sport monoplane, one of the smallest ever to fly, and is powered by a 25 horsepower motor. Total weight is less than 350 pounds. Thompson, who is a machine builder, made his "one-gallon" flight from Salisbury to Charlotte, N. C., an airline distance of 41 miles, on April 3, 1932.

The most accurate way to test a water speed indicator is in still water. This is the method used by the United States Bureau of Standards in testing current meters used to determine the flow of water in rivers, canals, &c. The bureau has a long shallow tank filled with water through which the meters are moved at a given speed by an overhead truck. The speed of the meters through the water can be measured with greater accuracy than would be possible if checking were done in flowing water.

Nobody, according to medical experts, ever suffered from a stomach ache. It is not the stomach, but the mesentery, which supports abdominal organs, that does all the aching when you have a "stomach ache."

Dear Al: Lincoln Fields, Sept. 12.

I have been right only a few times during the last few days. But I really had the lowdown on Dr. Klein today. I picked this one on top a couple of times and he failed me. I told you I had scratched him off my list. And what happened today? Well, Dr. Klein went to the post with his kind. And he was left at the post! That's what I call information. The track was almost sloppy when the program began, but was drying out all afternoon. Don't overlook Peedeeque tomorrow. Looks like the best thing of the meeting. BILL.

First race—Peedeeque—I can't to say it fast enough. Here's a youngster that has been crying for a 6-furlong race. It takes him 4 to get moving and they'll know he's around in that stretch tomorow. Pile it in. Even Play and Transcall for the other awards.

Second race—Cayuga earns his feed on heavy tracks. Just whether or not the course will remain off is the question. However, we'll stick to him. Brown Wisdom appears to have the edge on the others. Broom Shot for the show.

Third race—Lady Mary is a neat little filly with four fast hoofs. Needs only an encouraging ride to ring up a purse in this sprint. Woodlander and Mrs. Brown to complete the money picture.

Fourth race—Timorous should scamper home in front of these. This fellow was never better. Merry Chatter to take the place from LeBruyere. The last named may be the sleeper. Was turned loose the last time when the boys let the price rise.

Fifth race—Broad Meadows and Islam hook up here in what looks like a two-horse race. I'll take them in the order named. Open Hearth may appreciate the off-track and run a bang-up race.

Sixth race—Teralice has done a fine job of running this summer. Has beaten most of the good ones and is far too good right now to put anywhere but on the top of this heap. Late Date will like the going and is dangerous. Glastonbury comes up to the race with a fast trial as a recommendation.

Seventh race—Laferia may find conditions suitable for that wake-up race tomorrow. This one has been oiled and greased, but will have to be hard ridden. A good take-a-chance wager. Chokoloskee and Watch Tower for the rest.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOHN MILL, $26.14, $6.06, $5.54; ALL HAIL, $2.76, $2.74; SWEET LASSIE, $6.30.

JOHN MILL, suited by the going and beginning fast, drew away from ST. NAZAIRE when approaching the turn and maintained his speed gamely, but won a lucky race. ALL HAIL, well up from the start, rallied after reaching the stretch, then suffered a hemorrhage and was badly distressed while going the final eighth. SWEET LASSIE began slowly, saved ground much of the trip and faltered after three-quarters, but was best of the others. ST. NAZAIRE weakened badly. VICTORIUM, taken back on far turn, failed to respond when urged and probably did not like the going. SIR PERCIVAL could not untrack himself and was pulled up.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:43. Off at 2:49. Winner, A. B. Leteller's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHIEF BUNTING, $4.70, $3.76, $2.82; KING TODAY, $7.46, $4.18; SOCIAL SERVICE, $3.66.

CHIEF BUNTING made up much ground in first quarter, followed SOCIAL SERVICE under steady restraint when rounding the turn and, disposing of latter, held KING TODAY safe, but had little left. Latter, fractious at post and beginning slowly, closed boldly. SOCIAL SERVICE had speed from start, but weakened in final eighth. CABOTIN began fast, but could not keep up on the turn and continued to fall back in stretch. YANKEE WATERS dropped out of it after reaching the turn.

THIRD RACE—One mile (chute). Purse, $800; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:16. Off at 3:19½. Winner, O. W. Lehmann's b. f. Hy Ritzenberg Defeats Mangan in Wardman Park Tennis Tourney Surprise

Choice Bows In 3-Set Match

Two Invading Florida Stars Advance to Second Round.

A SLOW court and some surprisingly good tennis uncorked by Hy Ritzenberg yesterday resulted in Tom Mangan, seeded No. 2, being eliminated from the Wardman fall tournament 8—6, 2—6, 6—4 in the first round.

Mangan, runner-up for the District championship and City of Washington titles, found the courts not altogether adapted to his fast game, but in the opinion of many followers of the game, would have encountered difficulty subduing his unranked opponent under more auspicious circumstances.

No Other Upsets.

Other seeded players continued their usual first-round advancement Arthur Hendrix and Ray White, Floridian invaders, winning from Frank Roberts of Baltimore, and Colin Stam of Washington, respectively. Both of the out-of-town winners were extended to three sets in advancing to the second round.

Local players were seeded separately from out-of-town entrants, with Dooly Mitchell, Tom Mangan, Barney Welsh and Ralph McElvenny drawing the preferred local ratings in the order named. Hudson Hamm, Arthur Hendrix and Ray White, all from Florida, were seeded 1, 2, 3 in the out-of-town list.

Play for today is scheduled to open at 11 o'clock with women's singles. The men's singles play will start at noon.

Men's singles, first round—Hunt defeated Edwards, 6—1, 6—3; Hendrix defeated Roberts, 3—7, 6—3, 6—0; Ritzenberg defeated Mangan, 8—6, 2—6, 6—4; Willis defeated Beuchell, 6—1, 6—1; White defeated Stam, 13—11, 6—8, 6—0.

Women's singles, first round—Moore defeated Elliott, 6—1, 6—3; Keyser defeated Cochrane, 6—1, 6—1.

Today's Schedule.

Women's singles—First round, 11 o'clock. Marks vs. Block. Farber vs. Turney. Doucette vs. Bodoni. Sullivan vs. Colladay. Second round, 12 noon. Grimes vs. Johnson. Miller vs. Philpitt. Moore vs. Keyser. Butler vs. Graham. Tabler vs. Whitfield.

Men's singles—Preliminary round, 12 noon. Sidel vs. Moore. First round, 1 o'clock. Welsh vs. winner Siedel-Moore match; 2 o'clock, Garber vs. Borst; 4 o'clock: Taylor vs. Latona, Garnett vs. Hamm; 5 o'clock, Mitchell vs. Staubly, Shore vs. Aberley, Blade vs. Baker, Cowley vs. O'Neil, McElvenny vs. Trigg, Hermann vs. Buchanan.

Ross Keeps Title In Furious Fight

tenth, as they tore at each other like pit bull dogs, never backing, never lessening the hurricane of punches it seemed impossible to believe either could live through. It was an even, relentless battle. Ross seemed to have what little edge there was in the seventh and eighth, Canzoneri the margin in the ninth, and tenth with the eleventh even.

Had the fight ended at the tenth, as it did in Chicago in June when the title first changed to Ross' hands, there seemed little question but that Canzoneri, toast of the little fellows for the past half dozen years, would have been the first title-holder in lightweight history to regain his crown. But it seemed as though the desperate little Chicago warrior was just beginning.

Despite the terrific punishment he had taken, Ross called on his reserve. His body punching, so accurate and deadly the blows sounded all over the ball park, wore Canzoneri down steadily. Ross swept through twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth rounds, and the title was his to keep after tottering in as bitter an attack as any challenger ever unleashed.

At the Fight

By Westbrook Pegler.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Sept. 12 (Spl.).—There was quite a spirited dash of early trade toward the Polo Grounds this evening to take out claims on the unreserved seats as Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri waited in the ball club's dressing rooms for the boy to poke his head in and holler, "Come on and fight."

The unreserved seats were in the upper deck and in the far wings, a very long squint from the ring but the tariff up there was only $1.15, the cheapest quotation for a place at a world championship fight since Rickard first came to town. As darkness closed in on the grounds attendance began to populate the ringside sections, scattered about the Giants' infield and the short outfield.

Joe Humphreys Present.

Old Joe Humphreys, the living tradition, sat at the ringside waiting to throw his voice about as announcer for the main event. Mr. Humphreys had been ill for a long time and had missed the Sharkey-Carnera fight in Long Island City in June. It fretted him to hear that a tall and statesmanlike young orator named Harry Ballogh had hollered in his stead that night and made a pleasant impression on the patrons.

But this evening Mr. Ballogh, with his fancy politeness and elegant diction, was demoted to the rank of preliminary announcer, doing all the heavy yelling up to the time of the big fight and then Mr. Humphreys himself was to resume his old glory.

There was a total absence of dress-suit trade around the ring, although a few members of the old Rickard aristocracy were to be seen hither and yon in mufti. The night was cool, but no breeze penetrated the high walls of the ball park and the smoke of cigars and cigarettes hung like shrapnel bursts in the still air.

"Among Those Present."

There were not many persons around at that who could be identified at a glance as parties who used to be named in the official lists as "among those present" at prize-fights, first nights, testimonial banquets and parades. Possibly the old guard is losing interest in fights and possibly, too, the problem of ticket money has something to do with this.

George Getz, the amateur baboon fancier and prize-fight commissioner, had come on from Chicago to see that no outrage befell Barney Ross, who is one of his constituents, or if one should befall him, to see how it happens. Joe Triner, the chairman of the Illinois commission, was present also, but Packey McFarland, the third member of the Illinois board, had gone to Washington on business connected with his Joliet, Ill., brewery and was not known to have torn himself away in time to attend the evening's carnage.

Al (One-Fight) Jolson.

Al (One-Fight) Jolson, the hero of the bloodless slaughter in Hollywood a few weeks ago, was detected. Mr. Jolson always makes himself easy to detect on public occasions. There is talk of matching Mr. Jolson with the Man Who Socked Huey Long.

Frank Dailey, a bright and stylish party, who has been bobbing up at large sport events the world over for several years, visited the press rows to polish up old acquaintance and report that he is now in beer. Mr. Dailey would have been a wine agent if he had been born soon enough, but coming along to business life after the War he became a ginger-ale plugger.

Now, however, Mr. Dailey is, as he says, in beer and spends much time and considerable house-money visiting beer dens, where he buys pints of his company's wash for one and all. Since forsaking ginger ale, Mr. Dailey has married and also unmarried Mrs. Maxine Rickard, widow of Tex.

Newark Downs Rochester, 6-3

Newark, N. J., Sept. 12 (U.P.).—A brilliant rally in the seventh and eighth inning today carried the Newark Bears to a 6 to 3 victory over Rochester's Red Wings in the opening contest of their first place International League playoff series.

About 5,000 fans in Ruppert Stadium saw the Bears, champions of the league's Southern group, open this best three-out-of-five game series auspiciously against the Wings, leaders of the Northern division.

After Jim Weaver had allowed the Wings a 3 to 1 lead, the Bears solved Sheriff Blake's deliveries in the seventh and tied the count, 3 to 3, on Pinch-hitter Watwood's single.

In the eighth, Rolf singled, Hoag sacrificed and Saltzgaver drove him in with another single. George Puccinnelli, former Red Wing, then clamped the lid on tight with a smashing home run out of the park in left, the ball soaring high out of sight over the 350-foot marker.

Baltimore, Sept. 12 (AP).—The Buffalo Bison tonight pushed across two runs in the eleventh inning to beat the Baltimore Orioles 5 to 3 in the first of the International League playoffs here.

Tiger Nelson Returns To Rassle Wars Here

Old Wild Bill (Tigah) Nelson, master villain of the rassle world and the man of a thousand faces, storms Washington's mat realm again tomorrow night. In a 30-minute supporting bit to the double-header features, listing Wladek Zbyszko against Dick Shikat and Gino Garibaldi vs. Sol Slagel, Nelson ties up with Washington's newly established idol, clean-cut Paul Boesch.

Making himself solid with the local citizenry through his masterful defeat of Jack Zarnas last week, Boesch looms as the most popular youngster to invade Washington since the days of Dr. Ralph Wilson. He is numbered among the most promising youngsters showing under the Londos-White banner in many a day.

G. W.'s Varsity In Scrimmage With Cubs

Catholic U. Squad Told to Cut Loose; Danner to Coach G. U. Frosh.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

CAMP LETTS, Md., Sept. 12.—Aided by typical autumn weather, George Washington U. coaches began the tedious task of ironing out rumples in the work of their linemen. Both morning and afternoon sessions were devoted almost exclusively to the forward wall, which was functioning on all seven when a halt was called.

Coach Pixlee is determined to give the Colonials a potent line attack this year. Last season, the team boasted only a fast-running offensive around the flanks, backed up by a penetrating aerial attack. Its line plunging lacked the barbed points so necessary to effectiveness.

Following a custom which is becoming well established here, the frosh stood up before their elder brethern and took their daily dose of punishment in a 45-minute scrimmage. Another custom quite annoying to the varsity was the manner in which the cubs repulsed many thrusts at their first line of defense.

Don Bomba was hauled into the infirmary this morning, suffering from a broken nose. He will be sent to Washington for treatment and is expected to be out of action for 10 days at least. There were no casualties in the afternoon, however, when the roughest work of the day was done.

Full Steam Ahead For C. U.

Full steam ahead with no punches pulled will be the order issued by Coach "Dutch" Bergman today as his 1933 "Flying Cardinals" start down the stretch of their preparatory work for the impending season. Heretofore pacing his athletes into stride, the "Flying Dutchman" today will order all hands to cut loose.

"We're ready to go (physically and mentally)," Bergman declared after a brisk workout yesterday. "The boys have warmed up enough. Now's the time to show what they've got on the ball!"

Having rounded every man into fighting trim and hardened his athletes to the hard knocks of actual competion, Bergman will lay particular stress upon a hard boiled scrimmage which will spare no one.

Danner G. U. Frosh Coach.

Richard G. Danner, who starred on Hoya teams for three years, was yesterday appointed freshman coach of football at Georgetown University. In his freshman year Danner was captain of the plebe team and during his senior year was selected for the all-District football team.

The Georgetown squad went through two long workouts on a wet field yesterday. Some improvement was shown, but Hoya mentors still expressed themselves as being far from satisfied with the showing made. Fred Williamson, District boy, is making a fight for a line position and may be in the line-up for the opening game. The arrival of Alan Cohen, a guard, completed the squad.

Paul Kennedy, who suffered a badly strained shoulder in a workout day before yesterday, will be out of practice for 10 days or more, X-rays taken yesterday disclosed. Walter Voigt, who had several stitches taken over his eye as a result of injuries sustained in the same practice, will be back at heavy training within a few days.

Devitt Prep Practices.

The Devitt Prep football squad will take its first preseason practice today at 3 o'clock on the school grounds. Jim Mather, who was on last year's Devitt team, will captain the team this year.

Government Tennis.

Play in the consolation events of the Government employes' tennis tournament, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed till today because of wet courts.

Cricket vs. Baseball Arguments May Be Settled in Contest Here

Capital Sandlot Stars to Meet British at Own Game in Novel Clash Arranged by The Post for September 23.

A GROUP of the city's best amateur baseball players will engage the British-American Cricket Club team in a cricket match, arranged by the Washington Post, on Saturday, September 23.

The question of just how well a player of our National pastime would fare at cricket has been a subject of controversy whenever a British cricket player or enthusiast was within talking distance of an American baseball player or fan. This match is expected to settle the question once and for all.

The Americans will be represented by a team of outstanding sandlot players who will carry with them into the game only a rudimentary knowledge of cricket and plenty of baseball spirit. The British-American Cricket Club team is one of the better elevens dedicated to the ancient British game. They recently showed to advantage against the Cambridge Vandals in an exhibition game played here.

The game will be scheduled for 2 o'clock and will be played at some central location, easily accessible to the public, which will be admitted free. A suitable award, donated by The Washingotn Post, will be given to the winning team.

Salt Lake City, Sept. 12 (AP).—Robert Burns Donohoo, 14, died today from injuries received in a football game at the Draper Junior High School near here yesterday.

Dr. R. W. Quick, the attending physician, reported the boy suffered a cerebral concussion, hemorrhage and a possible basal skull fracture when he bumped his head against another boy's knee.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 12 (AP).—Noot Wilson, 19-year-old freshman at Howard College, died late today from injuries received a few hours previously in football scrimmage with the varsity eleven.

Wilson, whose home was at Guin, Ala., collapsed on the field, William H. Bancroft, jr., freshman coach, said as the team started down the field for a kick-off.

Physicians said he died of concussion of the brain and hemorrhage of an artery.

Walt Mason, Himself

At the Cleaners.

We've been taken to the cleaner, all of us, the high and low; chastened now is our demeanor as we journey to and fro; we have felt misfortune's switches, we have fallen in the ditches, and no man can show the riches that he had five years ago. We've been taken to the cleaner, all the delegates in sight; your misfortunes are no keener than the woes of t'other wight; every gent has had his losses, and financial double-crosses, till, forsaking all his josses, he disturbed with wails the night. But the clouded skies are clearing, says the prophet, in his den, and that better day is nearing long desired by stricken men; pretty soon we'll have our chances, as prosperity advances, to engage in merry dances and to sing and smile again. Every gent has been a student of the hole in which he's mired, and he says he will be prudent when the blamed old slump is fired; once when all the world was sunny he was blowing in his money with a recklessness most funny—now such conduct makes him tired. We've been taken to the cleaner, we have lost our bottom buck, and we live on mildewed weiner where we once had mallard duck; but we'll make a better showing when the weary slump is going, and our wisdom will be glowing, in the mire we won't be stuck.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

NEW YORK.—Once during a gala concert, a tattered, woe-begone fellow wandered into Fritz Kreisler's dressing room. Picking up the virtuoso's invaluable Stradivarius, he was picking and sawing upon it when in walked Kreisler.

Before he could say a word in protest, the mysterious visitor grabbed and shook his hand, saying "I think you're a swell fiddler," and then he raced from the room like a shot.

Speaking of violinists, Jascha Heifetz is terribly absent minded. But, what worries him more is fear of getting a double chin from holding his violin.

Leopold Stokowski, the conductor, is a stern taskmaster with his musicians. Nevertheless, he is very popular with them, and when he recently returned from Europe they purchased a gift to be presented him at the first rehearsal.

In walked Stokowski, stepped briskly to the dais, tapped his baton, and said, "Gentlemen, we begin at once." No greetings, hellos or opportunity to present him his gift.

F. D. and a Fisherman.

While the President was at anchor in Penobscot Bay (writes a Maine correspondent), a native lobster fisherman, age 82, was rowing his battered craft one morning gathering up his catch. A sentinel, sighting him, scurried out in a tender, and said, "You can't stay here. The President is in that boat."

"President of what?" asked the puzzled fisherman.

"President of the United States," he was told.

"Great heavens," gulped the old man. "Here, take this on board for his lunch," and he turned over his catch of lobsters.

A few minutes later the fisherman was hailed from the Amberjack. "Mr. Roosevelt wants you to come on board for lunch."

Shortly afterwards a boatload of high dignitaries came out, but they had to wait until the President had had lunch with the old fisherman.

The Show Went On.

Despite the fact that it received the most disparaging critical reviews ever given any play on Broadway, "The Squall," through the machinations of a clever press agent, managed to run more than a year.

But what is more striking is the unusual number of now famous players who were in the cast of that long run failure at one time or other. Among them were Sylvia Sidney (in a blonde wig), Arthur Byron, Blanche Yurka, Pedro de Cordoba, Hortense Alden, Romney Brent, Warren Hymer, Walter Connolly, Dorothy Stickney, Barbara Bulgakov, Horace Braham, Suzanne Caubaye and Albert Hackett.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Cancer and Inheritance.

The average person over 50 years of age stands one chance in ten of dying from cancer. The other nine chances are divided between the heart diseases, which head the list, the pneumonias, apoplexy, Bright's disease, prostatic enlargement, diabetes, automobile accidents, and a galaxy of diseases of less importance.

There are some families in which the chances of dying from cancer is as high as one in five. Such families are sometimes designated as cancer families. It is generally accepted that to a certain degree and in a certain sense cancer, or a weakness toward cancer, is an inheritable quality in human beings. It is known that in some animals this tendency toward cancer inheritance is much greater than it is in humans. There is a variety of mouse in which this tendency is so great that the family is sometimes called the cancer mice.

Dr. Maude Slye has devoted most of her life to this point in studying the inheritance of cancer as she has observed it in this mouse family. Her opinions are accepted as the last word, so far as concerns mouse cancer. Those who do not think inheritance to be an important factor in cancer in human beings make no effort to challenge what Dr. Slye says about mouse cancer. They go no farther than to say that men are not mice and conclusions as to mouse cancer do not apply to human cancer.

The opposing opinions are read and pondered by Dr. Slye but she continues with her work without being unduly influenced by them. She is raising mice that are more than 100 generations removed from the mice with which she started. One hundred human generations would nearly carry us back to the Garden of Eden.

The individuals in this more than one hundred years have been observed daily. Diaries have been kept for them. When they died autopsies have been made.

Dr. Slye is of the opinion that inheritance is no negligible factor in human cancer though of course far less so than in mice cancer. A part of her opinion is that people, by the selection of their husbands or wives can increase or decrease their susceptibility to cancer. In two generations of wise selection of marital mates a definite cancer tendency can be wiped out of a family strain.

Dairy Farmers Fight "Czars" In Association

Management Accused as "Milk Trust" Tie-Up Is Revealed.

Formation of a protective committee of dairy farmers shared interest yesterday in the Senate "milk trust" investigation with the revelation of a "tie-up" between the Cloverland Farms and Western Maryland-Fairfield Farms Dairies.

Members of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association are forming the protective group to combat alleged czarist methods within the association's management. Isaac Heaps, head of the Eastern States Milk Marketing Association, and John McGill, of the Maryland-Virginia association, are accused of forcing farmers to join and then paying them low prices.

The late Charles Bowman held 50 per cent of Cloverland's issued stock at the same time he headed Western Maryland-Fairfield, it was disclosed yesterday by Elwood Seal, special investigator for the Senate District Committee. Bowman purchased the stock shortly before selling out Western Maryland-Fairfield to the National Dairy Products Corporation.

Mr. Bowman continued to hold the Cloverland stock, at the same time serving as a director in National Dairy, until his death several weeks ago.

Mr. Seal has an appointment at 2:30 p. m. today to interview Samuel M. Shoemaker, president of the Maryland University board of regents, in Eccleston, Md. Shoemaker is said to have recommended Dr. Clyde King for the post of Washington-Baltimore milk markets arbitrator in 1929.

Government to Replace 6 Gauges Along Rivers

One river gauge in Washington and five in Virginia will be replaced at a cost of about $1,000 each, the Public Works Administration assured yesterday when it allotted $150,000 of public works funds to gauge reconstruction throughout the country.

The money will be turned over to the Weather Bureau, which maintains gauges as part of their flood warning service. A survey to decide which ones shall be replaced is being made but has not been completed. The stations will be on both the James and the Potomac rivers.

Civil Service Starts Trial Of Appeal Unit

Conciliation Boards for Each Bureau Due if Plan Works.

A plan for adjusting complaints of Federal employes who feel they have been discriminated against yesterday was placed on trial operation within the Civil Service Commission.

The new set-up, which has the approval of President Roosevelt, calls for a system of conciliation committees in various bureaus, with the right of appeal to the board of appeals and review of the Civil Service Commission and eventually to the commission itself.

The commission, which has as yet no authority to compel the various departments to follow the plan, nevertheless will recommend that they comply voluntarily.

As exclusively reported in The Washington Post several weeks ago, the plan is modeled after the Whitley councils now operating in the British civil service. At least one conciliation committee would be located in each Federal entity, and its membership made up of an equal number of heads of divisions or other superior officers and employes. Any employe could bring a complaint before this body. Lacking a majority decision on any complaint, an odd member would be called in, whose opinion would be deciding.

The conciliation committee set-up yesterday by the Civil Service Commission comprises Ismar Baruch, chief of the personnel classification division; Farrar Smith, manager of the Fourth Civil Service District; Laura L. Tracy, chief of the clerical examination section; John Q. Cannon, examiner; Ernest G. Dodge, examiner, and Maude V. Carter, civil service adviser.

Discord!

Thieves Pick Instruments Easiest to play and Run Out.

"The saxophone," Brown answered.

The clerk turned his attention for a moment and returning, found one of the men had gone and the other walking from the store. On a shelf were two vacant spaces where a saxophone and trumpet had rested.

Brown and Thompson and a policeman gave chase, but were outdistanced. Loss was estimated at $245.

Calvert Bridge Building Cash Expected Soon

Release of funds by Director of the Budget Lewis W. Douglas, with which the District can begin construction of the new Calvert Street Bridge is expected within a few days.

Yesterday the Fine Arts Commission notified the District Commissioners of its approval for the design. The Commissioners ordered final specifications at once.

The District Commissioners said they had no definite word that Douglas would make the money available, but it was learned he will probably take favorable action soon.

Release of the money will be a victory for Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, who has been fighting for the funds since the Commissioners' first application two months ago.

A three-arch masonry bridge is designed. Paul Cret, architect affiliated with Modjeski, Masters and Chase, of Philadelphia, made the design.

Douglas' anticipated action will release $1,500,000 in surplus gasoline and water tax money of the District. Of this $575,000 is authorized by Congress for the bridge. The remainder will go for street improvements.

The new structure will be erected on the line of the present bridge, now being carefully watched for fear that it is dangerous to traffic.

The design is for rubble stone masonry structure and contemplates that ultimately a common bridge head will be built for it and the Taft Bridge.

Capital Drive Rebuffs Amaze NRA Women

Some Housewives Slam Doors; Think Workers Receive Wages.

Slammed doors and snappy remarks are greeting many NRA women here because of a belief workers are being paid, it was learned last night.

Miss Etta Taggart, colonel of the women's division, said certain housewives refused to sign pledge cards because of the erroneous impression.

"It is amazing," said Miss Taggart, "that ignorance exists about operation of the President's Recovery program, but it does exist right here in the Nation's capital.

Some Remain Unconcerned.

"Efforts of some volunteer women canvassers to explain they were sacrificing time in this work have been greeted, in many cases, with skeptical looks or remarks."

Despite this, 700 pledge cards had been signed yesterday. Three apartment houses signed 100 per cent and another apartment house 99. One apartment tenant refused to sign.

Raymond J. Walter, major in charge of complaints, reported 117 cases handled in the past week—charges against employers of failure to comply with codes. Forty-seven cases have been adjudicated. Little trouble is encountered in obtaining employers' agreement with codes when details are explained, Walter said.

Takes Role of Judge.

He found himself in a municipal court judge's role when confronted by a chain restaurant manager, an employe and a policeman. The employe, angered because money had been deducted from his pay for meals, tore a Blue Eagle from the restaurant window, it was charged. Policeman J. E. Yost agreed not to arrest the employe until the case had been presented to the NRA.

The restaurant manager, according to Walter, said he did not know it was improper to deduct for employes' meals unless this was the practice before June 16. He agreed to comply and let the employ return.

Polite Purse Snatcher Makes Haul of $10

"Pardon me, do the buses pass here?"

Before Mrs. Henry C. Cook, of the Wardman Park Hotel could answer the polite young man, her purse, containing $10 and a scarf, had been snatched. The man escaped in a car parked nearby. The robbery occurred at Sixteenth and Buchanan streets northwest.

U. S. Employes Slate Babcock As President

Group in Session Here Votes to Make Post Full-Time Job.

The American Federation of Government Employes yesterday paved the way for election of E. Claude Babcock, former secretary of the Civil Service Commission, as national president of the labor-affiliated employe organization.

Delegates to the second annual convention at the Hamilton Hotel voted to make a full-time job of the national presidency and to combine the offices of secretary and treasurer and make it a full-time assignment.

The step was interpreted as a preliminary to the election of Babcock, who has indicated a willingness to resign from the Civil Service Commission to accept the full-time office. Only a last minute upset can block his choice.

The election is slated for late today or tomorrow.

Reform Program.

Meanwhile, the federation's resolutions committee prepared to submit a 21-point program for Federal employe reform, with restoration of pay, a 30-hour work week and repeal of the marital status law, capping the list.

The committee also will recommend extension of classification to the field, extension of the merit system, 30-year optional retirement, broadening of the powers of the Civil Service Commission, employe representation on all personnel bodies and equal pay for equal work.

Clarke McLean, treasurer of the organization for the past year, and Miss Esther Penn, of Seattle, Wash., one of the vice presidents, are leading the ticket in a close race for the secretary-treasurership.

Sees Pay Cut Restored.

Addressing the annual banquet of the organization last night, Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, predicted the day is not distant when Federal furloughs will disappear, and employes will be restored to full pay.

Other speakers included Michael Schaeffer, District president; David R. Glass, national vice president; Cecil Custer, national secretary and Richard Dickson, president of the Central Labor Union. Presentation of a desk set to Mr. Custer in recogniton of services was a feature of the banquet.

Chairman Harry B. Mitchell, of the Civil Service Commission, will address the convention this morning.

Though born in Winston-Salem, N. C., she has lived in New York City since she was 2 years old. Her mother, a pianist, is a niece of Carl Seidel, famous piano teacher of Leipzig, Germany.

Court Asked to Force Tax Returns by Four

The District Commissioners yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to issue decrees requiring four Washingtonians to file with the Commissioners a personal property tax return for the fiscal year ended in June, 1933.

The Commissioners informed the court that the four had "neglected or refused" to file the returns, which are needed in order to obtain a valuation for assessments. Those named were Katherine L. Kernan and Genevieve Lee, both of the Broadmoor apartments, W. I. Plant, 36 R street northeast, and Park Hotel.

Washing and Sewing Jobs Scarce, and She Sees No Hope Ahead.

A mother and six children who have been waging a gallant fight against poverty seem doomed to defeat.

According to Mrs. Grace Gilroy, 32, of 513 D street southeast, her husband left three months ago and the family is in dire circumstances. The $9 a week he sends is not enough to keep the children fed and clothed.

She has taken in washing and sewing to keep from sending the children, ranging from 2 to 11 years, to an orphans' home, but jobs are getting scarce, she says.

However, the most discouraging blow of all she will lose her home Friday. She has been living with her stepsister, Mrs. Mary Henderson, but the Hendersons are moving to a smaller home. She doesn't know where to go, or what to do.

Mrs. Gilroy has a lot of pride, she says, and has fought her battle without complaint, but in addition to her other troubles, she worries because she can not send her oldest children to school.

Mrs. Gilroy says she would "give it all up" if not for the children. All she wants now, she says, is work to do, a chance to keep a roof over her children, and an honest "break" in life.

Roosevelt Honors Gompers' Memory

Invitation to Memorial Dedication Accepted.

President Roosevelt yesterday accepted an invitation of the American Federation of Labor to attend the unveiling of the Samuel Gompers Memorial at Eleventh street and Massachusetts avenue northwest, on October 7.

William Green, President of the Federation, and the Executive Council, also invited the President to attend the convention of the Federation on October 2. He declined as he expects to be in Hyde Park on that date.

The Memorial is a group of statuary between Tenth and Eleventh streets on the north side of Massachusetts avenue, showing Gompers, first president of the Federation, surrounded by allegorial figures. About $100,000 for the memorial was raised several years ago construction has been under way this summer.

Race Bell!

Traffic Law Violators May Take Choice of Court, School.

Under a proposed safety program of the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee minor traffic infractions will be settled in school rather than in court.

Violators will be sent to instruction classes and "repeaters" will be "kept in" after hours.

C. Phillips Hill, subcommittee chairman, presented the proposed plan before a luncheon meeting in Sholl's Restaurant yesterday. He outlined programs of several Western cities, now operating traffic schools.

The need of placing Washington taxicabs under the NRA was discussed by the committee. It was recommended that a provision for meters in place of zone fares be included in any code affecting District taxis.

10,000 Watch Fairy Tabloid Given Here

"Alice in Wonderland" Presented at Sylvan Theater.

Alice and her friends from Wonderland and the Looking-Glass House came to life last night at the National Sylvan Theater as the Community Center Department presented its last summer musical festival before an audience of 10,000.

The Army Band, under direction of Capt. William J. Stannard, gave a concert preceding the tabloid from "Alice in Wonderland," abridged by Bess Davis Schreiner from the work of Lewis Carroll.

Evelyn Davis, one of Washington's coming dancers, carried the title role. Miss Davis proved an ideal Alice, one Lewis Carroll, as well as the real one (Alice Liddell Hargreaves), might be proud.

Many in Cast.

All the favorites came in for a share of the fun, with Anne Ives, Maud Howell Smith, Theodore Tiller 2d, Chester Ring, Paul Walter, Marvin Beers, Kent Dyer, George Farrington, Eldred Wilson, M. Forney Reese, Carl Carlson, John Sikkon, Maurice Jarvis, Lisa Gardiner, Wilbur Betts, Edna Vomachka, Christine Stewart and George Herl. Denis E. Connell staged the performance.

Complementing the acting was the accompaniment by Edward E. Muth, arranged and played by the Bernheimer Trio—Clara Moran Bernheimer, piano; Elizabeth Bernheimer, violin; Louise Bernheimer, cello.

The ballet work was devised by Lisa Gardiner and given by her students, Greta Atkins, Marjorie Beall, Elizabeth Berkely, Irene Bontz, Vivian Dawson, Mary Day, Leila Gurley, Alice Louise Hunter, Kathleen Piazza, Polly Prickett, Frances Rands, Faye Rogers, Marie Ryan, Fillis Speich, Christine Stewart, Eda Vomachka, Anne Vucinovich, Charlotte Walton, Esther Whited, Nancy Williard, Lora Wills, Betty Yoder.

In the Army Band's portion of the program, "An Appeal to the Great Spirit," by Maj. R. J. Hernandez, U. S. A., retired, was played by Musician Charles Barnes, with Musicians William F. Raymond and Clarence Hurrel, trombonists, answering from the Monument Grounds, the clarion call of the solo trumpet. The composer directed.

"Alice in Wonderland" will be repeated this evening at the Slyvan Theater. In case of inclement weather, the presentation will be at Central High School.

City Asks Data On Baker Costs

Firms Asked to Submit Figures on Delivery, Manufacture.

Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel investigating bread prices, yesterday requested the city's baking firms to supply him with data on their total cost of manufacture and delivery.

Already Lynch had received figures showing what bread ingredients cost. These figures, he said, have been found accurate.

The investigator asked the baking firms to submit figures showing all costs, this information to be given for each month back to last March.

Meanwhile, a charge of "downright misrepresentation" was made against Washington bakeries by Andrew A. Myrup, secretary-treasurer of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union.

"It has come to my attention," he said, "that Washington bakers are making unwarranted assertions. If bakery owners claim any increase in bread prices is caused by or justified by any increase in labor cost, the statement is nothing less than downright misrepresentation."

City Fair Furore Goes on Unabated

55 Ticket Takers and Other Workers Want Pay.

They claim $800, having been employed at the rate of $2.16 a day. Their working hours, they complain, were 12 hours a day, despite the fact that the fair displayed an NRA Blue Eagle.
